Dialogue Between a Socialist and a Democrat.

PROGRESS AND RE-ACTION.

Why the Socialist Sees Little Difference Between Capitalist Political Parties.

Doctor.-Well, Mr. Socialist, they tell me you can't see much difference between us democrats and the republi-

Socialist.-There is no practical difference between a republican and a democrat in my humble judgment, The only difference is quite a superficial one-the same difference that there is between a man who would do a good deed but does not know how, and the man who would not if he could. No practical difference, sir, Doctor .- I don't see. Socialist.-Why, the democrats pretend that they recognize the evils that afflict us, and the rank and file of the party (NOT THE MANAGERS AND SLUSH FUND CONTRIBUTORS, MIND YOU), seem earnest in their desire to better matters, but their efforts must always remain futile because, (to use your own parlance, doctor), they cannot properly diagnose the public case and hence prescribe the proper medicine to effect a cure. On the other hand, the republicans deny that the public has cause for complaint. They claffer that the democrats are seeking to poison a well man with their freetrade-free-silver-anti-expansion po tion. The republicans are the Christian Scientists of politics. Their invarlable prescription is: "There is nothing really the matter with the country. It is a disease of the mind. Just let the people imagine that everything is all right and the whole trouble will have an end." Eh, doctor?

Doctor.-That is the republican formula to a dot. But I think you are wrong in regard to the efficiency of the democratic nostrum. Now, Mr. Socialist, do you at all doubt that with a ocratic president, house and seaate, the trusts can be legislated out of Socialist .- Yes, sir, I surely deny that you can in any way retard the progress of the trust idea. The trust is a natural outgrowth of industry. The trust (or in other words "CO-OPERATION"), rises out of the asher of that much-worshipped folly, COM-PETITION. Even granting that you could destroy the trust, such action would be a step backward in the progress of the race and a POSITIVE IN-JURY TO MANKIND.

Doctor.-Why, my dear sir, do you contend that the trust is a righteous socialist.-Yes and no. The trust is like a good many other things; in the right hands it is a blessing, in the wrong hands it is a curse. What I do contend is that the trust (or "co-operation") is as far ahead of the old competitive system as a locomotive is of an ox wagon. The trust curtails waste and accomplishes a great saving of la- ism would alleviate are merely sympbor in the departments of production toms of the malady we Socialists call to produce a thing th ough the medi- the private ownership of the instru um of one great co-operative concern through the medium of the twenty small competing concerns. Hence the the public benefit, and also the men who have before worked in the comnall wages could all of them be employed by the great co-operative conat better wages.

Doctor.—But, my dear sir, -

Socialist.-Wait just a minute. ow what you are going to say, but first let me give you a practical illustration of the value of co-operation or what is the hest organized trust in the country? No? Well, it is the United vantages of this great trust every day Now, suppose the government were out of the business and there were twenty separate mail carrying institutions competing for the business of the coun Twenty postoffices where there is clerks and carriers where there is now one. Do you think you could get a letfive cents? That is a practical illustration, I hope, of the value of the trust. Now doctor, I am ready for

Doctor.-You have based your de fense of the trust on the proposition that it lessens the cost of production, therefore making the article cheaper for the public and at the same time by

TRUSTS AND SILVER employe of a trust ever had his wages raised or his workday shortened, except as some trade union obtained it by fighting for it? Socialist.-Exactly.

Doctor .- How on earth, then, can you advocate an institution whose only purpose seems to be robbery?

Socialist .- Now, I see we are getting to the point. Please remember that I said before that the trust is like a good many other things; in the right hands it is a blessing, in the wrong hands, a curse. The trouble, my dear doctor, is not in the trust as an institution, but in the manner in which the trust is manipulated. The trust in itself is a great economic institution, but under the present unfair distribution of capital in this country the enormous advantages of the trusts all accrue, not to the public or to the producers, but to one small class of capitalists. great saving in production and distri-bution resulting from co-operation is diverted from its proper channel and turned into the pockets of the rich. Doctor-Um-well-what then is you plan for dealing with the trust?

Socialist .- I would say let the public own and operate all the instruments of production and distribution, all the factories, mines, railroads, telegraphs etc., just as they now do the postoffices, highways and public school system. Let every citizen be a capitalist as well as a worker. Then there will be no waste of labor and every man by working a .FEW HOURS EACH DAY AT SOME USEFUL EMPLOY-MENT MAY EARN A SPLENDID LIVELIHOOD.

Doctor .- But how may this be at tained? Would you seize by force the property of the rich?

Socialist .- Oh, no. No such proceeding as that would be necessary. All the government has to do, if the capitalists refuse to sell on fair terms, is to establish plants of its own and sell goods at cost price, so that the advantages of co-operation may be reaped by the people themselves, and the whole system of private ownership would vanish as if by magic. No private concern manufacturing for profit can compete with the government manufacturing for use only. Do I make the matter plain to you?

Doctor.-Um-yes, I think I understaand. But how about bimetalism? That is one plank I hope we agree on.

Socialist .- I can't swallow bimetaism, either. I will explain my views on free silver after your own manner-Doctor.-How is that?

Socialist .- Why after the manner of a physician. Now, dector, suppose you vere called to the bedside of a sick man, the first thing you would do would be to acquaint yourself with all the symptoms of the disease, would you

Dector .- Certainly.

Socialist.-Well, having ascertained o much concerning his case would you proceed to allay or rather beat back some certain one of those symptoms and no more, or would you attack the very groundwork of his disease?

Doctor .- I would fight the disease in its entirety to the best of my skill. Socialist .- Exactly. And our country's ailments present a perfect analo The panies, financial manipula tions, trade depressions, all the multitude of evils which you claim bimetal and distribution. It requires less labor CAPITALISM. Under capitalism o ments of production, the worker is paid not more than ONE FOURTH of the amount which the public pays for the product of his labor. The other three fourths is either wasted in the war or is swallowed in the millionaire' profits. The worker is supposed to buy product of his labor. He can't do it therefore his capitalist employer seeks e must perforce shut down his factory and, a panic ensues. So you se this panic which you claim the gold standard brought about really resulted from the fact that the people out of buy back every article their labor had produced. Hence, overproduction, no work, starvation. Under socialism, or public ownership of the instrument of production, all this waste of competition and capitalist's profits will panic will be forever abolished and we will then have the first country on the ty and the pursuit of happiness.

"My recent investigations of the trade My recent investigations of the trade-conditions in this country have revealed to me how marvelously the English in-dustrial classes have advanced luring the last ten years. Their unions ramify throughout the whole kingdom. They are becoming educated respecting their rights and the best methods of man-taining them. In the first place both were equal in the measure of disgusting flattery with which they plastered their audience In recounting the story of what organized labor had accomplished, in their alleged devotion to the principles of the eight-hour day, arbitration, factory in spection, reduction of hours of labor for children, etc., neither could claim any particular pre-eminence. But both were also essentially capitalist. Both treated the wage system as a perma nent institution. Both urged the labor er to strive for better conditions of life and both proposed to keep in powe the class whose opposition would make his efforts fruitless. The workingma who may accept the political ideas rep resented by either makes his choice between the devil and the deep sea, bu in the end experience teaches, and i that fact lies the hope for socialism.

A QUESTION OF PREFERENCE.

Among the many minor "issues" be brought to the attention of th workers during the coming campaign petty capitalism respectively, this que tion of the relative desirability of large standing army or an organize state militia, perhaps shows more that anything else the strong conviction that exists in the capitalist mind as t the utter and absolute idiocy of th workingmen to whom they present as an "issue." To those who under stand in the main the positions take by Republican and Democratic politi cians upon broad economic question it is needless to say that the forme favor a large force of regular troop to act as they term it as "national or licemen" while the latter true to the reactionary principles advocate the or ganization of a state militia for th same purpose. The party of great car tralism see in the regular troops a improved and more effective machin for the repression of possible revo emonest their wage slaves, while th champlons of petty exploitation, cosistent in this as in other things, sti desire to retain the antiquated cumbe some, expensive state militia as th instrument for the preservation of small capitalist "law" and order Looked at merely as a capitalist que tion alone, and eliminating for a m ment the use of a large standing arm for the purpose of "opening up" fresh markets for capitalism abroad, it would certainly seem as if the advo cates of the "national policeman" have far and away the best of the argument. They understand that the "nationa policeman," i. e., regular soldier, re cruited as he is indiscriminately from all parts of the country, is superior as a weapon in their hands to the state militiaman. They see that the former has no local affiliations, no neighborly equaintance with the inhabitants of any manufacturing center against which his weapons are to be used in the interests of his masters. They see on the other hand that with the growth of socialism and general discontenarising out of their "prosperity," a local body is not nearly so trustworthy, as professional fighters gathered proion and whose only idea of solidarity is that which exists within their corps that the regular soldier possesses through his training a far larger share of that "blind obedience" which destroys all scruples on the taking of human life, and makes murder appear an honorable trade. And finally they comprehend that the more efficient weapon is after all the least expensive, which means that a larger amount of the borers will remain in the pessession of their class, when the necessary outlay for the repression of those laborers is educed to the smallest possible amount, and more efficiency secured at the same time. But what is to be capitalist press of the city devoted of workers who are in reality asked ular troops or the local militia? How to them? will they answer at the ballot box when asked to select their executioners? Will they, bearkening to the through the artiquated tube of the big Cattery masses for argument and to bore Springfield rifle? Or will they prehigh velocity pellet from the modern "national" or "state policeman" would

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

The Republicans may be expected to work the "prosperity" racket for all it s worth in the coming campaign. Aleady they are beginning to boast of the increased number of men employed by the railroads, and in due time other branches of industry will also be touted as examples. It is true that work is being increasingly piled upon the shoulders of some of the workers, but those mployed earn but a scanty living at best. The truest evidence of the Republican brand of "prosperity," howver, can be found in the increased dividends which accrue to the workers, the "owners" of the means of production and distribution.

One Winifred Black, a writer on the hicago American, has written an artile bewailing the useless and unhappy life of the late Collis P. Huntington who was debarred from enjoying the treasures of art and literature which he had purchased, by the necessity which compelled him to remain a mere money-getter. The lady then relates an incident which occurred at a country picnic, in which some of her friends were discussing this question.

One of the men present asserted that he would rather be able to enjoy a book or a picture than be a millionaire deprived of such pleasure. His wife then said proudly that she would rather have erence to organizer's tour; State Coma husband like that than be the wife of a billionaire.

All of which is no doubt very pretty and sentimental, but circumstances alter cases. If this man happened to be one of the locked-out workers in the building trades, and his wife involved ganized). in the conditions consequent thereto does mayone think that their contempt for the millionaire would assert itself as strongly as it did at that pleasant pienic party? Is it not far more probable that their present material wants would have made money, and plenty of it, appear as the most desirable thing

The capture of Tien-Tsin and Pekin. gives the Chinese people a last glimpse of the old barbaric method of plunder tims of war, The looting and plunderlow reminds one of the stories of the sacking of cities in the middle ages. But all this will be changed as soon as capitalistic "order" is restored. A new era, bringing with it a new form of of China. The visible thief with his crude methods of robbery, will disappear, and the impersonal, invisible thief, will take his place. The Chinese bor; and that as shooting, by either will be robbed in a manner of which they at present can have but a very indistinct conception, but the result will be much the same. They will be de-prived of their real property, the proout of this program, they are only interested in making it altogether imduct of their labor, and will be left in much the same state as if they had been looted by the armies of advancing 'civilization."

> The encampment of the G. A. R. recently held in this city shows plainly enough that the veteran survivors of the "late unpleasantness" look not only much the worse for the ravages of time, but that their material conditions also do not seem much better than their physical. And yet there is no doubt that the majority, aye, the great majority of these men enlisted for the conflict thirty-five years ago, through the noblest of motives, yet as a result they have to complain of a government which exists only by virtue of their self-sacrifice.

How would it be to hold, as a contrast, another encampment of the conovernment during that conflict? Many our millionaire class, and they will have no complaint against the government.

This world is evidently becoming very tiresome to many of the citizens of Thirty-two suicides in August is the record, and a large proportion of these "shuffled off this mortal coll" by the agency of carbolic acid. If this particular mode of exit grows in favor we may expect to see some of our enterprising business men form a scription lists of the National Camtrust for the control of this product, so as to get the most out of those who select this manner of teaving the world. the cause

The death of the late Dr. Schmidt may serve to call the attention of some of those Bryan shouters who are under the impression that the Socialist vote is taken whelly from the Democratic party, that when Dr. Schmidt some years ago received the votes of 12,000 verkipsmen, it brought defeat to the Republicans, Carter Harrison the elder, being elected.

Slowly but surely, ideas peculiarly 'American," are permeating the "effete monarchies of Europe." In England a judicial luminary, fired no doubt by the example of the notorious Justice Freed man, in his recent dealings with th New York cigarmakers, "enjoined" the strikers on a British railroad from askng the non-union men to quit work.

Puck's saying "what fools these mortals be," might be paraphrased in vie of the strength displayed by organized labor on Labor Day and their weakne on election day, to read, "what fools these workers are."

WRITTEN BY E. M. STANGLAND.

We are coming, Debs and Harriman, One Milfion Voters Strong. We come from shops and mines, from fields and plains with joyous song, We'll teach the ruling class a point on how to right the wrong,

> While we are marching on. Hall the social Revolution, Cheer the peaceful Revolution, Speed the coming Revolution. The Brotherhood of man

Men and women, children too, are crying out for bread.

In their faces hopeless misery and sorrow can be read. We will tell them to be cheerful; we will say: "Lift up your head," For we are marching on!

Our mission is to introduce the glorious commonwealth, And give each one an equal chance in pleasure, work and health, No dudes nor idle parasites to plunder us by stealth. For we are marching on!

Our army is composed of men who do the world's work, In realms of brawn and realms of brain the task we do not shirk.; We have no use for swords or pistols, cannon, powder, dirk, When we are marching on. Chorus:-

We'll give you Debs and Harriman, ten hundred thousand votes. We'll make the welkin ring again with our triumphant notes. We'll make the politician ask what all this noise denotes When we are marching on!

The night of competition is about to pass away, The Brotherhood of men will bring us all a happy day, T'will break the chains of slavery and misery allay, And we are marching on.

Chorus:-The day of small things now has passed, the trusts intend to stay. But OUR UNIVERSAL TRUST will take the trusts some day, We'll all be in it; we'll be in it; we'll sing and shout hurray!

While we are marching on! Chorus:-

Republicans and Democrats we equally will doubt. The one kills niggers far away, the other in the South. False friends they are to workingmen we long ago found out, And we are marching on.

With charity to all mankind and malice toward none, We yet remember Homestead strike, and later Hazelton And bull pens too-we keep account-till victory is won, While we are marching on.

Then, comrades, let us work and vote for Debs and Harriman. Roll up the vote, keep up the work from Maine to Rio Grande, Wage slavery must cease and men be free throughout the land. For we are marching on!

Chorus:-

NO SUCH AD EVER HAD EVER HA ism at the burial of Wilhelm Liebknecht. The following account speaks for itself as to the position, strength, and clearness of the Socialist movement in Germany .- (ED.):

The saddest, but at the same time the most glorious and inspiring function I have ever witnessed, is over, and our comrade Wilhelm Liebknecht is at rest in his honored grave.

With heavy hearts we arrived at Ber-lin. To me the sense of personal loss grew keener as we neared Charlottenburg, and it was with a sinking heart that I climbed the stairs to the wellknown and modest fourth floor flat in the Kantstrasse. Many times before had Liebknecht cheerily accompanied me, and now the home he loved so well for all that the whole funeral is indescribable. No written or spoken words can convey any sense whatever of its simplicity, its grandeur, and its best I can use. From seven o'clock this morning tens of thousands of people from all parts of Germany poured into Berlin, and when we reached Charlottenburg we found a living sea of humanity. Once more we ascended to Liebknecht's rooms to take a last farewell. In his sitting-room we found him reposing on the lid of the coffin inscription in bronze which was presented to him by his fellow Reichstag The body had been partially embalmed that covering, and personally I felt that I would rather remember him as I knew him living, with cheery face and laughing eye. A moment we stood, and then we joined at a rendezvous the staff, and the foreign delegates. Then, first to comprehend that the era of tutelage is past and that there can no longer be any talk of good and bad masters. In the same way it is time for the women to know better than to be corrupted by promises of little baubles to be given to those who are willing to play the role of puppets. We come to show them the true value of these promises; to point out that their cowardice and their egoism are being made the gages of their servitude.

The progress of the proletariat on the road to freedom is measured by the development within their ranks of the spirit of justice and solidarity, which alternately illuminates and revivifies, It is a new religion awakening the conscience and calling to combat with the modern weapons of education, organization and the ballot.

Do the women wish to use the same weapons as the men? Why do they refuse the only weapons which at this time are effective in the proletarian revolt? Do not all the proletarians, men and women, suffer equally from hunger, cold, nakedness and overwork? The woman is affected even more than the man by these miseries, and shall she therefore be dealed the right of access to the only effective means of defense? Do the women suffer less than the men from the deprivation of the opportunity of cultivating, developing and realizing their mind. And is not such a deadening of an intellect always a injury to the whole proletariat?

Is war a lighter blow to the woman than to the man? For every man that falls upon the battlefield there are women and children who die the slow it is ituation. The political situation in Italy is fully fully saw within the situation in Italy is fully fully saw; which is full of its profession, and it is fully for the disorder that the women in the Many within the cecition, at which the Socialists hade decided gains, and it throws much light on the disorder that the working Class Movement in formation. women and children who die the slow cruel death of hunger and neglect. Do you think then that the conscience of the woman will be less ardent than that of the man in invoking peace? And who, if not the victims themselves, will raise a most energetic and continuous opposition against the two monsters that, menace and devour us -alcoholism and social debauchery?

The sorrows that strike the proletarian, whether of mind or body, make no distinction of sex, but fall upon the whole proletarian class. Every resignation by an individual is equivalent to an abandonment of the common cause; every alliance with the ancient ruler is treason, whatever may be the sex of the coward and tratior.

This is why, in the struggle of the proletariat, under the sun of justice, in the name of solidarity, each and everyone ought to take in their hands the best weapons, the only faithful and effective ones, education, organization and the ballot.

This is the true meaning of the emancipation of woman and the beginning of the twentieth century. -L Gatti de Gamond, in "Le Peuple."

'A mass meeting of class-conscious Labor Day, September 3rd, the speakers being Comrades Bard, Lowenthal, Collins, Baur and Sommerville The meeting was hot from start to finish, and the mouthings of the economic idiots Bryan and Roosevelt were scored ut mercy. Several rabid Demo rats became so excited over the truths told about Bryan's ignorance of economics that for lack of argument they started a persistent yelling and howling to drown the voices of the speakers. One indignant bystander, conscious of his mental inability to launch an argument against socialism, attempted to launch a brick at those who were propounding it. He was doing the best he could, but even then he missed the ob-ject aimed at by several feet. The suce, however, who listened intently, quickly suppressed the disturbers, and the meeting continued uninterrupted to hundreds of papers were sold, and the comrades report that even the brickpurchase a certain quantity of Socialist literature, which if he makes proper use of, he will discover that he has provided himself with a weapon far superior to bricks in an intellectual combat. After the meeting was concluded the comrades joined in the cry, Debe and Harriman, rab, rab, rab, which was joined in by hundreds of the audience, an incident which gives promise that the number of workingmen that spouters of the Bryan and Roosevelt type can fool, grows constantly smaller year by year. The International Socialist Review

On the first of July, 1909, we began the publication of the International So-cialist Review, clitted by A. M. Simons, with the help of many of the best-known socialist writers of Europe and known socialist writers of Europe and America.

The July and August numbers have amply redeemed the promises made in our prospectus. The July number contains a searching and thoughtful article by Rev. William T. Brown, entitled. Plutocracy and Democracy," and a contribution of world-wide interest by H. M. Hyndman, entitled. "England and International Socialism." Jean Longuet, the grandson of Karl Marx, serds a letter explaining the status of French political parties and the results of the recent legislative election in Belgum. Both of these letters have encouraging news of the rapid growth of Socialism. Marcus Hitch contributes a thoughtful and scholarly article on Karl Marx and the money question, and Max S. Hayes gives a review of the relations of the trade unions to Socialism in the United States. The editor traces the growth of Socialist thought in America, comments on the attack of capitalism upon China, and reviews the great lock-out of the so claims thought in America, comments on the attack of capitalism upon China, and reviews the great lock-out of the building trades in Chicago, and the strike of street car men in St. Louis. The August number opens with an exhaustive study of the Chicago dock-out by S. G. Lindholm. The political situation in Rally is fully described by our regular corresponders. In

Questions, 'the editor points out why the Republican and Demogratic politicians, by common coment are avoiding any serious discussion of the trusts, the negro question, government by injunction and the idaho buil pen, while the anti-expansion issue is being spoiled by the unanimous desire of capitalists to get their share of China. Prof. Ely's "Monopolics and Trusts" is reviewed at some length, and other books more briefly. A fiew department, "The World of Labor," edited by Max S. Hayes, begins in this issue and will be a regular feature of the Review.

The September number gromises to be the strongest number of a periodical relating to Socialism yet issued in the English language. Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist nominee for President, will have a strong and interesting article on the "Outlook fer Socialism in the United States," reviewing and discussing the movements in American society that are making for Socialism. Job Harriman, the Vice-Presidential candidate will supplement this with "A Comparison of the Democratic and Republican Platforms in the Present Campaign," which is the most thorough discussion of the issues presented by the two old parties yet put out. These two articles alone would make this number the most valuable propaganda pamphlet ever issued for the price, yet they are but a small part of what the whole number contains. Rgv. Charles H. Vall is one of the ablest exponents of Socialism writing in the English language at the present time. Under the title "The Scenes from the Nightly Circus on State Street.

A DEMOCRATIC TRIAL-HORSE.

How the Socialists Force Old Party Spell Binders to Hustle for Their Wages.

Say, if you want some fun that will beat any circus you ever attended, just take a trip through the down town portion of State street some Sunday evethe line that is now becoming famous this city of the Inland Sea. as the "oratorical Midway." Almost anyone could do up Cantwell, but it was good exercise for the lungs and prepared the new convert for larger game. Well last Sun day night he was in his glory. He had a little fellow by his side with a weak voice who was trying to uphold Mc-Kinleyism, and Cantwell was just more than earning his money, when sudden-ly he caught sight of a Socialist and began to collapse in expectation of the The Tendency Toward Concentration Unintellectual trouncing he has been reintellectual trouncing he has been renificance. ceiving nightly from that source. But this Socialist had other business and simply passed on until he met another comrade who is just learning to speak, and advising him to go back and do up Cantwell as a starter, the first Socialist passed on. A little further down a Republican orator had appeared, and was trying to stuff an unwilling audience with fairy stories about the full dinner pail. But the crowd were pouring hot shot into him until the sweatstreaming down his face as he turned from side to side to meet the attacks of his tormentors. The result of this was that a whole lot of facts were being brought out and the Socialists, of which there is always a goodly lot in every street audience now-a-days, were wing the significance of these facts, so the whole effect was just about as good as if the main speaker had been a Socialist. A little further along we came upon the regular Socialist meeting. Comrade Simons was on the bench this time, and was explaining the truths of socialism to an audience the truths of socialism to an audience whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest was in strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest was in strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest was in strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so that are the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so that are the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so that are the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so that are the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so that are the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so that are the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so that are the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so that are the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so the strange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet, attentive, earnest interest so the strange contrast to the audistrange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet at the strange contrast to the audistrange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet at the strange contrast to the audistrange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet at the strange contrast to the audistrange contrast to the audistrance whose quiet at the strange contrast to the audistrange contras ences seen before. Occasionally some one in the crowd would feel his political prejudices trodden upon and would interrupt, but a moment's explanation generally settled him, and at the close of the speech the cheers that rose for Debs and Harriman drew the crowds from all along the street to see what was going on that really aroused the rade Kaplan climbed on to the bench and stated that instead of selling the cheme. Let everyone throw in what they wished into a collection and away free to all. In a moment nickels and dimes came tumbling in and the whole mass was soon paid for and then handed out to all. Then Comrade Kaplan proceeded to go on with a discusleft, the crowd were listening as eagerly as if they had not been standing to and there on the outskirts of the crowd were little groups eagerly debating terest, sympathy and support. By this time the street had taken on a change. Everywhere but around Comrade Kaplan there were no longer the solid masses of men that make up large audiences. On the contrary the entire street for half a mile was filled with almost hundreds of little groups, and in nine out of ten of these the subject under discussion was socialism. It is doubtful if a similar scene could be found anywhere in the world. No matter what the original subject may be the State street crowd quickly gravitates to socialism, and while many times the socialism that is being discussed would not be recognized by the founders of that philosophy, nevertheless it is all a sign of a mighty awakenning. BANKS AND RAILBOAD CARS.

Speaking of the recent consolidation of Chicago banks, the "Chicago Banker" says. "Consolidation and expansion seem to be in the air, and before long it will be publicly and generally adadvertising banks in large cities is at an end." The same paper goes on to show that so general has this movement become that within the last year thirty-one national banks have gone into liquidation for purposes of consolidation. It also states that "there were seventeen national and twelve state banks in Chicago at the time of the great fire, October 9th, 1870, which is one less than will exist when the smalgamations arranged this year have been carried through. The reason for all this is seen in another article in the "Capitalist," which states that the recent consolidation of the First and Union National banks will give a saving of 20

Right along the same line is another item from the "Chicago Banker," as pacity of 30 tons weighs 30,000 pounds, and when loaded the ratio of the load or paying freight to total weight of car is 66.57 per cent. Ryan's petition, thus deciding the case against the union. Notice of an appeal was given at once.

Ryan was employed as a teamster by Weitz & Sons, general contractors. When he went for his pay, the firm tendered him a sum equivalent to $2.73 a day. He refused to accept, demanding $3 a day, the union scale. Weitz & Sons refused to pay this, and the plaintiff sued. He alleged that as a member of the union he was entitled to $3 a day, because the defendant, the Capital City Brick and Pipe company and other employers had entered into a contract with the union to pay $3 a day, in consideration of which it flad been agreed by the union that its members would not work for other parties for less than $3.

The defendants demurred to the contract, alleging that it was contrary to public policy, in that it is a violation of the anti-trust statutes, which prohibit corporations, partnerships, individuals, etc., from entering into poels, trusts or combinations for the purpose of ceastrolling the price of a commodity, limiting its production, etc. It was argued that the section of the contract in which the union members bonded themselves not to work for other parties are lass than $3 constitutes a violation of this section.

Justice Halloran sustained the demurrer in this particular. The section

"Any corporation organized under the laws of the state for the transaction or conduct of any kind of business, in this state, or any partnership, association or individual creating into or becoming a member of, or a party to any pool, trust, agreement, contract, partnership, association or individual to regulate or fix the price of any articles of merchandise, or to fix the limit, the amount or quantity of any article, commodity or merchandise to be manufactured, mined, produced or sold in this state, shall be guilty of a conspiracy."

The trusts as a rule, have not much direct connection with the trades union, for the simple reason that they will not tolerate it in their business, and cannot be compelled to do so. This law of service, which is the law of love, can never be the fundamental law of either the individual or social life as long as the present industrial system exists-all attempts to regenerate society under such conditions must necessarily fail. Dr. Strong tells us that 'the only remedy for our social ills is a new social spirit, the spirit of brotherhood, the spirit of love, vital enough to enter into, and to control all relationships." True enough, but is anyone so shortsighted as to expect this ideal to be realized in the present system of antagonisms? "spirit" is not an outcome of competitive strife and warfare. Competition brutalizes man and negatives the higher instincts and aspirations. It turns into moral monsters. this land has the outlook for socialism appeared more favorable than at the present. The idea that socialism repented something impracticable or political speaker is listened to more atwere formerly met with con tempt, amusement or indifference, by those for whose enlightenment they were being expounded. MARK'S MOUTHPIECE IN ACTION.

The long-awaited letter of acceptance of President McKinley has at last appeared, and as it will constitute one of the principal arguments of the coming campaign, it is worthy of our careful consideration. The first part of the letter is an attempt to show that the Democrats still desire free coinage of silver and that the gold standard would be preferable. As the laborers are not interested in either of these assertions we can afford to pass them by.

The trust next occupies his attention and we are told with ponderous mean inglessness that "combinations of capital which control the market in commodities necessary to the general use of the people by suppressing natural and ordinary competition. . . are obnoxious to the common law and the public welfare. . . . Honest co-opera tion of capital is necessary to meet new business conditions and extend our rapidly-increasing foreign trade, but conspiracies and compinations intended to restrict business, create monopolies; and control prices, should be effectively restrained "

Now will you by good? To be sure we are left somewhat in the dark as to who it is that is to decide what is "natural and, ordinary competition,"

The election in Vermont is now over, and the Republican vote is almost stationary. The cry of "imperialism" having failed to rouse interest in the East, Mr. Bryan now rings his silver bell in

For the first time in the history of the state of Vermont a Socialist ticket was in the field, and the returns as given by the Associated Press' read something as follows (we don't remember the figures), Republicans, so many; Democrats, so many; "others," 1,276. "Others" is correct. When we want to find out where we come in we must look amongst the "others." For as our late Comrade Liebknecht said, "we are not and distribution has reached the height as they," meaning the capitalist class We are "others."

One Lauterbach, a Chicago capitalist, and lete president of the Union Loop. has just returned from a visit to Europe, and expressed his opinion as to the proper tactics which should be pursued by the Republicans in the coming election. He says that the Republican orators should everywhere justify can be promised, and infinitely better the trust, for during his travels in Europe, he saw everywhere the product of American labor (even the expenses of his visit coming from that source). He furthermore, said that "we" were enabled to undersell all others, and that in consequence the trust work," which he implies is the limit the property of those who created them of the American workman's ambition-

It is not very creditable to the intransform the raw products of the earth telligence of the American working class, if Mr. Lauterbach correctly guages the boundary line of their aspirations. But on the other hand it is be adequate to meet his wants, no highly advantageous to the American more, no less. No One Phase of Capitalism Can Be-Made a Separate Object of So-cialist Attack

It is strange that a tendency is observable amongst many who claim to be Socialists, to accept to some extent the "paramount" issues put forward by one or other capitalist party, and profexs to see something in them to which the attention of the working class should be specially directed. This question of the Democrats use against the Republicans is one that it is the duty of all Socialists to steer clear of, in the sense of making it a special issue which carries in itself any particular importance for them.

If the food-producing supremacy is matter which the inhabitants of this city are willing to assume credit for, what will be their attitude towards incidents like this? Can they imagine that these starving ones can find any consolution in the fact that hundreds of tons of food can be started for the uttermost ends of the earth almost as on as the word arrives, while they themselves perish with hunger? Can they believe that Chicago, that is all people of Chicago, are really participators in the benefits of this gigantic food production, and that it is a proper of satisfaction to them and a eason for assuming a superiority over the inhabitants of other edites whose capacity for food-production is inferio

Members of ward branches desirous of securing the services of speakers at out-door meetings should communicate with Fred's G. Strickland. 163 Randolph street, room 64, who has undertaken the arrangements for assigning speakers to the various meetings. The editor of this paper has not now, nor ever had any connection whatever with such arrangements, they being always delegated to one comrade appointed or elected for the purpose.

The super intendent of the water department has made what the Chicago American calls a "rich haul." Three of the largest firms in the Stockyards have been caught stealing water from the city by the millions of gallons. But the "rich haul" turns out to be merely four petty wage slaves acting in the capacities of engineers or foremen of the above-mentioned companies, and the above-mentfound companies, and who have practically admitted that they acted merely as tools in the mat-They are to be punished as an ter. example to other evil-doers, and a good deal of bluster and brag is being made as to what the law will do with the heads of the packing houses if they can be proven guilty.

Here is Mr. Bryan's wind up:

"Without a large percentage of the laboring vote no party can win an election in the United States. The men who work for wages can, by throwing their votes on the one side or the other, determine the policy of this country. They need not march in parades; they need not adorn themselves with the insignia of any party, but on election day their silent ballot can shape the destiny of this nation and either bring the government back to its ancient handmarks or turn it into the pathway followed by the empires of the old world."

The truth of the matter is, that they can determine the policy of the country only by uniting their votes as a classconscious body, as the Socialists have been pointing out. Mr. Bryan correctly designates their method of voting when he says, "throwing their votes on the one side or the other." Will these workingmen understand, even when Bryan tells them so, that they are "throwing" their votes? Union men, unite your votes as you have your trade interests, and you can do more than "bring gov-sernment back," or "turn it into the pathway, etc.;" you can control it in the interest of your class, and set your

WHAT THE "GREAT" MEN SAID.

Deterances of Bryan, Boosevelt and Alschuler on Labor Day to the Workingman.

On the first of July, 1900, we began the publication of the International Socialist Review, edited by A. M. Simons, with the help of many of the best-known socialist writers of Europe and America.

The July and August numbers have amply redeemed the promises made in our prospectus. The July number contains a searching and thoughtful article by Rev. William T. Brown, entitled. "Piutocracy and Democracy." and a contribution of world-wide interest by H. M. Hyndman, entitled. "England and International Socialism." Jean Longuet, the grandson of Karl Marx, sends a letter explaining the status of French political parties and the results of the recent elections, while Prof. Emile Vinck writes of the recent legislative election in Belgium. Both of these letters have encouraging news of the rapid growth of Socialism. Marcus Hilch contributes a thoughtful and scholarly article on Karl Marx and the money question, and Max S. Hayes gives a review of the relations of the trade unions to Socialism in the United State. The editor traces the growth of Socialist thought in America, comments on the attack of capitalism upon China, and reviews the great lock-out of the building trades in 'Chicago, and the strike of street car meñ in St. Louis. The August number opens with an exhaustive study of the Chicago lock-tout by S. G. Lindholm. The political situation in Italy is fully described by our, regular correspondent. Dr. Aleessandro Schiavi, His letter was written but of the the control of the control

The August number opens with an exhaustive study of the Chicago lock, only only class, and set your own bears of labor, and get the full value of your labor, by owning collectively the seeans of production. Toosevelt ends thus:

"Let us strive to make the conditions of lie such that hearity as possible each is honestly entitled and no more, and let us remember at the same time that our efforts must be to build up rather than to artise down, and that we can of chers, but by heartly working with them for the common good of each and all."

We can imagine what must have been Roosevelt's thought as a buttered these words. Here language is used, which if followed out, would end in the realisation of the occasion. "Society has been divided into classes with antagonistic interests. Men are trying to crush the trusts, just as they tried to destroy the machinery not many years ago. The trusts cannot be destroyed in this manner. They are not the creatures of the law, but creatures of the conditions. If there are 100 men and 300 cars one would suppose that each one would get three, but not so. One boss may do as he sees fit, and he does. His favorite gets the easy working feasts' or faces. They also may get eight or ten cars to fill for their day's work, while the luckless miners, objects of the bosses' dislike, are sent to a hard, narrow and may get but a single car for the day. When that car is full they must stop. Each miner has a helper who is paid by the day. The helper's time goes on, whether the miner has one car or ten, so that it may happen that a miner is actually poorer when he quits work than when he began. One miner showed me his statement for the last two weeks in April. He got $4.77 for the two weeks' work. The same man got 77 cents for the first half of June and $3.75 is the best he has made in any two weeks for four months. Baron Von Biedenfeld, whom ou Chicago readers will remember was tried and acquitted last year upon the charge of killing a detective in a saloon row, has gone back to Germany, 'riddling' his arguments."

To the American the dollar is everything. He knows the way which leads to wealth: frust nobody, betriend nobody, try to grasp everything, and keep what you have; be miserly against himself and the members of his family; pile interest upon interest, and penny upon penny; be mean, unhappy, and despised for about thirty years, and wealth will come as sure as disease, death, and the conviction that one has made a mistake.

If there is any reasoning human being who could ever locate the political whereabouts of Mayor Jones previous to his plunging into the "confusion worse confounded" of Bryanism, we at least have never met that individual, and certainly Mayor Jones himself has thrown no light on the question.

At any rate, from his former undefin able position he has now "come out" small retailers and force them in turn for Bryan, and the Democratic museum to shut down on their customers, in this of political curiosities has secured its > "Seeing is believing;" so runs a wellknown phrase. But Mayor Jones posseases the faculty of believing without seeing, and this quality was ultimately bound to land him in camp of William Jennings Bryan.

Mayor Jones believed in "socialism." but could see no classes in society: In the Co-operative Commonwealth, but not in the means of securing it; he believed in no party, but could not see that he had organized one; still believes in no party, but sees no inconsistency in working with the Bryan political machine; believes in "equality," and blind to the Democratic policy in North 3ou entrust the distribution of that part Carolina: believes in the abolition of war, through the election of "Colonel" Bryan; believes that the ballot is a 'enerament" and casts his lot with those who stole the "sacrament" from the negro; believes in the Socialist propaganda, but thinks that those who make it are unnecessary. And stranger than all, Mayor Jones firmly believes that he is a Socialist himself!

It might be thought that in this list of "beliefs" taken verbatim from the latest declaration of Mayor Jones, the urmost height of credulous absurdity had been reached, but the most extraordinary article of faith in this confession is yet-to come.

Mayor Jones says that "he knows there are party Republicans and party Socialists who will find no trouble in

But Mayor Jones has succeeded in proving his undentable right to vote for William Jennings Bryan and the imossibilities and absurdities which that

"statesman" is supposed to represent.

And if as, the Chicago American claims, this "coming out" will induce nany, who would otherwise have voted for Eugene Y. HE WAS "COMING OUR WAY," HOW THEY AFFECT WORKERS.

duction Can Only Mean Slavery for the Producing Class.

What is the paramount issue of the campaign?

McKinley says: Sound money, exansion and prosperity.

Bryan says: Imperialism. Socialists say, as workingmen, that it s whether they shall continue to be wage slaves, ruled by the owners of the means by which all men, women and children must live, or whether they shall be free men owning those means themselves, collectively.

What do you think, workingmen? Read on to see if you favor freedom or yourself and family, or not.

The Republican party is the party of the great capitalists. They form the tools of production, and they take through that ewnership the product of your labor applied to those tools. As long as they can keep you employed in producing with those tools, they consider that you are provided for; that you should be contented and grateful to them for steady employment and living wages. In order to keep you thus contented with a small fraction of the value you produce, they must keep you hard at work so that you will not have the time to look into things to find out how you are fleeced. But to take up any spare time you may have they have provided newspapers and magazines for your amusement, and to instruct you now to make a dollar go further-further in the interests of their class, by teaching you to use it to "better yourself" for their interests at the expense of your comfort. This process of keeping you at work producing contentedly for your masters is called "prosperity." It is facilitated by procuring markets in which to dispose of your product, and this process is called expansion, and the third idol of the trinity of republican capitalistic economies is sound money Its receipt by you in wages is supposed to keep you a sound Republican voter. and its expenditure by you nets a sound profit to the capitalist to whom of your product which you are enabled to consume according to the wages endorse allows you.

This, then, is the Republican position: So long as you believe that you cannot think for yourselves and that you must have leaders to do this thinking for you, they will encourage you in that be-lief. So long as you are contented to labor long hours, and are contented because the chance of laboring long bours is open to you, and are satisfied with a small portion of your product in return for your labor, the Republican capitalists will see to it that your surplus pro duct secures a foreign market So long as you believe that yourselves and your sons "honor" yourselves by taking up arms at the pleasure of your capitalist rulers to open up these markets, they will cheer you on with words of praise for your patriotism and love of the flag, so long as you do all these things which redound to your rulers' in terests, they will do this much for you: wages as sound as possible, that is, keep it from fluctuating much in value from the time you get it until the time you spend it.

which this "sound" system which you

Then three cheers for republicanism hard work and plenty of it, the chanc to shed our blood to keep plenty of work in our midst, and money as wages we go to buy our food. Let all the ig orant workingmen cheer.

ism is what should engage the attention of the voters. Bryan claims that the Republicans are turning the rep into an empire and are increasing the ing army for that purpose. That the ambitions of Republican "states men" are in the direction of sovereign ty. He takes the effect for the caus The actions and program of the Re-publicans is the only method of produre left open to them, and is caus by the desire to create a profitable place to dispose of the enormous product which American, workingmen's labor has created. Instead of taking the other side of the proposition which the evolu-tion of society has brought about, and which the Republicans are furthering according to the interest of the owning chas, Bryan evades it, and puts forth the bait of imperialism. Economic questions are of secondary importance questions are of secondary importance and can wait until this question of imperialism is settled, says Bryan in effect. "Economic, life questions, can wait!" Capitalism has got to the point, where, if the workers are to eat, they must have fereign markets to produce for, or they must overthrow the system of production for profit and produce according to their needs. At this crisis with the need of foreign markets, h says, can wait. He practically says that we must consent to starve just so that he can become president. We appoint him to abelish our means of life at one point and to keep us from obfaining it at the other. But Bryan is all wind. If he would do or could do what his speeches indicate are his intentions if elected, the above description of our condition under his administration would be realized, and being onendurable, revolution would follow. If elected we will simply have Bryan where we now have McKinley, with the difference perhaps that the senate will keep him within the bounds prescribed by the trusts, whereas now McKinley, the senate and the trusts are of one accord. The senate and the trusts will then still be of one accord, and with two against one where will that one, Mr. Bryan stand?

Working nen, the remedy lies not with faith in Bryan, but with faith in yourselves. As a class you are now getting the worst of it., As a class you must apply the remedy. The disorder indicates the remedy. Class disorder, lass remedy. Class order, class benefit. Are you a parrot or do you think? If a parrot, follow the lessons of the lass-the Bryan and McKinley class which says you must divide into their camps.

If you think, you will know that you gain most in union with your class Then imperialism, expansion, McKinley, prosperity and bankers' sound -exit!

Enter collective ownership, economic reedom, plenty, pleasant occupation, ldisure, happy women and children, in short: enter socialism. Workers, choose.

A clergyman in Sterling, Ill., who was njudicious enough to express himself as being in favor of labor unions, from his pulpit, was promptly "called down' by a wealthy member of his congrega-tion, who "hurled vile and profane words" at the man who so far forgot the interests of his masters as to speak a word in favor of the workers. The newspaper which gives the report farther informs us that the capitalist n question, two years ago, had "as sisted morally and financially to stam out the Molders' union," while he had also "contributed liberally to the support" of the clergyman whose utter ances last Sunday aroused his anger. No doubt he regarded the clergyman's conduct as most ungrateful and traitor ous to those from whom he derived his support. This episode might perhaps throw some light upon the question of

We are now in the most critical portion of the campaign. Within the next few weeks every voter throughout this country will be interested in political questions. He will be ready to listen to arguments touching social and political affairs. He will be in the process of making up his mind where to cast his ballot. This is the time when the old party politicians and workers are making their greatest efforts. It is the time when every Socialist should put his shoulder to the wheel.

Not all of us can make speeches. Only a few can write pamphlets or give large calities where we cannot get a Socialist meaker. BRYAN AND TRUSTS

How-any intelligent man can support Wm. J. Bryan after the speech which he made on "Trusts" at St. Louis, is hard to see. In his speech he must stand convicted by all who are able to apply even the slightest amount of reaconing as either a fool or a demagogue, He points out and never denies the tremendous saving in production through the trust organization. He fells how it will get rid of useless drumme, s, close expensive and needless plants and wips out a score of unnecessary laborers. Then he launches into an absolutely meaningless thrade against the trust as an abstraction, appeals to the lawyers, ause there is less litigation, to the hotel keepers because there are fewer drummers, to the farmer because of aleged rising prices, and finally when h omes to the laborer, even Bryan seems enough to see that he has nothing to so he lapses into pure demagoguery He declares that "even if the laboring man was prosperous, still the laboring man is a citizen and must look at politi cal questions from the citizen's standpoint." In other words, Bryan can conceive of nothing better for the labore than McKinley prosperity under wage slavery and only calls upon the labore ver the december the small labor skin ner, and the whole host of useless para sites for whom Bryan stands. Throughout the entire speech there is not one single word of positive engage tions as to HOW the trusts are to be busted, or what is to be done with it might be possible to utilize all these mighty savings, to which even Bryan cannot wholly shut his eyes, for the good of all. The "moral" to be derived from an aspection of these two specimens, is that it is incumbent upon the classonscious workingmen to say to those oming from the ranks of capitalism with the declaration "I am a Socialist" on their lips, "you say you are a Socialist; well and good; get into the ranks as a worker in the cause." Of those be apparent that their object is to lead, or rather mislead, the working class. The example of Pingree and Jones is but an additional proof of the trite saying, that "the emancipation of the working class, must be the act of the working class itself."

In his speech to the students at the Chicago university Mr. Bryan quoted scripture, and suggested that modern development was preparing an amendment to the eighth commandment, which would make it read "Thou shalt not steal-on a small scale." The work ingman who posses average intelligence will heartily endorse that amendment, away with the petty pilferer. When the intelligence of the working class is suf-

One newspaper in this city contained a picture of the execution of one of these "ghouls." He was barefooted, ragged and emaciated, which perhaps explains his depravity. But the slock corpulent, 'respectable" business man, what exthe living? Only this, that capitalism exists-capitalism the vilest ghoul-the world has ever known.

The other day the writer met a mem per of the typographical union who claimed that he was a "Socialist." but in the course of the conversation claimed that he would vote for Bryan. saturated with the capitalist superstition that the workingmen lack the capacity to govern. He claimed that Eugene V. Debs was not so well fitted for the presidency as W. J. Bryan. otherwise, he would vote for him.

Leaving the Socialist aspect of this matter on one side, it may be observed that even if the two men be contrasted the ignorance of this printer simply inreases. Bryan never in any manner has given proof of the slightest capac ity for administration. He has neve held any position, either public or priate, which would afford a test of his ability in that direction. On the other and Debs has in several large railro organizations given ample proof both of his ability and honesty in conducting

He says in effect, "I want the Cooperative Commonwealth, but am not capable of managing it, therefore some capitalist politician shall do it for me. Like the unfit Hebrews during the exc dus, this sort will die in the desert while the freedom-loving, class-conscious assertive proletarist push on towards the promised land.

The party press of both capitalist factions is complaining of the general spathy of the public regarding the poitical "issues" of the day. Something must be done to "stir" up the public Republican papers are printing matte seemingly favorable to the Democrats and the Democratic organs in turn are giving out news favorable to the Republicans. We challenge anyone to show that this condition of affairs has ever previously existed. It does not require any great stretch of the imagination to picture Mark Hanna and Sena tor Jones in consultation together upor that vital subject, the general apathy When the Republican and Democratic "issues" lose their attractive power there is great danger that the publi (the working class) might strike upor an "issue" which involves their real in

On the Great Strike of the Coal Miners of Pennsylvania Against Capi-talist Robbery.

For years the men have been denanding that they be paid according to the "run of mine" for all the coal thay mined. But the operators refused and screened out great mountains of fine coal that now form the most characteristic feature of the landscapes in the mining regions. These great heaps, which represent the unpaid toil of the miners are now to be used by the mine owners to break the strike. Modern a. fluence in their country, the American Socialists may well be satisfied with the results of their work when looking back upon the events of the past four years since the last International con-

The rapid growth of a Socialist sentiment among the American people generally, and the growing sense of solldarity and class-consciousness among the working people have been prompted by great events quite new in the history of the United States. Although they appear to the Socialist as a natural result of the capitalist system, they have taken the rest of the people completely by surprise, and have done more to stir them up and to stimulate thought and interest in political and years of Socialist propaganda could ever possibly produce class sought to prevent its own downfall by demanding the free coinage of silver at a fictitious value. It is needless to say that in their propaganda the Socialists have done their best to point out to the wage workers that their interests would not be conserved by the triumph of the middle class, which had nothing but fine phrases for the working people. In the elections the fillddle class lost, and the Republican party, the party of the great capi talists and trusts, went into power. But looking back to the pelitical campaign of four years ago, we canno help recognizing that the denun ciation of plutocracy and the exposure of its scandalous reign resorted to by Democrats for political reasons had its effect in creating among the people a spirit of distrust of and dis the rule of the capitalist class, and paved the way for the ideas of Socialism and the political solidarity of the working class

The events of the succeeding years the positive work of our triumphant plutocracy has but added oil to the flames of social discontent and won derfully facilitated the educational and

A period of intense business activity

The great capitalists have come to feel the immense power at their comlaws of development which bid a class to grow or decay, have launched the republic on a new course of colonia expansion and military conquest. Radical as that departure is from the for mer peaceful policy of our republic fraught as it is with most momentous changes in the further political development of America, it is but secondary to and a result of another expansion of our capitalist system, which marks its entrance upon a new and higher stage, probably the last before the inauguration of the Co-operative Com wealth

The advent of the trust has stirred all the classes of our people to their depths and has served more than anything else to bring out in striking manner the soundness of the Socialist diag nosis of our present system. At the same time it has deeply affected the interests of each separate class, revo-lutionizing old methods, ruthlessly destroying and displacing entire occupations, thus giving ample time to thousands of people to think of the wonderful changes wrought by modern capi-

The middle class has also been deeply affected by the economic develop-ment of the last four years, and has practically been divided in two. F years ago the farmers, burdened with lebts, were foremost in demanding the free coinage of silver, and it was they that furnished the larger part of the ocratic votes. The coincidence of good crops at home with a failure of crops in Europe sent up the prices of wheat and other agricultural products to an unusual extent, and the farmers not only improved thereby their condition, but have come to see that high prices of wheat are possible under a gold currency as well.

Not so with the industrial and com mercial middle class. While they have also been able to improve their condition to some extent on account of the better times, they have had to suffer greatly from the competition of trusts, are, therefore, more dissatisfied than the farmers. The Democratic party has, therefore, been compelled to take up the "trust evil" as its camsue, much to the dissatisfaction of the corrupt ring of politicians od themselves within the ranks which stand at its head, and who are paid by the great corporations and trusts to prevent any hostile legislation that could really harm capitalist interests. At the last moment, however, they saw a way out of the difficulty in Republican policy of imperialism, which they pretend to oppose (although they have fiever refused in congress to vote appropriations of money for military purposes), and have declared

Meanwhile, the working people have been listening to the Democratic de-nunciations of the Republican policy,

And, as is everywhere the case, the capitalist class took care lest the workingmen imbibe the milk and water principles of Socialism which the middle class has been spreading. The great conflicts between capital and labor which have been assuming greater and greater proportions in our couneconomic questions than years and try, have helped to show the working class of America that the class struggie is no idle abstraction of Socialist Four years ago the bankrupt middle philosophy. It would be impossible to give an adequate account of the great strikes in a short review such as must pecessarily constitute a report to this congress. Suffice it to say, that several of them have involved scores of thousands of men, and have invariably led to the interference of the police and the miltary force in favor of the employers. We need not add that the Socialists have utilized these occasions o point out to the working class that ve have a class government, and that the workers need not expect better treatment until they learn to elect their wn men to the legislative bodies.

The most notable strike for the open orutality and disregard for the rights of the workingmen displayed by the capitalistic government, took place among the miners of Idaho, and has een fully described in a pamphlet by ne of our delegates to your congress. Briefly teld, the Democratic governor of the state combined with the Repubican president of the United States in shooting down peaceful strikers, throwing innocent men into prison, and subjecting them to barbarities which have not been equaled in the annals of bitrary conduct of affairs by the party abor persecution in Russia.

THE SOCIALIST MOVEMENT.

No wonder that such a persistent polcy of brutality towards, and contempt for the working class, coupled with the other conditions we have described, facilitated the spread of Socialist ideas and has resulted in a rapid increase of Socialist votes. In 1896, the year of presidential election, and of the International congress at London, we re ceived a little over 36,000 votes. In 1897 the vote jumped to 55,000. In 1898 he combined Socialist vote of the Soialist Labor party and Social Demoratic party was nearly 92,000, and we nay expect double that number when he vote of our presidential candidate s counted next November.

There was only one Socialist elected o a municipal council in the United States at the time of the last International congress. At present we have nore than a dozen of Socialist councilmen in the various municipalities of the country: two Socialists are disturb ing the peaceful slumber and easy conscience of the capitalist legislators ta the Massachusetts legislature. Com ade John C. Chase has for the second time been elected mayor of the town of Haverhill, Mass., the last time against the combined opposition of the Republican Democratic and Prohibition parties, and Comrade Coulter has been elected mayor of the town of Brockton,

The integrity, courage and energy discharged their new duties and stood up for the interests of the working peode who elected them have done than years of propaganda could do by giving the working class an object leson of the soundness of our position and instilling new hope in the hearts of those who are struggling for the aboition of wage slavery.

Still more wonderful has been the progress of our press. In 1896 we had only one English Socialist paper; at present we have nine weekly papers and one monthly magazine, besides a number of dailies and weeklies in the German and other languages.

When we turn from the Socialist novement generally to the inner derelopment and progress of the party we regret that we have to record a seres of strifes, but for which the succ of our movement would have been far

At the time of the London Interr tional congress there was but one Socialist party in the United States, the Socialist Labor party; but she thereafter tactical differences manifest-finally led to a split in the party. Briefly stated, the chief cause of the split was the objectionable-at present criminal-policy of two or three leaders of the Socialist Labor party towards the trades unlons. Impatient at the slow progress of Socialism in the ranks of the trades unions, and justly indignant at the corrupt practices of some of the leaders of the American rade unions, these men conceived a new plan for the speedy conversion to Socialism of the American workingmen, namely: the organization of rival trade unions which they called the So-cialist Trade and Labor Alliance.

trade union has always been questione by Socialists. The last International congress has left no room for doubt as to its attitude on that subject when it said in its trade union resolution "Especially difference of politica views ought not to be considered a rea son for separate action in the economic struggles." Disregard of the above Disregard of the above resolution might be justified, perhaps under exceptional circumstances. There might perhaps, be some reason for it if the Socialists constituted a majority or at least a strong minority in the un ions, although even under such circum industries controlled by trusts as well stances the wisdom of such a step es the municipalization of the so-called might be questioned. But when, as inited States, has served to familiarize a handful of men belonging to a few unions, mostly in one city, and when that is done not through the initiative of the workers themselves, but by a few ambitious leaders of a politica party who have never been working at a trade and, therefore, are out of touch with the trade union movement, when moreover, such a step is taken by then without consulting the Socialists who have spent their lives in that move ment, then there can hardly be any doubt that such an organization has no right to exist. The Alliance was endorsed at first by the Socialist Labor party on the express promise given by its founders that it would not interfere with the existing trade unions, but would devote itself to organizing the unorganized workers. Even at that time some of the Socialists who had more experience in the trade union movement predicted that the promise could not be carried out, and that the Alliance was bound to come in conflict with the other trade unions. Experience has shown that ever > these men did not foresee all the consequences that were to follow. Soon af ter its organization, the Alliance came in conflict with the existing printers' union, and let its men take the places of striking printers at lower wages similar conflicts soon followed with other trades, and the word "Socialist" came to be synonymous with "scab" (Blackleg) among the trade unionists The worst of it was that it reflected upon the party which stood committed to the Alliance, and whose official organ was made also the official organ of the Alliance without the consent of the membership of the party. Under these circumstances friction within the party came inevitable, and owing to the ar officers and open disregard and contempt for the will of the rank and file led to open revolt and the deposal of the National Executive committee We will spare the congress the recital of the strife that followed. Suffice it to say, that the deposed officers refused to in no very distant future to catch up lay down their mandates, although the majority of the party sustained by a referendum vote the action of deposing them, and they and their adherents still continue a separate existence under the name of the S. L. P., although the regular organization had retained the bulk of its membership, every Socialist writer, speaker, and trade union agitator of note, and all of its newspa pers, except one Jewish paper in New York city.

At its last convention held in the city of Rochester, in January of the present year, the party rescinded the previous esolution endorsing the Alliance and expressed its attitude on the trade union question, as follows:

Whereas, The trade union movement of the working class is an evident manifestation of the struggle between capital and labor, and is absolutely necessary to resist the superior economic power of capital, to improve the condition of the workingmen, and to maintain their standard of life; and Whereas, The class struggle carried on by the trade unions tends to develop in the workingmen the sense of solidarity and political independence by organizing them as a class antagonistic to the capitalist class.

Resolved, That we the Socialist Labor party, in national convention assembled, fully recognizing that the exploitation of labor will cease only when sembled, fully recognizing that the ex-ploitation of labor will cease only when lociety takes possession of the means of production, nevertheless declares that it is the duty of all Socialists to par-dicipate in all the struggles of organized labor to improve its conditions under the present system;

Resolved, That we hereby recall any and all previous resolutions expressing preference for one body of organized labor over another;
Resolved, That we affirm the resolution of the Socialist Labor parts adopted in 1893 and re-adopted in 1896, recommending to all members of the party to join the organization of the trades to which they respectively belong.

Another very important step taken at that convention was the appointment of a committee of nine to confer with the Social Democratic party with a view to bringing about a union of the

The Social Democratic party was founded under the leadership of E. V. Debs in 1897; and was composed at first of somewhat heterogeneous elements, may be seen from the fact that they expected to inaugurate the era of Socialism by starting Socialist colonies in the less populated states. However, a period of about one year was sufficient to vanced element, and the colonization plan was thrown overboard. The only separated from the Socialist Labo party was the unsocialistic attitude of latter towards the trades uni and the fanatical sectarian spirit which actuated it leaders. With the change which had now, however, been brought about in the Socialist, Labor party there was no more reason why the tw parties should not unite into one great harmonious organization, and hence the appointment of the above committee on

The Social Democratic party which net in convention two months after in the city of Indianapolis received th proposition of the Rochester committee with great enthusiasm, and in its turn appointed a similar committee. The two committees met later in New York city, and formulated a treaty of union, as well as a constitution for the new united party, submitting to the two parties the names Social Democratic party and the United Socialist party, out of which one was to be chosen. By the referendum vote cast by the members of the two parties, the treaty of mion was adopted and the name Social Democratic party chosen for the united party. By the same vote Eugene V Debs of the former S. D. P. and Job Barriman of the S T. P. were chosen as candidates for the respective offices of president and vice-president of the United States. The union of the two parties was, however, not to be accomplished without friction. When all arcangements seemed complete the National Executive board of the old Social Democratic party issued a "manifesto" advising its members to vote against anion; but the "manifesto" had but little effect; the union of the two greatest Socialist parties had become a necessity, and, although the officers of the former S. D. P. and their adherents still hold out against-union and maintain a rival organization, the bulk of its membership has joined the united party, and also all of the papers of the old S.D. P. except its English and Ger-party, and also-all of the papers of the old SND. P. except its English and Germ man official organs.

Persent indications, however, point to a speedy end of the controversies with in the ranks of the S. D. P., and the enthusiasm of the comrades over the accomplishment of the union, the popularity of our candidates in Socialist and labor circles, and the extremely favorable circumstances for Socialist propagation of the controversies of the control of mistakes, and its uniform friendship and good will shown the workingman have won it the sympathies of the advanced elements of the working class of America, and make it possible for it with, if not to excel, our European comrades in the work of advancing our

LOCAL NEWS AND NOTES.

An agitation meeting will be held by the Thirteenth word branch on Satur-day, the 23d inst., at 3 p. m., corner of Grand and Western avenues. Comrade John Collins and others will address the audience.

A large and enthusiastic meeting to place on State street Sunday pight, a A large and controlled to the place on State street Sunday night, and was addressed by Comrades Kaplan of Boston, and Comrade Sommerville, organizer. The meeting was very enthusiastic, and resulted in guite a large amount of literature being sold and a number of converts to socialism.

On Friday evening, at the corner of Carthly, heavenly or infernal manner? Union and Twelfth street, Comrade F. G. Strickland addressed a meeting of Oyer one hundred persons. After the speaker concluded a lively discussion speaker concluded a lively discussion through Comrade Strickland started a Socialist song which was joined in by the entire audience, thus bringing the meeting to a most satisfactory conclusion.

The Twelfth ward branch held a rous The Twelfth ward branch held a rousing meeting on Saturday at the corner of Madison and Western avenues. Comrades Somerville, Collins, Brennan and Williams each made a short address, and were listened to attentively from beginning to end. This was Comrade
Williams first essay as a public speaker, and his initial attempt gives good open air propaganda.

The Socialist branch recently organized in the Fifteenth ward promises to make things lively in its vicinity, and its present activity will seemingly make some of the older branches hustle to keep up with the procession. The branch held an outdoor meeting last Saturday evening, at the cerner of Milwaukee avenue, where no less than three new speakers, members of the branch, who have been developed in the short time it has been established, addressed the audience. This is a record which we think is unsurpassed in the history of socialism in this city. At the meeting above mentioned several local Democratic politicians ventured to measure their power of debate with some of the new speakers, and speedily discovered that they were going up against a hard game. The branch itself does not consider that it has reached the limits of its usefulness in Socialist propagands and has notified this office

Platform of the Social Democratic Party

The Social Democratic party of the United States, in Convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the revolutionary principles of international socialism and declares the supreme political issue in America today to be the contest between the working class and the capitalist class for the possession of the power of government. We affirm our steadfast purpose to use those powers, care as a class in its struggle against the power of government. We affirm our steadfast purpose to use those powers, care as a class in its struggle against the collective power of the apitalist class except by constituting itself into a political party, distinct and opposed to a political party, distinct and opposed to all parties formed by the properted classes.

We, therefore, call upon the wage workers of the United States, without the Co-operative Commonwealth.

In the United States, as in all other civilises countries the natural order of economic development has separated sactity into two antagonistic classes the capitalists, a comparatively, small class, the possessors of all the findern means of production and distribution, (land, mines, machinery and means of transportation) and the large and evernocrashing class of wage canners, possessing no means of production.

This economic supremacy has secured to the dominant class the full control of the government, the pulpit, the great production and distribution, and the large and evernocrashing class of wage canners, possessating them the arbiters of the fate-of the government, the pulpit, the great production and distribution, and the government of the great production and distribution, and the great production and distribution, and the great production of the government of the great production and distribution, and the pulpit and production and the production and distribution of the great production and distribution of the great production and the production and

TWO OF A KIND.

The Gospel According to Tweedle-dum and the Truth As It Is Contained in Tweedle-dee.

Last week we reviewed McKiniey's letter of acceptance, and if it was not for tiring the reader with the monotony, we would run the same editorial in this week as a review of Bryan's letter, which has just appeared. Upon the trust question McKinley says.

Bryan responds with equally meaningless ponderosity:

"A private monopoly has always been an outlaw. No defense can be made of an industrial system in which one or a few men can control for their own profit the output or price of any article of merchandise. Under such a system profit the output or price of any article of merchandise. Under such a system the consumer suffers extortion, the producer of raw material has but one purchaser, and must sell at the arbitrary price fixed: the laborer has but one employer, and is powerless to protest against injustice, either in wages or in conditions of labor; the small stockholder is at the mercy of the speculator, while the traveling salesman qontributes his salary to the overgrown profits of the trust. Since but a small portion for the people can share in the advantages secured by private monopoly it follows that the ramainder of the people are not only excluded from the benefits, but are the helpless victims of every monopoly organized. It is difficult to overestimate the immediate injustice that may be done or to calculate the ultimate effect of this injustice upon the social and political welfare of the people.

ticle proves him the demagogue, for he and who will be prepared to p there declares himself in favor of pri-all things to all men and give go vate property and corporate wealth. Let us now take the remainder of the paragraph in which this last quotation appears, so that the full incon

"The Democratic porty makes fic war upon honestly acquired wealth; neither does it seek to embarrass corporations engaged in legitimate business, but it does protest against corporations entering politics and attempting to assume control of the instrumentalities of government. A corporation is not organized for political purposes, and should be compelled to confine itself to the business described in its charter. Honest corporations, engaged in an honest business, will find it to their advantage to aid in the enactisent of such legislation as will protect them from the undescribed of the will be brought upon them by those corporations which enter the political arena."

There we have a most artfully worded mass of bosh. With lawyer-like cun-"Combinations of eapital which control the market in commodities necessary to the general use of the people by suppressing natural and ordinary competition. . are obmoxious to the common law and the public welfare. . . Honest co-operation of capital is necessary to meet new business conditions and extend our rapidly-increasing foreign trade, but conspiracies and combinations intended to restrict business, create monopolies, and control prices, should be effectively restrained." one who stops to reason knows that this will never be necessary so long as there are Bryans and Mark Hannas in the "No defense can be made of an industrial system in which one or a few men can control for their own profit the output or price of any article of merchandise. . . The Democratic party makes no war upon honestly-acquired wealth: neither does it seek to embarrass corporations engaged in legitimate business." land. The meeting was enthusiastic and pains will be taken to supply the comrades with speakers, and wake up the Sevencenth ward as it never has before.

Now can any man, Democrat or Rethusiastic and pains will be taken to supply the comrades with speakers, and wake up the Sevencenth ward as it never has before.

Now can any man, Democrat or Republical, find anything in either of these utterances that would offend or instruct or restrict anyone, in any instruct or restrict anyone, in a

In this work there is no question of 'honest or dishonest corporations.' is purely a question of the protection of privilege, and what Bryan realty means is that SMALL corporations have an interest in supporting him against the large ones. It is purely a question of quantity and not quality.

Bryan has also much to say about lament by injunction," blacklisting and compulsory arbitration is the same hashed up by every political demagague for the last ten years, and can have no meaning under any conditions, as all the thirds complained of are inherent in capitalism and can be altered only with the abolition of that system. But he makes no demand that is new and gestion of a cabinet position for labor. Here is demagoguery with a vengeance. Of what benefit has been to the laborers of this country, to create the host of "departments of labor" in every state and municipality, to pile up lying and generally useless reports and furnish fat sinecures for stool pigeons who bethe mouthings of a demagogue it means tray their fellow toilers. Now Bryan that there is no sefence for capitalism, proposes that a national roost be made for that is the "industrial system" described. But the sentence which is at Washington, shall see to it that the given in the first paragraph of this ar- whole mass of laborers are kept in line and who will be prepared to pro cuses for giving nothing. Harriman Chosen as Represents to the International Socialist Congress at Paris.

The National Executive co in accordance with the provisions of the referendum vote, has decided to send a delegate to the Internation congress at Paris. Comrade Job Harriman was chosen to represent the party at Paris as shown by the following statement of the N. E. C.:

"To the Members of the S. D. P.: "Comrades:—Your Committee been authorized to use its discretion in the matter of sending a delegate to the International Congress at Paris. It was expected that Comrade H. G. Wilshire of California would act in that capacity, but Comrade Wilshire has informed the Committee that in all probability he would not be able to leave the country. The Committee thereupor decided to send Comrade Job Harriman as delegate, to act in conjunction with Comrades Sergius Ingerman and Jacob Rombro, The Committee thought it proper to take this action for the fol-

"First, it is of the highest importance generally, that the S. D. P. be represented. The Congress is the representative assemblage of the militant So cialists of the world. Its proceedings are carefully watched by the Socialists of this and of all other countries. The militant Socialists of the United States cannot afford to be absent from the world parliament of the party.

"Second, it is especially important this year, because the differences in principle, tactics and methods between the S. D. P. and the S. L. P. will certainly be considered, directly or in-directly, and it is absolutely necessary that we be properly represented, in or der that the Congress may be correctly informed on the facts in the matter.

"Third, the present Congress will probably take steps to establish an In-ternational Socialist Bureau for the purpose of drawing closer together the cialist bodies of the world. This makes it still more important that the Socialists of America be adequately represented.

The Committee considered that there was no man better qualified for the work than Comrade Harriman both on account of his personal ability as a speaker and debater and his position as a national candidate of the party, and also because of his full and accurate knowledge of the questions that will be brought up.

Comrade Harriman has been work ing hard for the party for four months past, and the state of his health make. it imperative that he have a few weeks relief from the burden of agitation work. The Committee therefore felt itself justified in availing itself of his services at Paris.

To defray the expenses of the dele gate, assessment stamps of ten cents each are issued by the N. E. C. Comrades will please be prompt in paying ment through the financial officers of their locals.

STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS.

Clergyman of Hazelton, Pa., Sees Only Defeat for the Miners in the Great Struggle.

The Chicago Journal prints the following statement from the Rev. Father Phillips of Hazelton, Pa., on the present strike in that vicinity

"My conference yesterday in New York with the executive officers of the big coal companies, has convinced me that if there be a prolonged conflict it will be a battle to the death with but one result, which is easy to foretell. The operators will never recognize the United Mine Workers. The miners themselves eventually seeing this, must sue for peace by unconditional surrender, and then their last state will be worse than the first. But as I have feared the conflict, so I fear the result, and if the miners regret it, as I believe they will, they must share the responsibilities of widespread misery and the useless sacrifice of the cause of labor."

The Journal editorially agrees with this view, but adds that "the battle is not always to the strong."

Whether the view which Father Phillips takes of the situation be correct or not, one thing is certain, that in this ict, as in every other, "the battle is always to the strong." Great ques-tions are always decided by force, not necessarily by physical force, but quite as often by superior force of intellect. Through the lack of class-consciousness and a full recognition of common inter-ests, the workers are without the necessary intellectual force to win perma-nent victories, and although possessed of overwhelming superior physical force, are yet practically powerless, through their crude method of fighting capitalism on the economic field, where their weakness is pitted against where their weakness is pitted against the fullest strength of their opponents. Were they to attack their enemy at his weakest, and their strongest point, they could easily land their good right hand on the solar plexus of capitalism, and then the kind-hearted priest in-stead of telling them that their case was hopeiess, might find employment for his clerical functions in shriving capitalism. But even his good offices could not save it from eternal damnation. Intelligent, united action at the ballot box, for the interests of their own class, would at doce change the position of the miners from one of weakness to one of irresistible strength, and then the battle would go to them—they would have made themselves and the strength.

Light on the Subject.

A new question has been sprung upo the long-suffering inhabitants of thi city. Carter Harrison is now advocat ing municipal "gas," and Robert Em met Burke, the Democratic Boss, say all right.

How is it that this question become interesting so suddenly? For the past five years the "people" of Chicago have been paying $1 per thousand feet of gas consumed, and there has been no par ticular complaint, either press or official, against this rate, though Carte Harrison has been mayor of the city most of this time.

This is the cause: A fight between two capitalist organizations controlling the supply of gas, crops up, and they reduce the price of gas to 40 cents per thousand in one district of the city where both have pipes laid.

Instantly the "people" of Chicago awake to the fact that they have been "robbed" and "indignation" meetings, (some of them illuminated with kero sene lamps), are being held in numbers, and the wait of the little business man pecially that organ of petty capitalism. Walter Thomas Mills Repudiates Capitalism.

Finding Old Parties Essentially the Same He Determines to Vote for Socialism.

In 1896 I voted my first and only national Democratic vote. For some years before, I had voted any ticket which at the time seemed to promise most to hoping to get what Olney don't want break up the old party alignment, I had contended that neither party stood for any principle which it could really carry out, without doing one of two either it would disrupt and destroy itself, or it would continue to pillage and betray the country, as both parties had done in all of the states and in the administration of national affairs.

But in 1896, in common with the great body of the Populist and independent reform votes, I was convinced that at last a real fight was on hand between the new born Democracy and betrayed Republicanism. The money lenders had attempted to double the value of all debts owed to them and so double the burdens of all the debtors, and the revolt was so widespread and spirited that for many months, both before and after the election, it really seemed that the usury takers were all going into the Republican comp, thus leaving a free Democracy to gather into its own ranks in a final fight the balance of the whole people and under such a reorganization of political party the radical Democrats would become and remain the controlling Democrats and it seemed to me that the government under their control might cease to consider dollars only, and attempt to provide for the common welfare of the people themselves. But today the situation is entirely changed. I came into the Democratic party because certain others were going out. I am going out now because they are coming back. Not because I have any personal quarrel with any of them, but because their return indicates more clearly than anything else can possibly do, that there remains no chance for the sharp division of the country on radical lines between the

I am aware that the Democrats attack imperialism, and I believe that imperialism abroad means military despotism at home; but I know full well that commercialism and not McKinleyism, except as the two are one, is res ponsible for imperialism. I know that a campaign against imperialism by retalism, whether under the leadership of McKinley or Bryan, will be helpless to destroy imperialism. I know that imperialism abroad cannot be destroyed nor a military despotism at home be averted, except the breeding pens of both shall be closed out in the overthrow of commercialism as the dominant factor in American life.

This neither Mr. Bryan nor his party, cated any intention of doing. So as an anti-imperialist. I must vote for the it will take a million votes in the new only party, which striking at commer-party to compel the reorganization by cialism, will make imperialism impossi-

The Democratic party promises to destroy the trusts. But it would be just as reasonable for it to promise to destroy frosts, whirlwinds and the meonshine. I do not want the trusts destroyed, nor any other labor-saving de-vice. I want them socialized and all The great trusts are the inevitable outcome of the great machines and of the world market. The partnership was not able to do the business which the great machines made possible and so corporations underbid each other for same market, and were obliged to tual destruction. As the market has world-wide organization also It is the creator and defender of destroy it means a return to imperfect niversal bankruptoy as well. But we sed neither submit nor destroy. We say socialise. To submit is the Republican program. To destroy is the Democratic program. To socialize and so bring its benefits to every one of us is the program of the Social Democracy. Until that can be done, nothing can be done worth the doing. I shall help the Social Democracy what I can in To submit is the Re carrying out its program.

The Democratic party promises direct egislation; but it has been doing so not govern Itself by direct vote of its own members, can be trusted to undertake the government of the country in such a way.

The Social Democracy practices the direct vote and will extend it to the affairs of the country as rapidly as it is able to advance itself.

The Democratic party promises the free coinage of silver, but explains that SHOWS CAUSE FOR DOING SO. It will be powerless to secure it, and the opponents of free coinage are comforta ble and satisfied in supporting the ticket. If Mr. Olney can come back to the party because it cannot possibly secure free silver, certainly no one who believes as I do, that free silver was an important issue, not for the sake of what the measure itself would secure, but for what its agitation might lead to in the reorganization of parties can find any reason for voting with Olney

> I know that the evil of trusts, the coming of imperialism, and the theft of the money conspiracy, are all of them but incidents in the progress which gives the producer a certain producins power and then pays a wage which enables him to buy back only a portion of his products, and leaves the rest in private hands and makes the foreign market necessary. If Mr. Bryan does not go after the foreign market with a gun, he must get it some other way equally disastrous for the workers both at home and abroad. I am not greatly interested in the question, whether it shall be sought for with a gun or som other way. What I want is such a purchasing power for the workers at home as will make it possible for them to buy out of the market all their labor puts there. Then there will be no chasing after foreign markets either with without a gun. There will be no robber so foolish as to put in his time trying to subjugate people that he cannot rob. Mr. McKinley justifies subjugation. Mr. Bryan attacks subjugation. I want to stop the robbery at home which provokes the subjugation abroad. Neither Mr. McKipley nor Mr. Bryan will consent to that program and neither can have my vote

There is just one thing that will carry out that program and that, is to put into one party those who produce more than they get; and into another, those who get more than they produce. The overwhelming majority will be with the surplus producer. The non-producing surplus petter, trying to find some one to buy the goods he cannot use, will be out of power, but he need not be out of a job. The producers once in power, will proceed to place the means of production within the reach of all, including the sometime non-producer along with the rest. The class struggle will be over, the useless class will have joined the ranks of the useful. The useful class will become universal, and hunanity at last will be conscious of itself.

The practical question for a dozen years, has been how to bring about this division. I am persuaded that a vote for Mr. Bryan or Mr. McKinley, will in no way hasten its coming. A million votes for the Social Democracy, will compel the reorganization, and that not by converting either of the old parties, but by compelling their union against the new party, and the speedy overthrow of both.

If we can get that number now, victory is near. If we cannot, then all the more reason for beginning at once, for which imperialism will die, the trusts ease from troubling, the money conspiracy lose its power to enslave, and vernment come to be administered by the direct authority of the people million and shall, therefore, vote for Debs and Harriman, the candidaates of

"Compulsory Arbitration."

A number of capitalist papers are demanding compulsory arbitration as a "remedy for labor troubles." It is especially suggested by the Pennsylrania miners' strike. Wouldn't it be a nice thing for the mine owners if they could just call in the state of Pennsylarbitrate and have those same authori ties settle the question. This is the time when one feels that we need either a fool killer or some kindergarten in-struction for those "Socialists" who nave been talking about "New Ze land," and thus encouraging just this kind of tyranny. If we are compe country it will in no small degree be able to distinguish between socialism and state capitalism, which they mis-name state socialism.

and Propaganda Shows the Progress Made.

Is socialism growing in Chicago? Well, I should rather think it was. And if anyone doubts it let him just take a snap shot at the situation as it was during the presidential election of four years ago. The official language of the section had just become English, and the members of the party who were able to make a public speech in that language could be counted on the fingers of one hand and not need the thumb either. There was not a line Socialist literature being lesued within the bounds of Illinois, and preious little that could deserve the name between the Alleghenies and the Rockles. Indeed, we do not have to go back that far. Only eighteen months ago here was not a word of socialism being orinted in English in the city of Chiago. But since that time close to a hundred thousand books and pamph lets, embracing nearly twenty-five titles have gone forth on their mission of enlightenment, while of the Workers' Call alone over half a million copies have been sent broadchat laden wiah the gospel of socialism, and at the present time two weeklies and a monthly are sending out editions with a com bined strength into the tens of thou ands, while there is a small flood of eaflets and minor literature swelling up at this point and flowing out over the surrounding country.

And the meetings we held then, and the ones we have today! The branches were seldom able to hire halls and so were compelled to accept the offer of sympathetic saloonkeepers of "free" halls, whose freedom had a habit of frequently coming to a sudden stop when it was found that Socialists were not good saloon customers. Then the were the outdoor meetings. Any old when ever any government becomes de-speaker (and by an "old" speaker is simply meant one who did not join the party within the last two years); can tell stories of the times when he climbed on to a soap box and shouted away his lungs to an audience composed of two boys, a dog and a sympathetic comrade. Today we see th streets blocked from curb to curb with eager, anxious listeners to whom the doctrines of socialism are welcome tidings of industrial freedom.

Two or three times in a winter branch would arrange for a 'mass meeting." Handbills would be distributed from house to house by a few faithful workers, and each comrade would work for days to get a crowd. Then when the night came there would be members from a couple of nearby branches and eight or ten members of the local branch, a couple of small ers." And while the speaker was pouring forth his eloquence attention was that some impression might be made.

After the lecture was over they would be used to fine the lecture with a few hundred millionaire tramps and millions of proletarian tramps. be urged to "ask questions" and then to "unite with the party," and when a new member was secured it was a sigto come. Well, this week we have a meeting in Central Music hall and already the cry is that all the tickets will soon be gone and those desiring seats must "call early and avoid the rush," while at the last meeting of the Central Committee there were FORTY. FIVE applications from new members and no one fainted from surprise.

Only a year ago it was a far away dream that we might some day have a regular paid organizer in the city of Chicago, and here he is today with two more at work through the state, sending in a bunch of new sections every week or so. And so this story might go on for several columns before getting through with the things we have to be vith yet. The real struggle has just egun. Capitalism is now girding on its much battered but still powerful armor for an open fight. There is no doubt as to the outcome, no fear of the final result, no shrinking from the ontest. But it is a time when every man is expected to do his duty. ask himself is. "How much of this admany subscribers have I secured to the party press?" And then let those now work who never worked before, and those whose shoulders have ever been at the wheel give an extra lift and there will be one long stride toward the Cooperative Commonwealth.

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

In the Chicago Tribune of the 20th inst. there appears a picture on the front page depicting the home of a miner in the coal regions of Pennsylvania. In the doorway of a mean looking little but built of rough boards, sits a haggard, emaciated woman with two stunted and ragged little girls by her side and an infant in her lap. A few paces away a wretched tattered boy of fourteen or thereabouts with a largestred pick on his shoulder and a bucket in his left hand, is represented as in the act of going to work. Underneath this picture of squalld misery appears the legend, "For sake of these, arbitrate." which has always been the out- It is evident that capitalism wishes to preserve this "home."

The American Bible society in its reent report, declares that there has een a decrease in its output of the "Blessed word" to the amount of ow 99,000 in the last five years. Rev. R. A. Torrey, successor to Moody, rushes into print in the Tribune to show that even if this particular company has lost trade there are still more Bibles circulated than ever before, and ascribe the above reported decrease to the fact of the competition which exists amongst the firms handling the word of God and the better business methods pursued by them. At any rate, even it the report were true, the law of com-pensation steps in. What is lost to Bible manufacturers is gained by the owners of the factories which produccannon, rifles, bayonets and ammuni tion. If these "carnal weapons" ceed in "pacifying" the inhabitants of China and the Philippines the Bible market will rise to its normal level Restore "confidence" and all will be well once more.

The anti-Christian manifestations in China, according to the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, are due not at all to the "ar rogance of the missionaries," but to the dissolute lives led by the white traders who do business in China Talmage expresses his opinion of these men by declaring that they are "a sad commentary on our boasted civiliza tion," a remark, by the way, which we remember to have heard somewhere be fore. As the funds for the support of missionaries comes chiefly from that very class, the capitalist, treding, profit mongering class, whom Talmage has seen fit to revile, we might say with equal truth, that, the ingratitude displayed by Talmage towards these men is an equally "sad commentary on our boasted civilization."

We might also remark that a few months ago this same Talmage obtained an audience from the Czar, while he (Talmage) was visiting St. Peters-burg. So sensible was he of the tremendous honor conferred upon him, that he at once started throughout the public press of this country, a chorus of praise for everything Russian. Th Czar was a most noble, humane, sympathetic, etc., etc., the Russian government an exemplary one, the Russian people religious, kindly, enlightened, devoted simple etc. etc., ad nauseam And now as a "sad commentary" upor all this panegyric comes the seemingly well-authenticated news of the butch ery of 5,000 Chinese, men, women and children by the soldiers of this most merciful exar. We are inclined to think that the "saddest commentary upon our boasted civilization" lies in the fact that this clerical boot-licker and sycophant is a recognized part of it.

This is the headline which Hearst's Chicago American of the 22nd inst. spreads in hig red letters across the whole width of the front page:

When the "coal barons" determined upon importing the cheap labor of Central Europe into Pennsylvania mines over a dozen years ago the complaint of the American miner ascended unto heaven, but the capitalists said, "If you interfere with our workmen, you will be shot." Wm. Butscher, National Secretary, S. D. P.
Dear Comrade:—The irregularities of our communications with the old N. E. C. of the S. L. P. has made it impossible for us to know officially the evolutions which it underwent uniting with the S. D. P., so constituting an only and strong Socialist party in America.
The National Secretary, Com. Henry Slobedin, who knows me personally, will excuse all my omissions. Myself and all the comrades that work with us in diffusing the Socialist ideals and in the organization of the party in this country, are obstructed by great obstacles in our propaganda.

country, are obstructed by great obstacles in our propaganda.

While our Socialist movement in Porto Rico is such that could not hinder or conflict with capitalist oppression and its politics, we were looked upon with indifference, and they left us make our campaign unmolested.

We published a paper. "Porvernir Social," for some time, and our meetings of propaganda were held without any trouble. Today, however, things have changed. Today socialism has several eligible candidates in various municipalities and this gives great pains to the capitalist parties. For a long time we have not been able to edit our paper, as it is impossible to find anyone who will print it, not only because they refuse, but they ask such exorbitant prices that we are unable to pay them.

pay them. I again repeat the same request made some time ago to Comrade Siobodin. We need a printing press of small cost. The N. E. C. may feel essured all sacrifice made for Porto Rico will in a short time be compensated. A Socialist paper per will be a powerful factor of propaganda. The N. E. C., if it were possible, might buy in New York an in nexpensive printing press, to be paid within a certain time; the longer the better. The State Committee here would ray its monthly until the cost was fully covered. Besides when I returned from New York I assured my comrades this promise would be fuffilled. With refersence to the situation of the party here in Porto Rico. I send you a copy of the proceedings of the convention held on the 31st of August.

As the last event of the labor movement on the Island. I would say that the "Federacion Libre," in the name of all unions, declared a general, strike. This fact gave reasons to our enemies, the Republicans (who are the most irreconcilable), to have recourse to and to get the police, and all their tools against us. All sorts of charges were profered against us, and more than twenty-five workingmen—ALL SOCIALISTS—were incarcerated. The "Tribunal de Poliria," which is here called the "Holy Office," for its peculiar way to sentence, condemned ten of our comrades to 20 and 33 days at hard labor, and the others brought to court for alleged crimes of "threatening coerce" and for uniting to have their salary raised. I was a prisoner almost during the whole month of August, arbitrarily.

The capitalists want to terrorize and kill not only the unions and the "Federacion Libre," but also to discredit and break apart the Socialist groups. One of our comrades, Lares Tuan Forres, a tobacconist, was treacherously murdered by a Republican assassin.

These infamous plans of the Republicans in trying to intimidate us and kill our legal societies and sections, have focused in us much sympathy, and has been to them of no avail.

It is true that we have spent more than what we had and the strike did not come out as we wished, but we go immediately to the N. E. C. of the S. D. P.

3. That in view of the imperative necessity to publish a party organ in Porto Rico and of the insurmountable obstacles which the owners of the printing presses hold out to us, the N. E. C. be petitioned again, that according to the promise of Comrade Slobodin and the pledge on our part to pay $15.60 monthly they will see if it is possible to import to this city a printing press to publish our "Porvenir Social," (The Social Puture), and that no effort will be spared to meet our obligations.

4. That the documents and official authorization acknowledging the State Committee and the Section of Porto Rico be delivered to the N. E. C. of the Social Democratic party.

Sico be delivered to the N. E. C. of the Social Democratic party.

5. That the said N. E. C. be earnestly equested to have translated into Spansh two or three propaganda leaflets, ssuing 4,000 copies of each; the State Committee of Porto Rice to pay the expenses by the sale of same.

6. That we trust that all the above petitions which we made at the present accomment will be granted as far as it is possible, feeling sure that they will give great impetus and create a valiant element for the S. D. P. to its organization in Porto Rico and to international socialism in this country.

Editor Workers' CalliCertain "so-cailed" Socialists with pessimistic tendencies in their natures have been telling us, that social-sm could never grow in an agricultural district. If those same people could but realize and know of the worderful growth of the movement in the reate of Iowa during the past tweive months. "me thinks" they would never again yenfure an opinion along that line. New branches are being organized, while the membership is increasing in those already organized.

As secretary-treasurer of the State Committee. I am receiving communications from individual Sechalists profering their best wishes and financial support. The party papers are being read and Socialist literature scattered to an extent not dreamed of one year ago. Socialist arguments are about as common as January frosts, and the people are wondering why the Socialists nearly always some out "first best." It is like this: About the only fellow wiffo will argue with a Socialist on socialism is the man who does not understands if he sees there is nothing left to argue about. State Organizer A. W. Ricker is still hard at work in the field, working at the present time in the western and north central parts of the state. Comrade C. A. Lioyd of Muscatine started out last week to help push the cause along, but after holding one meeting at Suffalo on the 20th, was on account of sickness, compelled to return home. Comrade Chas. Comrade Klenke has held since September 1st, twenty-one out-door meetings on his trip through the state, losing only one meeting at Bloomington on account of a storm.

The attendance, according to the papers in the towns where he has visited, was between 200 and 500.

Great enthusiasm has been aroused. Many books and pamphleis on socialism, and over 5,000 papers have been sold and distributed.

The effect of his tour has been felteverywhere he has visited. Old comrades who had not been active are again active and enthusiastic. New life and new blood is corning into the movement. Comrade Klenke has held since Sep-

"Plaintiffs claim that the decision applies to all labor union scales. Representatives of labor interests and the attorneys for the plaintiffs claim that it does not, that the scales submitted to employers do not contain a binding clause, in which members of the unions agree not to work for others for less than scale rates; that they are merely a declaration that work for certain individuals or concerns shall be charged for at the rates named in the scale, and that it applies only to the contract in this case.

Now it is to be presumed that Justice Halloran decided this case by what he honestly believes to be the law covering it; but are there no trusts or combinations in and about this city other than the labor unions? Where is the Standard Oil company who a few months ago put the price of oil down to five and six cents till it had crushed the life out of all little local concerts known as the Crystal oil company, which had been retalling oil here long before the Standard entered this field. The proprietor of the Crystal issued printed handbills to the people of this city imploring them to stand by him—"a home industry." But the crushing and swallowing continued till one morning we saw by the papers that the Crystal oil company was a thing of the pass week. But when laborers, whose only capital is their daily toll, unite for protection, why, even justices of the peac seem to have no difficulty in finding statutory law seemingly sufficient to sustain them in a decision against wretched teamsters who unite for the purpose of getting $3 a day for such laborious work as hauling brick, sand, etc., instead of $2.75; either of which is a fabulous sum upon which to feed and rses, keep wagons in repair, feed, clothe, shelter and educate a family as becomes an "American citizen. He alleged that as a member of the union he was entitled to $2 a day because the defendant, the Capital City Brick& Pipe company and other employers had entered into a contract with the union to pay $2 a day in consideration of which it had been agreed by the work for other parties for less than $2. "The defendants demurred to the contract, alleging that it was contrary to PUBLIC POLICY, in that it is a violation of the anti-trust statutes, which prohibit corporations, pattnerships, individuals, etc., from entering into pools, trusts or combinations for the purpose of controlling the price of a commodity, limiting its production, etc. It was argued that the section of the contract in which the union this section.

rs Struggle Desperately Against the Intelerable Conditions of Capitalist Blavery.

This great struggle between owner and operator, producer and parasite, in the coal fields of Pennsylvania has now entered upon its second week. Up to the present time every development has been in favor of the men. Every effort has been made by the employers to break the resistance of the men. Troops have been poured into the disdate the workers, the price of coal has been sent to unheard of heights to inflame public opinion and fill the pock-ets of the Coal Trust; every endeavor has been made to import scabs and prea conflict with violence; finally the threat is now made that the mines will be flooded and abandoned if the miners do not surrender. But through it all the men have fought desperately, cautiously, intelligently. They have refused to offer an excuse for the use of the troops in spite of all provoca-tion, although there is no telling what the next moment may bring forth. Alreay the employment of desperate villains as deputies, composed of the slums of the neighboring cities has led to bloodshed in one instance. These are the same kind of men who have been proved to set fire to freight cars in Chicago in 1894 and placed dynamite under street cars in St. Louis last spring, and doubtless the same tactics are being used here, and one portion of them are sent among the strikers to commit "acts of violence" which will give an excuse to their fellow villains to fire on the defenseless miners.

On Friday last these hired butchers succeeded in finding an excuse to perform a portion of their dastardly work and firing into a crowd of defenseless laborers added one more to the now long and rapidly growing list of the eleven wounded" is the way the headmob of armed and desperate miners. incident from a battle into a massacre.

All admit that the conditions under which the strikers are living are below exception of the correspondent of the Chicago Record, Geo. W. Curtis, whose stamp him as having reached the very infinitely more that only the pen of a Dante or a Victor Hugo could adequately describe.

At the present time there are nearly 140,000 men out and they show no signs of weakening. On the contrary the bituminous miners and the railroad employes stand ready to assist them with a sympathetic strike should such measures become necessary. One of the most prominent features of the strike has been the part played by the women and Child labor-has always been in the mines, and on the present occasion the children have shown a willingness to stand together that goes far to show that even the hell of the Pennsylvania coal mines is not wholly unable to quench the fires of rebellion against oppression by the coming gen-At Scranton 3,000 of these boys marched the streets with banners and transparencies cheering and encouraging their fathers and brothers. The capitalistic class is represented by the Republican party, the middle class by the Social Democratic party, the Democratic party class by the Social Democratic party back of these is committed to the connomic interests of the class that it represents.

monwealth, with woman standing side by side with man.

"The brand of inferiority will be crassed from her brow and together they will go forward to a higher and happier life."

The alleged issues of the old parties are all rooted in the existing economic system, which they are pledged to preserve and perpettate, and which our party is pledged to abolish. The contest is for the control of the government by three separate classes, into which modern society is divided. The control which modern society is divided. The Comrade Perry, the candidate for governor in Illinois, then gave a few minutes' talk, pointing out the fact fit to nominate for the highest posiclass by the Social Democratic party. Each of these is committed to the economic interests of the class that it represents.

The Social Democratic platform is a plain indictment of the capitalistic system. It is a call for class political action on the part of the working class, and its ringing declaration in favor of the collective ownership of the means of production is the clarion voice of economic freedom.

The platform of each pagty is the expression of the class it represents. The platform of the Democratic party is the expression of the Edwindle capitalists. It differs from the Republican in degree only. The difference between it and the Social Democratic platform is not in degree, but in kind. The platform of the Republican in the social Democratic platform is not in degree, but in kind. The platform of the Republican party favors expansion. As to what we have done since being elected. I may state that the pay of street employes has been increased 25 cents per day and their hours of labor decreased from 9 to 8, thereby giving them $2 per day for eight hours work. Next we succeeded in reducing the rate of gas from $1.35 to $1 per thousand, as we did not believe it was right that the gas company should pay 50 per cent dividends on their stock, with money taken from the people. The gas company claimed that it had contemplated making this reduction some four months previous to our demand, in order to minimize the effect of our action, but we plainly told them that we considered their profits altogether too large, in fact, that we helleved THAT PROFITS WERE TOO LARGES WHEN THEY EXCEEDED BY ONE them through this vale of tears. Last year we had another election, and the Democrats profiting by the lesson they had learned, united not only all the factions in their party, but actually linked themselves with their anoient enemy, the Republicans, to defeat the Socialists. Yes, friends, not only did Republicans and Democrats join forces for this purpose, but the Prohibitionists also joined hands with their liquor-drinking friends to insure its acromplishment.

Money literally poured into the city of Haverhill: thousands of dollars were sent by the state and national committees of the old parties. But even this was not all. The railroad which the Socialists had squeezed rather hard for the two years previous, sent an unfilled check to the chairman of the united Republican-Democratic-Prohibition party, which had merged into ene body calling themselves the citigens' party. This check was left unfilled so that the chairman might write down any sum he saw fit, and yet, in spite of all, we were victorious. Not only did we re-elect our mayor, but increased the representation in the aldermanic chamber to six, electing them all with comfortable majorities.

As to what we have done since being elected, I may state that the pay involved in the first creative steps of an organized movement.

"Three great lines were converging in the American Socialist outcome. We must name first the Socialist Labor people who brought from Europe to America what is sometimes called dogmatic socialism. These men have seemed to some of us to be sectarians, and harsh, and to have carried class-consciousness into class batred. But is it to be wendered at that they have been bitter and dogmatic in their advocacy of socialism and in their advocacy of socialism and in their advocacy of socialism were men who had themselves experienced the bitterness and devastation of life that comes to labor in the service of capitalism: they were men who spelled out their Karl Mark.in the hideous misery of sweatshops: men who pawned their threadbare coats to print their tracts. THEX WERE SOCIALISTS WHEN IT TOOK A FANATIC AND A RERO TO BEAS SOCIALIST; Socialists, when to be broom as a Socialist meant hunger or man world are here, but the creation remains to be underdaken. The task of creating a coherent and free society is the mightlest fo which man has summer that he world in the task which now presses urgently thom us. Socialism does not recognize as society anything of the sort.

The poil of the big office buildings may show a big majority for McKinley, in the sees in every succeeding human stages a preparation for society. The Socialist is an evolutionist, but with this difference between himself and much that is called scientific evolution, namely that the social will is henceforth to be the superme factor an evolution. Hither the substitution of blind forces and in our did not understand unding that moment he creation of blind forces and in the swill not done in the substitution of blind forces and in the swill not according to his own will, and make swill as the evoluted when man will become conscious of himself as the decretal and creative force in evolution. Man will be the decretal and creative force in evolution according to his own will, and make out of society what he wants it to be. Henceforth take evolution in his own hands, and fashion queation according to his own will, and make out of society what he wants it to be. Henceforth the social will be to become the creater and master, and at whose words the strife and storms of history what he stifled, and give back their responsive peace to the masterful social will of force.

Again some of you are offended at the class conscious appeal of socialism, it think it is because, you do not rightly understand its meaning. BORROWS FROM ANARCHISM.

The old adage that a "drowning man in the arguments (?) to which the capitalist press is forced to resort in its efforts to stem the growing tide of socialism. Even the conclusions of the being pressed into service to this end. shops, the Chicago Tribune professes ent, and cites Kropotkin to prove that not conditioned on sex. the great and concentrated industries are gradually melting away and their place being filled by smaller ones. Even if one of Kropotkin's statements in aid of this position be admitted as truth. namely, that the number of employes per establishment is decreasing in Eng. land, may it not also explain the reason why the United States and Germany are outstripping England in the markets of the world. It is a trulam in statistical matters, that anything can be proved by figures, providing there is a definite object to be attained which is determined on beforehand. Kropotkin wished to demonstrate that society is approaching the Anarchist Millenium, where each man owns his own railroad with his own individual time-table; each owning his own individual factory, governed in its operations by his own 'individual' whim. The Tribune, like a true capitalist organ, speaks approvingly of these ridirulous conclusions, which would make us believe that greater results can be obtained by individual than by collective effort. Who will swallow such a dose? At any rate the Socialists have always contended that a close relation exists between aparchism and capital-

SOCIALISM AND WOMEN.

In the brief account of the Socialist parade of last Saturday, which appeared in the daily press of the city. the number of women who took part In this way you do not have to wait to in the proce sion was com nted upon as being rather remarkable, and to your premium, but can purchase cards those outside the movement who look upon socialism as mere "politics," in the capitalist sense of the word, it is not strange that this feature should attract their attention and occasion some surprise. Not understanding that women have exactly the same interest in securing economic freedom as men. and being fully convinced of the truth of the hackneyed saying that "women's sphere is the home," it might be expected that the presence of women in the parade would strike them as "unconventional" to use a word dear to the hide-bound bourgeois. Although the economic pressure exerted upon the wage workers by the exigencies of cap-Italism, has forced women into professions and employments which at one time were filled exclusively by men alone, it is quite true that "politics," as represented by the Republican and Democratic parties was and is yet, rewarded as being exclusively a field of ection for the male sex and the anpearance of a woman in active political life in either of the great capitalist parties is still looked upon as an event worth noting, from its infrequent occurrence. The entire tendency of the capitalist mode of production being in the direction of taking the woman from the "home," (which is declared to be her "proper sphere"), and forcing her to enter the labor market in competition with higher priced male labor, it is not difficult to see why neither of the old capitalist parties presented any at traction for wage workingwomen. And when it is also considered, that the woman had no voice in political matters, (a state of affairs both capitalist parties regard as perfectly correct), it is plain that her co-operation in active politics would be regarded as useless and unnecessary. The average work ingman outside the Socialist movement has no conception of the truth, that the fact that he is possessed of a vote is the only earthly reason for the professions of interest in his welfare with which the capitalist politicians deluge him as election time draws near. Could he be disfranchised and made to believe that such was the natural order of things, he would be regarded much as the ruling classes of Russia regard the peasantry and working classes of that country, or as the southern planter before the war regarded the slaves he might happen to own. When the women ble numbers, it must necessarily be one that looks to an entire change in existing economic conditions, and in socialism such a movement is found. As a proof of this assertion it is only necessary to point out that in Belgium alone the proportion of women to men in the Socialist movement is vastly grasps at a straw" is well exemplified greater than in any other country, mainly for the reason that the universal suffrage, for the attainment of which the Socialists are devoting all their energies, includes in its program so-called "philosophical anarchist" are both women and men on an absolutely equal footing. "Not Guilty." From the published reports of the mobbing of Rooseyelt by Colorado workingtaen, we draw the conclusion that the Colonel has been made the vic tim of a baseless accusation. The crowd of hostile wage slaves it is stated, pre faced their riotous demonstration yelling "What did you do to OUR silver Roosevelt can conscient ly declare that he "didn't do a thing to them." and might further plead that his accusers were laboring under the delusion of supposing themselves to be property owners. The incident, how ever, is a striking illustration of the oily and blindness of workingmen who imagine that capitalist politics are a matter of importance to their class.

There is no socialism in the dem eratic platform, none in the democratic candidate and none in the democrati ote for it. Mr. Bryan is an individualist supporting a capitalist system.—San Diego Chieftain.

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

The meeting which formally opened the Socialist campaign in this city, was in itself a testimonial to the fact that most nightly stood upon the street corners and declared the principles of so-cialism to the passers by, have not cialism to the passers by, have not been made in vain. These apostles and neralds of the "new era" went out into the highways and byways to fetch them in, and on the evening of the 29th of September, they "came in" with a vengeance, in numbers estimated from ight to ten thousand. One of the largest halls in the city filled to its utmost capacity, two "overflow" meetings, each probably as large as the one held in the hall, and an imposing procession in talism is not imperialism, but the ques which marched thousands of sturdy, determined Socialists, both men, and dustrial centers. Arnoid White, a cor-women are, the first fruits of the seed respondent for the Inter Ocean, reviews sown by the once despised "curbstone orators," the impracticable, visionary, discontented Socialist propagandists.

candidate, Eugene V. Debs, fully demonstrated to the satisfaction, even of "narrowest" Socialist present, that he possesses the clearest possible conception of the "paramount issue" for the working class-Socialism vs. Capibox in the coming election. The hall, necessity of it. with its audience of 3,000 people, resounded with enthusiastic cheers when the standard bearer of socialism announced his position, and when our comrade appeared on the stand at the overflow meetings outside, to repeat as definitely what he had uttered in the surging thousands on the street, is almost impossible to describe.

Equally cordial was the greeting received by Professor George D. Herron, and the importance of his address cannot be over-estimated. The writer of this column, like many other Socialists, so-called "prominent" persons. This of his labor, or in other words, Social it exists. But it must be said that ual ownership of the means of produc Professor Herron's address left no grounds for doubt. He not only declared him self a Socialist, but portraved his first steps toward socialism It was an unconscious development of cause it required a long time to realize from whence came the power that first made him feel the lash of wage slavery. But he got there. And the importance of his acquisition to the movement for economic freedom is fully testified to by the fact that not one of the capitalist sheets of the next day made the slightest comment on Professor Herron's speech-did not in fact even al-lude to it.

The daily papers announce that the Joliet steel mills have closed down for lack of orders. The officials of the company declare that this action is due to the uncertainty prevailing in the minds of merchants and consumers in regard to the political situation. The Republican papers tell the workingmen that if they yote for McKinley this un-certainty will disappear and they will be able to go to work again. Demo cratic papers say it is an effort to ing as the owners of the mills desire While both vie with each other in professions of "friendliness" for the la borers; both at the same time also conupon the working class, in the owner ship of these mills. Yet this does not prevent them from tickling the ears of the workers with such phrases as "sovereign voters, "free citizens," etc., etc.

But they point out no remedy for this state of affairs, except that of submission on the part of the workers to the class in whose interest the press exists. The workingmen can only "restore confidence" in their masters, the "Make the mills, and all the other means of production, the collective property of all the people and you will not be dependent, upon the confidence or want of confidence which today gives or takes away the opportunity of even a bare livelihood.

And now Richard Croker who "evo luted" from an ordinary commonplace thug to the position of a "boss" in the Democratic party, comes forward to take part in the popular political pastime known as 'scoring" the trusts. Not for himself does the unselfish Croker plead. He is tolerably secure. But the trusts-those monsters of iniquity tion, because, as he puts it, "they ruin the future of boys." Croker is right The opportunity which enabled an ig Croker is right. porant, brutal hoodlum to control the destinies of the metropolis of a co ent will certainly diminish as the trusts increase in size and imports and when socialism, which is their uitimate end, arrives, those opportunities will be gone forever.

It is a significant comment upon the nature of capitalist "morality" that Croker, who is in himself a fair repreentative of the excrement of capitalist society, should be pressed into service by the capitalist journals to act as a Mentor to the young. His initial perormance in this role, in which he gave vise counsel to Terry McGovern the prizefighter, not to exceed the limit of to in betting on a horse race, was sidely circulated throughout the press of this country. Since then he has been oted on several occasions in a simiadvice. And it is a good thing for the that they cannot. What they can do, however, nay, what they will do, is to help as much as possible in the economic evolution which is now going on, and whose present sympt the trusts, are the precursors of socialism, even now point out that the Croker type is becoming impossible.

Almost every day the capitalist pa pers publish dispatches from Europe which contain warning of the approx ing commercial crash. Last week w called attention to an ominous dispatch of this nature from Germany. This week similar news came from England France and Belgium. In England the serious problem which confronts capition of the unemployed in the large in the situation there and proposes immigration to the colonies as a remedy, in spite of the palpable fact that the col-And the speakers. But for the question of the unem ployed in England as elsewhere, capitalism has no real remedy. It will continue to grow until the working class realizing its full import, turn their attention to the cause which underlies it hall, the reception accorded him by the and of which it is a natural consequence, viz. the system of appropriating the surplus product of labor by a ruling class, an appropriation which in plain terms means robbery. > In reference to the water stealing at the Stockyards, it is regarded as significant triumph of "justice" by the capitalist press that three or four of the employes of the great packing houses have been indicted for the theft of city water. But there has been no indictment, nor even the proposal of one, against the great stockholders and owners of the plants, the men who pocket the swag, and pay their employe, whether manager or day laborer only on condition that profits are made, whether by embalming beef or stealing water, being immaterial to them. The profits go to the owners, and the "legal" consequences fall upon the shoulders of the wage slaves. Some time ag we stated that the former were above the law, and nothing has occurred which would make a withdrawal of the statement necessary.

In asking workingmen to vote for themselves in the present campaign, and they can only do so by voting the Socialist ticket, represented by Eugens V. Debs and Job Harriman, their attention is called to the fact that the present period of "unexampled prosperity, such as it is, shows unmistakable signs of fizzling out. It makes little difference whether McKinley or Bryan is The conditions which prevailed from '93 to '97 are likely to shortly reappear with intensified force. The est protection against McKinley's regular army, or Bryan's well-organized militia, is beyond all doubt a strong Socialist vote. at "Li Hung Chang," the Chinese statesman, who is pictured in the attitude of a suppliant for peace, befor the haughty "Sam." Underneath is th egend, in which the guilt of Li Hung Chang is presumably set forth. It runs "He wrung a fortune of $100,000,000 from the Chinese people." Let us hope that "Uncle Sam" will graiously overlook this awful depravity on the part of Li, and grant him the peace he sues for. The terms might be arranged say by John D. Rockefeller, would-be Senator Clark, and that as piring young politician, Cornellus Vanderbilt. A conference with Li and the "representatives" might result in the former getting some valuable pointers on the gentie art of "wringing" afte the most approved up-to-date methods.

"Final Dispositions."

The Times-Herald sounds a note of varning in its last editorial regarding socialism. It prefaces its remarks a lie, to the effect that the Socialists are not putting up electoral tickets, but are throwing their strength in the tional election to Bryan. Then it gives the lie to the statement, by sounding te of warning to the Republicans who have been trying to console them elves with the hope that the Socialis rote would draw from Bryan, by saying "Let us not in finally disposing of Bryan raise up Debs to be reckon with in the future." LEGALLY DECIDED.

tingmen! You Are "Free to Pick our Own Boss"—How About 59-lecting Yourself for the Job!

A legal luminary of this city has been etting his farthing candle shine for the benefit of workingmen. He has given it as his opinion that no man is ompelled to be an "unwilling" ser vant. There, now! All the planowork ers, for instance, who last spring were starved into submission by the owners of the factories, returned to their work 'willingly." All those men in the build ing trades who were driven by want to accept tobs from the members of the 'ontractors' association, did so "willingly." This wise judge, to balance his opinion, and to show that what is auce for the proletarian goose is also sauce for the capitalist gander, furthermore declared, that no employer can be compelled against his will to keep an employe. Well we should say not This wise decision is published in the Chicago Journal under the extraordinary heading, "Every man is free to pick his boss." That would be a glorious privilege if true, but the fact is it is utterly impossible under existing conditions. If the heading were transposed so as to read, "Every boss is free to pick his own men," it would far more nearly coincide with conditions as they now are. Every boss can pick his own men, because he is "boss." If we work-ingmen ever desire to obtain our industrial freedom, it is necessary to get a proper understanding of the meaning of this term, "boss," in the sense that it is used in capitalist society. It does not necessarily mean one who directs those overflow meetings, but it takes or superintends production; but is de scriptive of an individual who can refuse or discharge any worker at his Democratic friends, as regards out own sweet will and leave him face to face with misery and want. That is ROLL UP ONE for yourselves what "boss" means, and workingmen must abolish him. Socialism-collective ownership of the means of production, can alone accomplish it.

UNION MAN! READ THIS.

Will You Vote With Your Own Class or That of Your Masters?-Deba or Bryan-Wheil.

"You all did love him once, not without cause; what cause witholds you then to 'vote' for him?"

This is not the time to mourn, so we have changed Shakespeares' quotation in the matter of one word, substituting vote" for "mourn."

It seems necessary to bring the

'man' to the attention of the union men, for the blindness which some of them show in the following of Bryan, calls for a reminder to them. Again we can quote Wm, S. with effect, "O judgment, thou art fled to brutish beasts, and men have lost their reasons." How do the union men who are going to vote for Bryan, (or for Mc Kinley either, for that matter), reason in regard to persons? Why do they shut their eyes to the fact that a man of their own class, who has been tried and not found wanting, is up for their consideration on election day? And why do they flock to a man who at a critical time, when asked for his opin ion as to the labor troubles then existing, said in effect, "Let the workingmen go to the devil," and this is what Bryan is reported to have said while a representative in congress, at the time of the Chicago strike in 1894. At that time Eugene V. Debs was at the head of the A. R. U., directing a battle in the interests of workingmen against the class to which Mr. Bryan belongs, and rather than obey an injunction issued by a judge of the class to which Bryan belongs. Debs went to jail. He did not say, "let the workingmen go to the devil." He is one of them, and is conscious of their power to right the wrongs from which they suffer, and are union men going to vote against Debs and for Bryan, who has no conception of the method to be pursued in order that the workers may be free. To those owners of the means of production, by voting them into power. How different the Socialist message to the working-men! "Make the mills and all control of the Chicago papers of last Sunday publishes a cartoon representing "Uncle Sam" looking disdainfully day? Why vote for a "scab" representing "Uncle Sam" looking disdainfully day? Why vote for a "scab" representing "Uncle Sam" looking disdainfully day? Why vote for a "scab" representing "Uncle Sam" looking disdainfully day? jative? You may answer that you believe in socialism, but that between Mc-Kinley and Bryan you favor a certain one, and as either one of them will surely be elected, you want to have a oice in helping to elect the better. Let us ask then why socialism is the only method to free the workingmen, they don't vote for it overwhelmingly? it not because of their ignorance of it? And is not this the same as saying that either Bryan or McKinley will be elected because of the workers' ignorance? Then you are going to cast your votwith the ignorant simply be gnorant will win. Why not swell the number of those who know their inter ests, and unionize them where they will do the most good-at the polls, by voting with your class nominee as against ominees of the class which is happy in the ignorance of the workers?

The Great Coal Strike.

At the last reports the miners' strike vas still unsettled, but the men seem to be gaining all the time. The opera tors now stand ready to give them ar advance of ten per cent in wages and to grant many of their other demands but obstinately refuse to recognize the union. Rightly enough the men refus ider any proposition for settlenent that does not include such a recognition. The men as well as imployers know full well that anything short of this will have little permanen benefit for the laborers. No matter what the masters may promise to the men if it is on the condition that they lay down their only means of fighting it will be but a barren victory.

THEIR TRUE COLORS.

A Few Facts Relating to the Alleged Friendship of the Democratic Party for the Workers.

Editor Daily Star: Presidential campaigns bring out many surprises. Thus early in this calcpaign developments have already come to light which may have an important bearing on the final vote in November.

The Democratic party has for some time professed friendship for direct legislation, proportional representation, public ownership and other vital reforms urged by the Debs party. It now transpires that there was no sincerity in these professions. When it was pos itively known that Debs would not withdraw in favor of Bryan, and that the Social Democracy is a fixture in fu-ture politics then what does the crafty old Democratic party do? Why, it be gan a savage and unwarranted attack on the Debs party which I hope and believe will cause its defeat this fall. It is now demonstrating that it was coquetting with the Socialists and Populists simply to get their votes, and with no friendly interest or honest pur-

Hearst's Chicago American, that professes so great loyalty for the cause of labor and has published so much in advocacy of the principles of the Social Democracy is now the malicious enemy of this new party. The Washington, D. C., Daily Times is another of these ranting hypocritical papers. These and many other papers in support of Bryan are now showing their true colors—they are giving the proof that it is the offices they are after and reform be hanged. As the Cleveland Citizen has well said:

The old mossback Democrat party now stands upon the political highway the harlot of hypocrisy, luring the workers on to industrial serfdom and ruin. Pretending to oppose the encroachments of aggregated wealth and oppression she applauds every infamous act that aids in demoralizing the spirit of true democracy.

And is not the following from the same paper true to the letter?

Trace the histery of that party from the rise of modern capitalism and you find her throwing her protective cloak about the chattel slave power while she was singing songs of liberty. Speak of the progressive reform parties and you will find that this political procuress has decoyed into her trap every new movement that has sprung into life and choked it to death. She has tried to do the same with, the Social democracy, and having failed she now vents her spleen and vomits her venom upon the reforms she has long professed to igdorse. . . Talk about legislative jobbery and corruption in state and nation and the old hag has had her hand in all of it—but always wearing a sanctimonious, lying mask of deception.

Is it not a fact that the leaders of Trace the history of that party from

Is it not a fact that the leaders of this party are base pretenders trying to deceive the people? They are begging the votes of workingmen in order to 'smash the trusts." What are the facts? Croker, VanWyck, Whiting, Gorman and Carroll in the North and East, Chairman Jones and Stone and Mills in the South, Clark, Daily, Thosas and others in the West are owners and sharers in dozens of trusts and combines, and only a fool would expect these men to favor honest anti-trust

Then again this old reactionary capitalist party and hater of all reforms labor, prates loudly of "anti-imperialism and anti-militarism"-con demns a proposed standing army-then reveals its true character by urging this plank:

The national guard of the United States should ever be cherished in the patriotic hearts of a free people. Such organization are ever an element of strength and safety.

The workingman need not be in doubt as to voting his interests and record of the Democratic party its hypocrisy and double-dealing-its treatment of labor and labor reforms has not the issue with workingmen, and especially with organized labor, practically narrowed to the two candidates-McKinley and Debs? Bryan's party honestly stands for nothing that vitally concerns labor-it is scrambling for the offices that is all. It has shown its true colors too early in the campaign-it is always doing the wrong thing at the right time. As was so ably shown in these columns a few days ago-ev legislation and public ownership should vote his true sentiments. He can do this only by voting for Debs.-Henry E Allen, in Peorla Star.

on Sunday evening, at the corner of North and California avenues, a most successful open air meeting, at which over 300 persons were present, was held. Comrades Robbins and Becker were the speakers of the evening, and an interesting and spirited discussion took place upon the subjects that had been handled by them. A considerable amount of Socialist literature was sold, and judging from the eagerness displayed by the crowd to secure it there is little doubt that it will be carefully studied. This corner is an especially good one for the propagation of socialism, and large audiences are generally the rule when the Socialist speaker mounts the stand.

During an open air meeting held last week at the corner of Paulina and Eighteenth street, by the Ninth Ward club, a knot of Democratic hoodlums made an attempt to break up the meeting, by assaulting Comrade Barkowski, who was addressing the audience. The speaker was thrown from the stand, and Comrade Jasinski, who preceded him, was also assaulted and struck several times by the cowardly thugs before mentioned. This business has gone about far enough and, steps will be taken to see that the legal protection to which all speakers are entitled will be provided in the future. Not only has the wages of the employes of the Deering company been reduced, as was stated in these columns last week, but a new scheme has been introduced to whip them on to greater efforts while at work. Prizes are offered in the "piece work" department to the laborer performing the greatest amount of labor in a given day. These prizes are from ten to fifteen dollars, and by the hope of gaining them the workers are spurred on to a speed that means several hundred dollars a day additional profit to the company. It must be that Wm. Deering is thinking of giving another hundred thousand to Northwestern university. On the evening of September 30th a very successful open air meeting was held at the corner of Wentworth and Thirty-first 'street, at which Comrade Alfred B. Andrews filled the role of speaker of the evening. A large audience was present, and Comrade Andrews was entirely successful in holding their attention for over an hour, although it was but his second attempt at an open air address. If Comrade Andrews persist; he will ultimately develope into a powerful speaker, as he is possessed of a strong and clear voice and the unlimited zeal and enthusiasm natural to a young man who has grasped the fundamental principles of socialism. We want young men in the movement, not that the veterans may relax their efforts, but for the reason that the burden of Socialist propaganda is rapidly settling upon the shoulders of the young American men, who must be its principal exponents in the near future.

Platform of the Social Democratic Party

The Social Democratic party of the United States, in Convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the revolutionary principles of international socialism and declares the supreme political issue in America today to be the contest between the working class and the capitalist class. The working class can not however, act as a class in its struggle against the collective power of the capitalist class except by constituting itself into a political party, distinct and opposed the property in the means of production and distribution, and to establish the Co-operative Commonwealth.

In the United States, as in all other civilized countries, the natural order of economic development has separated society into two antagonistic classes the capitalists, a comparatively small class, the possessors of all the modern means of production and distribution, (and mines mentinery and means of transportation) and the large and everimcreasing class of wage carners, possessing no means of production.

This economic supremacy has secured to the dominant, class the full control of the government, the pulpit, the schools, and the public press, thereby making them the arbiters of the fate of the working class, while it is reducing it to a condition of of dependence, conomically exploited and oppressed, intellectually and physically crippled and degraded, and its political equality printers of the control of overthrow of the control of government.

schools, and the public press, thereby making them the arbiters of the fate of the working class, while it is reducing it to a condition of dependence, commendally exploited and oppressed intellectually and physically crippled and degraded, and its political equality rendered a bitter mockery; and the contest between these two classes grows ever sharper. Hand in hand with the growth of monopoles, goes the annihilation of small industries and the annihilation of small industries and the middle class depending upon them. Ever larger grows the multitude of destifute wage workers and of the unemployed, and ever fiercer the struggle between the class of the exploiter and the public utilities.

Ever larger grows the multitude of destifule wage workers and of the unemployed, and ever fiercer the struggle between the class of the exploiter and the exploited, the capitalists and the wage workers.

The evil effects of capitalistic production are intensified by the recurring industrial crises, continually rendesing the existence of the greater part of the population more precarious and uncertain, which amply proves that the modern means of production have outgrown the existing social order based on production for profit.

Human energy and natural resources are wasted for individual gain.

HUMAN RAW MATERIAL,

The Capitalist Law of "Natural Sela-tion" in Its Belation to the Labor Market.

The Pueblo Courier in speaking of the condition of ratiroad employes in Colorade has the following:

The examination of railroad employes is becoming so severe is to arouse a good deal of complaint and discontent. So rigid are the rules now that many men who have given their lives to the railroad service are finding themselves out of a job, and being unfitted for any other avocation, are drifting dangerously near the poor house. Of course it's necessary to look to the safety of the traveling public, but what consideration is the railroader receiving? The company or state can look out for the welfare of passengers, but are impotent to assure a good condition for old employes who are willing to work. This condition is getting to be a serious question to railroad men, and many are thinking about changing the competitive system to one of co-operation, under which all human beings will be assured of the opportunity of labor and decent livelihood.

Within this short paragraph we may find a complete illustration in one particular industry of the conditions which exist essentially in all, and which are certainly foreing, as the paragraph administration, the great A. R. U. says, "many to think about changing strike broke out. Cleveland poured the the competitive system to one of cooperation." It shows conclusively that labor power is a commodity to be bought on the market, the rigid examination complained of being merely the capitalist method of selecting the most suitable human raw material which that market affords. The labor power which has been used continuously in this industry and which is now being superseded by more efficient labor power, finds a complete analogy in the antiquated and worn-out locomotives and other rolling stock which now he amused on the scrap piles of the railmore modern and more efficient machinery of production of the same nature and for the same purpose

"It is necessary to look to the safety of the traveling public." Why, certainly. That is the source from which dividends materialize. But the same no cessity also compels the company to supersede their old employes, by younger, stronger and mere efficient ones for exactly the same reason. The "travel-ing public" in this case may be said to be the passive factor, while the labor power applied to the transportation of their persons or goods is the active one in the wealth production of railroads. It is necessary, if the best results, (measured in dividends), are to be attained, that the active factor be at least equal in efficiency to the average la-bor power, or if possible above it.

himself "drifting dangerously near the poor house," just as the old locomotive gravitates towards its final resting place on the scrap heap. And herein Hes the difference between the employe and the worn-out machine-the former can think. And as he "drifts" he fhinks, and his thoughts as necessarily turn towards socialism, as those of his masters did towards supplanting him by more profitable labor power when his efficiency fell below normal.

Yes, conditions, and conditions alone move the masses of men to think, and that thinking always has for its object the material interests of the thinker. The utter indifference with which the capitalist abandons his wornout human tools to starvation, will be met with an equal indifference upon the part of the exploited ones towards any alleged "rights" in the means of production which the capitalist, through "legal" ownership, regards as his individual private property.

Starvation under the competitive system, helps wonderfully to see an assured "decent livelihood" under cooperation. That is what, according to the Pueblo Courier, the Colorado railroad employes have at last perceived, understanding of economic conditions and there is no danger of their losing be sight of it, until socialism in its complete form looms large upon their vis-

They can even now begin the struggle in real earnest. A fully organized So-cialist party is in the field, a party which aims at assuring opportunity to labor, and a decent livelihood to all human beings," and the Colorado railroad employes cannot do better than open the battle for this object, by voting socialism, represented by Debs and Harriman.

READY OCTOBER 10.

The Socialist Campaign Book of 1900.

Endorsed by the National Campaign Committee of the S. D. P.

This book will consist of facts and statistics concerning the present so-clery, showing the relation of existing tem and the wage-carning class. It makes a clear-cut presentation of the issues actually at stake in the present campaign, with some of the deceit and trickery by which the Republican and Democratic politicians seek to confuse the voter. On the contrary, it aims to educate the voter to an intelligent understanding of his own interests in th great questions involved. The com-mittee having the book in charge are men especially fitted for this work, all being trained students of socialism, as well as competent statisticians and conomists.

The work will contain chapters/on The Wealth of Society and Social Classes," giving elaborate statistics as to the distribution of wealth; "Wages and Living Expenses of the Worker, "The Laborer and the Law," pointing out the injustices and class nature of the administration of law under our present system, both as it inheres in the machinery of the law and as affected by direct capitalist influences The Trusts," giving elaborate details and statistics never before compiled or the saving under trustification; "The Farmer and Socialism, being the mos thorough discussion of this phase yet published and constituting a mine of information for speakers and writers

At the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which meets in a few weeks, several national trade unions will firge an agitation for the passage of laws providing for the compulsory arbitration of labors disputes and a specially constituted court. Such a plan bas been in operation in New Zealand for tive years and during that time, although there has deverness a day that there was not one or more labor disputes pending before the arbitration court, there has never been a strike or lockbut in the colony.

The present strike of coal miners is pointed to by the advocates of compulsory arbitrations as an example of the necessity of this plan.

An appeal will also be made to the various associations of employers to assist in procuring the necessary legislation, on the ground that the adoption of such a system would have the effect of establishing standard rates of wages, hours, and factory conditions in all trades.

It is hoped that some of the members

Lucien Sanial, the De Leonite delegate, protested against the seating of the delegate of the Social Democratic party, basing his protest on the statement basing his protest on the statement party. basing his protest on the statement that the S. D. P. is not a class-conscious Socialist party.

Job Harriman, one of the delegates of the S. D. P., replied to the protest in a brief speech, putting the matter clearly before the congress. He contrasted the clearly-worded platform of the S. D. P. with the sentimental phraseology of the De Leonite platform. He then made cltations from De Leon's paper, dealing with affairs in the European movement, in the same terms that are applied to the S. D. P. in America. "We are sur-prised," he added, "not that this delegate protests against the admission of the delegate of the S. D. P., but that he of any delegates except those of his own organization."

Comrade Harriman then pointed out briefly the essential differences in posi-tion between the two American organizations He showed that the resolution of the Rochester convention of the S. D. time. An interesting discussion took place on the trade union question, which ended in the adoption of a resolution simi lar in effect to that of the London con gress and justifying the friendly attitude of the S. D. P. toward labor or ganizations as defined at Rochester.

The congress in yesterday's session, after a long and exhaustive debate on in accepting a portfolio as minister of commerce in the Waldeck-Rousseau cabinet, the congress decided that under certain circumstances a Socialist is justified in taking such action.

The next congress will be held in Amsterdam in 1903.

Folly of Democratic Wage Slaves Who Repeat the Silly Charge of "Sub-sidized" Socialism.

Sepent the Birly Charge of solicited. Socialism.

Of all the foolish workingmen those who cry out at Socialist meetings that Hanna is paying the Socialist meetings that Hanna is paying the Socialists in order to defeat Bryan, are the worst. Or could it be called egotism on their part? One would think to hear them that only Democrats can understand a phin statement of the evils of this caplialist system, and the remedy which Socialists intend to apply. If they would only stop to reason for a few minutes even their shallow brains would convince them of the silliness of such conclusions. Who are the Socialism is possible, because both employe and capitalists addressing and teaching? Workingmen of course. Do these Democratis suppose that there are no workingmen in the Republican party? Why, their tyotes elected McKinley, And is it not reasonable to suppose that when Reeasonable to suppose that when Renublican workingmen hear socialism ocratic workingmen, and understand-ing it, may not the Socialist convert them too? Or do these Democrats them too? Or do these Democrat workingmen who voted the Republican ticket in 1896 under his thumb? If that were so why, the Republicans wouldn't ed to spend a cent on the campaign workingmen, use your brains a little and you will see that Republican doctrines are no more proof against Solican workingmen than Democratic doctrine is. Every other capitalist is likewise compelled to produce at the maximum The result is continual over-production n separate branches of industry, whereby the weaker capitalists are steadily forced into the ranks of the profetariat; and worse yet, recurrent periods of general over-production in nearly all branches of industry, ending in a crisis, when the smaller capitalists by wholesale are "reduced to the ranks;" they are started on the road to involuntary socialism. All this is intensified by constantly improved machinery which displaces labor.

The big capitalists finally see that as long as they are separated they are forced into over-production and mutual destruction. The thing to do therefore, is to combine and limit production. This they do by forming a trust. There is nothing voluntary about it. It is Hobson's choice. It is a troublesome and difficult thing to organize a trust. "We must have markets or we shall have revolution," is the way Senator Frys is quoted in a recent article in Frank Loslies Popular Monthly. In other words unless the capitalist class of this country is afforded an oppor-tunity to get rid of the products it has extorted from the workers, those work-ers may decide to keep it themselves-which would be revolution. Or to put it still another way, the capitalist class nust expand or bust.

IMPERIALISM AND EXPANSION.

What is the meaning of the issue of imperialism? Why have the Republican and Democratic party joined isages over the question of expansion or found in our industrial organization. Under the system of capitalism as it exists today, the task of producing the foed, clothing and shelter of the comcanable of producing infinitely more than it is necessary to pay those workto keep them at work. A German authority estimates the mechanical (steam, electricity, etc.), to amount to dillion of men. But since the ones that their slave ancestors received when living.-the capitalists who receive the rest find themselves laden down with

Meanwhile the means of communicarket is an accomplished fact. When stage coach and the pack horse the only means of conveyance the railroad and the steamship the Chinèse and East Indian cities were er than the "country on the other of the hill" to the old time mer production on a large scale was necssary. Or the reverse is equally true, say that the great industry comselled an expanding, and it is more rue than either, to say that they are oth the expressions of a new social

But this concentration of industry a me placed production in the hands of those who could produce the chean est. These were the trusts, who were able to save the expase of competition The small exploiters found themselves necessary to meet the foreign competition. Try as they might to squeeze the last drop of blood from their wage slaves they were crowded to the wall.

So these little labor skinners decided that the thing to do was to oppose exmansion and imperialism and confine the growth of industry to the bounds within which they fondly imagined ey might still be able to exist. They dreamed of a market so small that they might still be factors in it. They saw no longer live off the toil of the producers but would be themselves forced to go to work. This awful prospect frightened them, and they called upon the laborers to assist them. Ranging help them fight their battles.

The Republicans on the other hand represent the interests of the larger capitalists, who point out to the labor

And so the struggle over imperialfac and anti-imperialism, expansion and anti-expansion, becomes a contest between the big and the little exploiters of labor, and the worker is asked to se between small masters and of the campaign. The Socialist tells him that the time has come when he is not forced to choose between big and little masters but when he can vote for his own free dom. The Socialist calls upon him to cease being a slave at all and become a man, to vote bis own class into power and to take possession of these wonderful means of production that today are able to create a hundred times as much wealth as his father ever dreamed of enjoying, and to keep for himself and his family all that he can produce with them.

And when he does not get enthusiastic over either alternative the politicians complain about the "apathy"

THE SPECTRE OF "CLASSES." In the political struggle which is now and petty capitalism there is one feature which crops out every now and then, despite the efforts of both to conceal or ignore it, viz., the fact that the

tinct as time passes. Forced by the prosume of material conditions ' Mr Bryan as champion of the petty capitalist, cannot avoid exposing the class character which underlies the measures advocated by his party, and as the assistance of the workingmen is indispenmunity is performed by means of great puble to his chances of election, he cancomplex machines and tools which, in not hope to appeal to them successthe hands of the workers of today are fully unless their interests as a class are more or less touched upon. This ne cessity is perhaps the one thing dreaded most by his Republican opponents, the unholders of exploitation upon a large scale, and in several of their press editorials Mr. Bryan is severely upbraided ore than 200,000,000 horse power. This for "arousing class hatred in a land where there should be no classes." to use the language of one of the editoractually do the work are only paid what jals in question. Mr. Bryan is also solemnly warned that such action upor they worked with ther bare hands-a his part can only "work his own undo ing," which is no doubt very true, but is also equally true when applied to those who give the advice. It is no doubt very uncomfortable for capitalist tion have been improved until the world society that classes do really exist, when the exponents and beneficiaries of that system positively declare that they "should not." but Mr. Bryan can justly plead that some reference to classes is of no interest to any class. But with both necessary and unavoidable, if his chances of election are to be made poss ble. Of course the workingman who considers that a "full dinner pall" should mark the legitimate limits of his aspirations can be easily convinced that on the same principle classes "should not exist, nay, more, that they do not and it is quite possible that to this stultified specimen of humanity the Re Dur Mr. Brenn is in an altogather dif ferent position. He represents a party who have grievances to air, a party which "views with alarm" every suc cessive development in capitalist pro duction and it becomes necessary for him to point out the "oppressor" in the out-distanced in the struggle for mar- owners and controllers of the present quantities nor with the cheapness so rapidly making petty capitalism im possible. In order to enlist the workingmen in the fight against the "octo pus" he finds it imperative to persuade them that their interests are identical with that of the small exploiters, whom he represents, and in the carrying out of this purpose it becomes impossible to wholly conceal the class character and conditions which exist in present society. In spite of the fact that the whole movement represented by Bryan is distinctly reactionary, no backward that unless they did do this they could step can even be contemplated or proposed, in which the glaring economi inequalities from which classes take form do not at once come to the sur face. And as this becomes more and more evident, it will force the Republithemselves beneath the banner of can party in turn to "view with alarm" Bryan they cry out for the workers to the "mischievous" results of Bryan's propaganda. an to have a CHANCE to get rich. This, perhaps, may explain to some exent the alliance which evidently exists etween the gamblers and Democrats. Both want verybody to TAKE A CHANCE at their game, Workingmen, The cards are marked and the dice are loaded.

The daily papers of this city are now furnishing some "mighty interestin" readin" for the workingman who has not altogether lost the power of thinking for himself. The eagerness and recklessness with which they publish statements tending to show disintegraion of the Building Trades Council should be sufficient to open his eyes as to what sort of "friends of labor" really are. The abolition of the Building Trades Council would mean at least wage reduction of 30 per cent to the vorkers connected therewith through peir unions, and yet these papers have the hypocritical audacity to pretend it is better for the workingmen that the Building Trades Council should disappear. They are quite willing that all own interests should be destroyed; but capitalist combinations for intensifying the exploitation of the working class should go right ahead. going on between the parties of great

> A Democratic paper has sent Ex-Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania to Porto Rico and he corroborates the statement of the Socialists regarding the despotism practiced on the islanders under the present administration. The Republicans might now send an nvestigator to the Carolinas and Mississippi to require into the despotism that exists in those states ruled by Bryanites. Republican or Democratic, it matters not which, the disfranchisement and slavery of the working class is common to both. It is the one point upon which they agree, and it is also the reason why workingmen should unite against both, by voting for socialism and its standard bearers-Eugene V. Debs and Job Harriman.

> Get to work for socialism NOW and keep at it. We will be in this fight until election day, and afterwards when the capitalist politicians are taking a rest, we will begin to work all the more arnestly to spread the truth amongst the workers. Our campaign will only nd when capitalism ends, and for this reason no cessation of activity must take place. Energy in building up the circulation of the party press is one of the most efficient methods of Socialist propaganda, and besides is also within the power of every comrade. Every new subscriber means a possible agitator in the future, and every effort made now means a shortening of the time of the mancipation of our class.

Mark Hanna, at the meeting held in the Republican circus tent, at 65th and Halsted streets, told his audience that the prosperity which now exists is about the limit of what the working class can hope for, unless a complete change takes place in the economic structure of society. This observation, which is absolutely true, in every res-pect, may perhaps be used by imaginative Democratic journals to bolster up the ridiculous lie that Hanna is aiding the Socialists. It only proves that when capitalist politician happens by some accident to utter a truth, socialism and the class struggle of which it is the expression, at once leaps into light. But to imagine that Hanna desires that change, and is working for it, requires a capacity for belief which the cialists forfunately do not possess. Hanna is not "coming our way," he is going his own way, as a class-conscious apitalist might be expected to do.

The great coal strike, it seems after all, will not be so productive of politi-cal capital to either of the old parties. Possibly it smells too strongly of capitalist explicitation to be of any value in this respect to either. The Democrats in Texas. The Democratic state cannot use it, and the Republicans find in it some elements which won't altogether hitch with their party cry of prosperity." The Socialists alone can illustrate by its aid, the unfitness of apitalism to longer control industry, and they are doing so by merely giving the facts concerning it.

It is possible, of course, that Mr. Bryan may be elected in November. Whether he is or not is a matter of little importance to Socialists, but in case this did occur what would happen? Simply this: The fool workingmen wh are now wasting good wind in shouting Bryan! Bryan!" would all the sooner ealize his helplessness, and their own folly in not voting for their own class

It is hardly to be doubted that in case 'business' would at once ensue, not bethe proverbial "timidity" of the capitalists who control the industries o this country, which is known in current capitalistic language as "lack of confi-

The element of uncertainty thus caused would suffice to temporarily scare the exploiters out of the market many of them ignorantly assuming that commodities will be cheaper be ause of Mr. Bryan's avowed free trade endencies, and ignoring the obvious act that American labor is even now the cheapest in the world relatively speaking, as is well evidenced by the fact that our capitalist classes are already formidable competitors in the ial conditions of the producing class would be like under such circumstan-ces, we can already judge from the effect of previous "commercial panies

On the other hand should McKink be returned, we may expect to see the great capitalists in many instance shut down for the purpose of "readjust ing" wages, an operation which has been deferred for political reasons, and in this case also the fool workers who swallowed the Republican fables anen the "full dinner pail," will be qualified to sit upon the same stool of repentance for either of these men is merely a game of "heads I win, talls, you lose announced by the capitalist class. The true interests of workingmen have nothing in common with either of these parties.

What then have the Socialists to propose? This, and this only: The work; ngman who understands that the "paramount issues" offered for his considwhich his masters hope to gain his consent to another four years of exploitaby Debs and Harriman will measure his success by the size of the vote cast Two hundred thousand votes would make the capitalist "view with alarm;" one million would fill him with terror, while a majority for socialism WOULD MAKE MEN FREE.

The chairman of the Democratic Na tional committee. Senator James K. Jones, declares that the cotton corneration in which he is the main stock holder only handles 400,000 bales per year, and is "not much of a trust" any-There is a striking similarity be tween this excuse and that put forward charged with being the mother of an illegitimate child, pleaded as extenuating circumstances that "it was such a little one." It was probably also for this reason that Mr. Bryan, in a speech in an Indiana town, deliberately omitted this trust from a detailed list which he read to his audience. When trust capitalized at $25,000,000 is considered too insignificant to be counted some idea of the proposition which the party of petty capitalism is going up against, may be gained.

Their foolishness to hide.

But let them turn which way they will, As on their heads they shout, To every one who reads and thinks, The foolishness crops out. Farmers, mechanics, tradesmen, too, And others we could name, Are all split up in factions, When their interests are the same.

Each one believes his party Each one believes his party is what the people need.
And if it does not triumph, 'The country goes to seed.
And so he cheers his party.
And lauds it to the skies,
Because the dust of prejudice,
Has been cast in his eyes.

Couldn't "Bust" This One.

That is a queer state of affairs down ernment passed a Democratic "bust the trusts" law to kill the Round Bale Cotton trust, of which Senator Jones, the chairman of the Demo cratic campaign committee is president. The law was supposed to be about the greatest thing in trust smashing eve known, and its virtues were hewled forth at the Trust Conference in Chicago by Dudley Wooten, as an example of the way things are done in Texas The trust has always refused to sell its patented machinery, but only leased it to users. The law specifically provided that they must sell it to whoever wished to buy. But now in spite of law, in spite of the Democratic state officials to enforce it, in spite of Dudley Wooten's eloquence, in spite (?) of the influence of Senator Jones, the trust still continues, and no one is able to buy that machinery. Is it any wonder Mr. Bryan was elected a stagnation in that the trusts do not seem to be so much afraid of Bryan as they might

t Situation - "Mother es of the Exploitation of Chil-Sham "Friends of Labor."

As yet nothing definite has been eached in the miners' strike. As day after day goes by, the misery gets worse, but the determination never wavers. The lines of the class struggle are growing clearer. Here is a strike in which no one who has not beco complete intellectual prostitute of cap-italism dares to deny that the men deserve all that they have asked for, ever if their rights are to be measured only by the standards of capitalist morality It has been a principle of all systems of slavery that the slave should receive mough to maintain him in a condition for producing and enable the race of slaves to be perpetuated without deterloration. But even this standard of the chattel slave system has been reduced in this American hades. "Mother Jones," who is doing vallant work for the cause of socialism among these struggling workers writes us as follows, under date of October 6th:

"The people are in abject slavery. Lit-tle bits of boys working ten hours a day, cometimes only getting four hours' pay. Some of these children are not even ten years of age who are being murdered for foreign greed. You are called an anarchist if you say a word in their behalf." Here is a condition which one might think would be seized upon by the great political parties as an opportunity to show their love for the laborers. At first the Democratic party did pretend to take up the cause of the miners. The Chicago American had several 'special correspondents" in the field, by the young woman who, when and filled its columns with harrowing tales of the conditions existing there. But as soon as it became evident that there was to be a real struggle between capital and labor, it dropped the whole thing as completely as it did the Idaho buil pen. The only publications that have from the first taken up the cause of the miners and have consistently stood by them up to the present time, and that will be with them until the end, no matter whether they win or lose, is the So-cialist press. The only political party that is always on the side of the labor ers in all its struggles 365 days in the year, in time of strike or time of peace is the Socialist party, and the only candidntes that are pledged to uphold the rights of the laborer and to defend his cause at all times and in all places and under all circumstances, are the candidates of that party.

The Fakir's Handiwork.

The Plasterers union in Chicago jangle, trying to find out how to get rid of Carrol without disrupting the union, and have about decided to leave the Building Trades Council. This is an excellent illustration of the baneful effects of fakirs in the labor movement. It is of the greatest importance to the building trades of Chicago that their central council should be maintained. And it is also of paramount interest that the scoundrels who have been betraying them politically, should be put where they can do no more hurt. But these two ends should be kept wholly separate. Because some disreputable politicians have at times secured control of the Building Trades Council, is no reason why the organization itself should be destroyed. To take this ground is to fall into the trap set by the contract-ors. If they could make the laborers believe this, their end would be accomplished. The thing to do is to stick to the central body, make it stronger than ever before and then KICK THE FA-KIRS AND POLITICIANS OUT.

Editor Workers' Call:—

The open air meeting of the Fifteenth Ward branch at Califnornia avenue and Milwaukee avenue. Wednesday, October 2rd, was a tremendous success. The larges crowd listened attentively, and roared in approval when the speaker handed out the principles of socialism. Comrade Stewart's mighty voice penetrated the damp atmosphere with solid arguments, condemning the old capitalistic parties, and proving that the workers' only hope lies in socialism. Comrade Robbins gave a beautiful description of society as it could be if the wage slave system was abolished. Comrade Bartels, in a short speech landed a knockout punch on the old saying, "What's good for the boss, is good for the workingman." Comrade Bisno showed what kind of prosperity we are all having under McKinley, Surely, many listeners went home with their brains working overtime: happier and wiser men.

we are all having under McKinley, Surely, many listeners went home with their brains working overtime: happier and wiser men.

At the business meeting, Friday, October 3, it was decided that meetings be held every night in the week. Sunday, Elston and California avenue: Mcnday, Robey street and Milwaukee avenue: Tuesday, Kedzie and North avenue: Wednesday, California and Milwaukee avenue: Triesday, Fullerion and Elston avenue. Friday, business meeting at 741 Armitage avenue and Saturday, Milwaukee and Western.

The strong wind with an occasional shower did not prevent a large crowd from gathering at Milwaukee and Western are and Saturday, and hear our speakers. A megaphone was brought into play to call the meeting. When the last speaker closed, at 10:30 o'clock, socialism was the topic of discussion in several groups that formed.

Elston and California was the meeting place of about 75 people, who went home with an additional stock of knowledge of political science, dished out by Comrade Stewart, Bisno and Barteis. The only opponent was Gilbert Anderson, a corpulent, red-faced Republican-office-holder. He interrupted Comrade Barteis when in the height of cloquence. Anderson was told that he could have the box when the speaker was through. When-Comrade Bartels had finished our corpulent ficiend mounted the box. He began, "Let meshow you why socialism ain't no good: Supposin' I had an apple orchard and the Socialists got in power and then came and cut down my apple trees for kinding wood, and — "He was forced to stop as the laughter drowned his voice. He had shown his knowledge.

THE IMPENDING CRISIS, Conditions Resulting from the Concentration of Wealth in the United States. By Basil Bouroff. Paper, 35 cents, Midway Press Committee, Chicago. (Sold through Chas. H. Kerr & Co.)

This is a work that will be valued beause of the great amount of information that it has placed in accessible form rather than for any new explanations of economic phenomena. However, the author points out how today practically all production is for the benfit of a few owners who have posion of the means of access to natural opportunities. The study of mortgages especially good, and is the most thorough grouping of facts under this head that has yet been made. He also mpiles some very interesting estimates of the incomes of the great trusts, and shows how rapidly they are making for concentration. As a book of reference it is one that it would be well for very Socialist to have in his posses-

A CAPITALIST INFERNO.

Comrade N. P. Geiger Describes the Con-ditions of the Miners in the Coal Fields of Pennsylvania.

Hazelton, Pa., September 28 .- The main causes which led up to the present conflict between the owners of the tools of production and the workers. are principally, excessive charge for owder, dockage of cars, the setting of timbers or braces, for which they formerly received $2.50 to_$3.50, and only $1.90 now, an excessive charge for oilwhich can be bought in any retail store for 15 cents, the company stores charge 25 to 35 cents for. The mine owners claim, of course, that the men need not purchase from company stores, but men have been known to receive their discharge for not patronizing them while others have been punished in dif ferent ways, such as getting places to work that would not yield sufficient coal to enable them to make decent wages. Should any miner desire to "draw" any money between paydaysprovided, of course, that he had any to draw, the company will not give him cash but an order for the amount, and when he gets it cashed they deduct 25 per cent for the "accommodation."

The average wage from Nanticoke to West Pittson is about $24.00 per month or a fraction over $5.00 per week Should any miner bring out a car of coal that has 500 pounds of slate of rock he is laid off for two or three days as punishment, and both miner and helper are often discharged for the

The charters granted the railroads of this state, distinctly specify that no rallroad company shall own or operate coal mine, but notwithstanding this prohibition the D. L. & W. does in Plymouth county, the Pennsylvania railroad own the mines of the Pennsylvania Coal company, and the Lehigh Valley railroad, also, is in the sam status. In fact, there is not a road running into the coal regions of Pennsylvania that does not own, control and operate mines, and there is absolutely no attempt made by either state officials or the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce that clause in their charters. It simply proves again that the capitalists can violate and defy the law to their heart's content, and no attempt will be made to bring them to justice, but should an ordinary, com mon, everyday mine worker, who goe into the bowels of the earth and digs wealth for an idle and parasitical class take a ride or even attempt to do so he would be at once taken into the clutches of the law and fined the same as any ordinary criminal.

The mine owners claim that they know nothing about the grievances of the men. That is to say, that the men did not tell them what they wanted, but this is successfully disputed by the men, when we learn that a printed copy of their demands was sent to each company through their respective superin-There are about 8,000 miners in the district covering Wilkes Barre, Luzerne, Edwardsdale, Plymouth Nanticoké, all in Luzerne county, There are numerous other smaller places I was unable to reach in the same county, but we had meetings in all but one of the above mentioned cities and burgs, and they were all very success-ful. At the meeting Monday night at Wilkes Barre the audience numbered at least 400, and when it came to distributing the leaflets there wasn't enough to go around. On Tuesday a meeting was held in Edwardsdale and this was the largest one so far, there being at least 800 people who stood listening to the speaker for over an hour and gave the closest attention. After the meeting the leaflets were distrib uted, and in the endeavor of the crowd secure them many a man got a mad, and for about ten minutes it was tributing something over 800 leaflets we also sold 20 copies of Harriman's "Class War in Idaho," and could have sold more had we had them. The comrades claim that this meeting will result in a handsome increase of the Socialis vote in that locality, as it was the first of its kind. In fact it was the first en air meeting ever held in that burg and the men gathered about in groups cussing the questions presented by the speakers. There is no doubt that it will do good, as the meeting will be followed up by the local comrades with other literature and quiet agitation and they hav esome excellent workers there to do it. Tuesday night a meet, ing of fairly good proportions was held at Luzerne, and leaflets distributed and namphlets sold. By the miscarriage of plans the meeting arranged for Wednesday at Plymouth did not take place, to our sincere regret, as the prospects for a large meeting were very good, but another opportunity for going there will probably present itself, when lo time will be made up. Wednesday night sful meeting was held at oke and the audience gave closer attention than at any other point, and the literature was eagerly sought, all the leaflets being distributed along with about 206 Public Ownerships and Peooles. Thirteen Class Wars were sold. Taking everything into consideration, that was doing very well, as the crowd was composed almost entirely of miners, and they have no money at this time to spend for anything but the bare necessaries of life. Besides meeting with success in every respect, we were also successful in organizing a local, both in Edwardsdale and Nanticoke, evered all connection with all parties if the capitalist class and embraced so ialism forever, and strive to bring about the Co-operative Commonwealth They were all clean-cut, uncompromising Socialists, which will mean a healthy growth of Socialist votes in here communities in the very near ture, and unless all signs fail, watch that district for the shaking up the old parties will receive this fall.

In this contest is again exemplified the class struggle, and the absolute rule of the "upper" class, in so far as they disregard and violate every law almost that is on the statute books of the state. Pennsylvania has a child laoor law, making the age limit 14 years, but notwithstanding that there are hundreds of boys employed in the local breakers from 8 years of age up to the lawful limit, and the work is dirty and making men. The breakers are large buildings from 30 to 60 feet through which the large lumps of anthracite are put, to break them up for use by the consumer. A child is fortunate, indeed, who can pass through an experience of a few months in a breakwithout being marred in some way or other. In the vicinity of these breakers a white garment hung in the open would not be recognized in a very short time because of the filth of flying oal dust, so you can imagine the condition of the lungs of the children working in the thick of it. There are few, if any, children in the mining re-gions that I have so far visited that are nealthy, and it can be traced directly in most cases to the character of the work they perform. It is well-nigh imossible for these children to acquire ven the rudiments of an education ind unless they can educate themselves they will be unable to even write their own names. What will be the result of that condition? It is the "conviction" of prominent Democratic leaders, even clared by state committee officials, that an educational qualification is necessary to the right use of suffrage. Suppose that condition is brought about; how long will it be before the mine workers will have no vote at all, when we consider the present condition of the children in the mines and their opportunities for getting an edu-cation? This declaration should never e lost sight of by the Socialist propagandist, because it serves to show the trend of thought among the politicians of the day, and by pointing out to our fellow wage slaves this fact, it will asist us in opening the eyes of the workers, and arouse their usually dormant brains into activity again, so that they will do their own thinking instead of allowing the capitalist and his lickspit- in the "yellow" processic the mining regions in the interest of the Socialist party it shall be my endeavor to get at the facts in the case, and to so it shall be.

N. P. Geiger:

Illinois Waking Up.

From all over the state the most encouraging reports are pouring in re-garding the work now being done by our state organizer and the agitation that has been stirred into increased activity. We have received a letter from Comrade H. Wieland of Rock Island, confaining an account of the stitutions last year varied from $98 to waking up of the workingmen in $102 per head. Out of this amount the Davenport, Rock Island and Moline, state feeds and clothes the prisoners, Large and attentive audiences have furnishing healthy men for those whose been the rule in those cities, and Com-rade Klenke's efforts in behalf of socialism have met with a gratifying re-sponse in each. In Davenport the So- of convict labor. This is not a theory. proposition of putting up a city ticket where the Democrats count on 100,000 next spring, a county ticket being al-ready in the field, which the comrades expect will roll up a large vote for socialism. Dig Down and Put Up.

Just cemember when you read the accounts of what is being done in the present campaign, that it takes money to do all these things. It is little less than marvelous to see the amount of agitation that a few dollars is made to accomplish in Socialist propaganda. and every cent means more than many dollars in the hands of either of the old party committees. It is in the next ew weeks that the campaign approach es its climax, and every Socialist should go down to the last cent that he can raise to help. Let the landlord wait another week, put off buying an overcoat another month, walk to your work for a few mornings and save carfare, ask all your friends to help and pour every penpy into the agitation work until this fight is over. Query for Bryan. How?

A recent report by Consul Genera rank H. Mason of Germany it is pointed out that the trust form of industrial organization is being extensively idopted in Germany to enable the German manufacturers to compete in the international markets. This raises some interesting points in the present discus ion of trusts. How will the election of Bryan "bust these German trusts?" they are not busted and the American ones are, the Germans will be able to ome over here and do a little extorting on their own hook. If he tries to keep them out he will have to enact a pro "mother of trusts." What will the Bryanites have to say on this point?

The meeting was very enthusiastic, and the "Debs and Harriman; rah! rah!" was uttered by hundreds of throats. Saveral despicable Democrats tried to break up the meeting by yelling, but were quickly rushed out of the crowd.

The largest open air meeting ever held at California and North avenue, was addressed by Walter Thomas Mills. Sunday, and he proved conclusively that he is a clear-cut, class-conclous Socialist, and explained why he left the Democratic tanks and the failacy of voting for Eryan. A very successful meeting was held in the Globe hall, on Sixty-third street and Ashland avenue, last Sunday. The meeting, though well-attended, would have been much larger but for the fact that a Democratic meeting was called for in the same place at the same time. The speakers were Comrades Biglow and Wahnbore, who addressed the audience for about an hour and a half. Some literature was distributed, and arrangements made for conducting similar meetings in the vicinity during the campaign. the campaign.

The rally at South Chicago Saturday The rally at South Chicago Saturday evening was a great success. The meeting had been well advertised, and long before 7:20, the time for beginning, a large crowd had gathered at Ninety-second and Commercial avenue. Comrade Morgan spoke for two hours, showing the strength of socialism and puncturing the positions of the old parties. There were some objectors present, among whom was a school principal, and a superintendent in a large manufacturing plant, but their arguments were completely, overthrown by the speaker. It is estimated that there were 500 persons present.

The members of the Saengerbund have always rendered valiant ervices to the cause of socialism whenever cailed upon, and every comrade who can possibly make it convenient to attend at Brand's hall on October 21st. should do so in order that the evening's entertainment may be made a complete success. It is almost superfluous to sy that the members of the Seenger bund have left nothing undone to make the arrangements as perfect as possible and it remains only for every Socialist to lend a helping hand to our comrade of the Saengerbund in their enterprise.

There is a "movement," however, which will be represented by Mr. Debs on the sixth of next month though it wasn't started by him, neither is it the product of "good inten-tions," but rather the material interests of the working class, out of whose con-trol it is not at all likely to pass, unless perhaps, through unforseen stances they become victims of the disordered imagination from which their Democratic critic suffers. As regards the "Republican organiz ers" who are said to be traveling the country in the interests of Debs, it only remains to be said that they seem to be equally elusive as the coin which Mark Hanna is alleged to have poured into the Debs treasury. If this visionary Democrat can produce but specimen of the former, and judging from his own words the task should not prove a difficult one, the Socialists will agree to reward his dligence by turning over to him all the cash they have received from Hanna up to the present time, and the entire list of campaign contributions will be submitted to his scrutiny, if he has not already seen it as published in the party press.

Platform of the Social Democratic Party

The Social Democratic party of the Junited States, in Convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the revolutionary principles of international socialisms and deciarse the supreme political issue in America today to be the control of the between the working class and the capitalist class for the possession of a political savery, abolish the institution of private property in the means of production and distribution, and to establish the Co-operative Commonwealth.

In the United States, as in all other economic countries, the natural order of economic countries, the public the achools, and the public press, thereby making them the arbitiers of the fait of the system of wage stayery, shall be abbitished. The subject of the working class, while it is reducing it to a condition of dependence, in the subject of the subject of the working class dependence of the subject o wars are fomented between nations; indiscriminate slaughter is encouraged; the destruction of whole races is sanctioned, in order that the capitalist class may extend its commercial dominion abroad and enhance its supremacy at home.

The introduction of a new and higher order of society is the historic mission of the working class. All other classes despite their apparent or actual conflicts are interested in the uphoiding of the system of private ownership of the means of production. We therefore charge that in this country the Democratic, Republican and all other parties, which do not stand for the complets public.

Eighth—Labor legislation to be national, instead of local, and international when possible.

Ninth—National insurance of working people against accidents, lack of employment, and want in old age.

Tenth—Equal civil and political rights for men and women, and the abolition of all laws discriminating against women.

Eleventh-The adoption of the initia tive and referendum, proportional representation, and the right of recall of representatives by the voters.

Twelfth—Abolition of war and the introduction of international arbitration.

Debs in Indiana.

Comrade Debs is at present making a tour of Indiana, and from every point there comes the same old tune of tremendous enthusiasm and great results. CANDIDATES FOR STATE SENA- At Marion, Indiana, the meeting at which he spoke was the largest political meeting ever held in the city, and at Indianapolis he had an audience of over a thousand, while the capitalist press concede him a "large and enthusiastic

The leaning of many members of organized labor in this city toward the Social Democratic party is remarked. This city has never been known for its socialistic tendencies, and the vote polled by this party at the coming election may not show that much change has been made, but it is predicted that at the following election the gains made will be surprisingly large. Many who will vote the Republican and Democratic ticket say that it will be the last vote of this kind they will east and that in the future they will vote with the Social Democrate. Most of those whe talk being they will east and that in the future they will vote with the Social Democrate. Most of those whe talk this way discialm being Socialists, but say that many of the principles advocated and made prominent for years by the trades unions. The personality of Eugene V. Debs also has much to do with this movement toward his party. No labor leader that comes to this city has a larger followins, and while some of his idees are not approved, his honesty of purposs is reconsulted. And what is true of creanized labor in this city in this respect is apparent throughout the state. The Social Democrate will be a large factor in this state within the next four years.—Bally paper.

An organized effort to place watchers at the polls has never yet been made. If becomes an absolute necessity now

Individual members have heretofor frequently volunteered their services for this purpose, and in all such cases where the actual number of votes cast were counted, and compared with the figures previously given in the same precinct a great increase in the Social ist vote was invariably noted, proving beyond the shadow of a doubt that the agents of the capitalist parties were deliberately keeping our vote down to the lowest possible notch, by neglecting, suppressing or in other devious ways, well known to capitalist politicians, manipulating the returns so that the Socialist vote was always made to appear insignificant.

The time is now here when these practices must positively stop. The chances of our party becoming one of recognized official standing are now so apparent that only a wholesale "throwing out" of the Socialist vote can prevent this occurrence. It is only reason. able to expect that the hired tools of the two great parties will be only too willing to do this, thereby putting the militant membership of the party, to unnecessary expense in securing thousands of signatures, thus interfering seriously with the propaganda work upon which all their energy should be

Now that the Boer war is over, and all the nonsensical sentiment which was wasted in bemoaning the fate of the burghers, (who after all were no much better than their British oppress sors); has subsided, the real issue will more come to the front in England. The wiping out of small na tions is one of the necessary accomlements of capitalist development, and it is only from that point of view that it should be discussed by Socialists Had our British comrades handled the question from that standpoint they would perhaps have fared better in th elections just past. At present their forts seem to have been largely swallowed up in the whimpering moaning of the sentimental "Radical."

The "genfal" Sir Thomas Lipton is evidently after the "whole hog." (though he is not a Socialist), and has started operations by "cornering" the entire pork supply of the United States. The coal miners' strike, it is reported. has been settled on a basis of ten per cent increase of wages, which has been eccepted by the men. They have thus, by united action on the economic field, ed their wages from an average of $5 to $5.50 per week. This increase will be chiefly valuable, only to help them realize how empty the so-called "victories" on the economic field really are ompared with what might be gained by united political action.

It will also give an opportunity to the Republican politician to "point with pride" to what has been done for labor, and when the speaker gets through be will most likely quench his thirst with brandy at 50 cents per drink, and quiet his nerves with a $1 imported cigar, confident that the duper who listen to class who thrive on the folly and blindness of the workers.

Those wicked French Socialists now propose to put into action a novel plan, to encourage discontent amongst their fellow workers. A "Peoples' Palace" is to be built in Paris entirely from Socialist funds, which will contain every luxury that can possibly be produced. As the press dispatch says:

This Peoples' Palace will provide par-lors, a library, a theatre, offices for workers' associations, a cafe, a rooi garden, large conservatories, a gym-nasium, and swimming baths.

What is the object of this? Well, here is what the prospectus declares

"The laborers must become acquaint ed with all the modern, comfortable luxury of the wealthy classes and grow intolerably dissatisfied with the Dres ent conditions forced upon the work-ingmen by the professional politicians and monopolists in order that an intel-ligent rebellion shall speedily follow."

Is there any good reason why the things should be debarred from using and enjoying them? None whatever. We hope that the transient taste of hixury they may secure in the "Peoples' Palace" will act as a goad which will never let them rest until they have secured the full product of their labor.

Not to Be Discouraged.

Open air meetings in the Fifteenth vard are all well attended. Some of the corners are not very populous, and the his voice to its full volume to get an audience. Thus it was Tuesday eveavenue. It was a chilly, misty and unpleasant evening. Everything seemed Nuss, Bisno and Ehnborn, standing thefe shivering and discussing the ad visability of beginning a meeting with three men and a lamppost. Just then the sky began to redden. A house had caught fire a mile away. The ques tion that now confronted the comrades was: "What do the masses like bestto see a fire, or hear a Socialist." Surely the fickle goddess did not seem to smile the powers of Fate to discourage s Socialist, and the meeting was opened by Comrade Ennborn letting out ear penetrating yells through a megaphone Bisno next took the stand: in the mean time a good sized crowd had gathered, and in it was Comrade Bigelow, who followed Bisno on the box. As th crowd grew larger and larger, an in cessant current of mirth, logic and philosophy was emanating from Bigelow speaking organ. Comrade Robbins also made a short address. What at first looked like a dismal failure ended in i grand success. A better meeting had never been held in the ward.

AT CENTRAL TURNER HALL

of 2,000 Present-Incident Seeting of October 11th-An-swering An Objector.

On Thursday, October 11th, the Cen tral Turner hall at 1111 Milwaukee ave ue, was the scene of a most enormou Socialist meeting, at which Walter Thomas Milis and Geo. D. Evans were the principal speakers. The hall was packed to its utmost capacity, hundred of people standing up for lack of seats were present. The outbursts of cheer ng which from time to time marked each point made by the speakers was significant of the hold which socialism is getting on the great West Side of

The topics of the day were eloquently discussed by Comrade Mills, and the pretended issues of the Republican and Democratic parties were subjected to a severe analysis, which showed clearly that the capitalist classes, though unable were also unwilling to attempt any measures which would improve condition of the working class. The commercialism based on the capitalist system of private ownership of the means of production, rendered the con dition of the workers hopeless so long as it was permitted to exist. Comrade Mills closed his remarks by pointing out that in socialism alone lay the hope of the working class, and urged his hearers to work for its realization with all their might, and the hurricane of cheers with which his concluding sentences were greeted showed that the vast bulk of the audience were keenly alive to the necessity which was so clearly demonstrated.

Comrade Evans opened the meeting by giving a concise and definite expla-nation of socialism and the movement designated by that name, and it was quite evident from the applause with which his remarks were greeted that he succeeded in placing before his audience a distinct conception of the principles which underlie the great worldmovement, known as socialism. At the conclusion of Comrade Mill's address, though it was evident that the vast majority of the audience were in line with the speaker's ideas, yet "one man for a moment, stood out before the crowd," and under the pretext of asking a question made a ten minutes' address, in which he showed beyond the shadow of a doubt, that neither reason nor argument are essential to what is called in capitalist parlance, a "politi-cal" speech. The crowd which at once recognized his courage were equally keen to recognize his folly, and some confusion ensued, probably originated by those who felt time was wasted. It is almost superfluous to add that the pugnacious objector wore a 'Democratic' label. At any rate, after ten good minutes had been expended in istening to a rehash of the exploded rot that passes amongst capitalist politicians for "arguments" against socialsm. Comrade Mills rose up and quietly demolished his antagonist without any apparent effort, to the great delight of the crowd to whom the incident supplied an illustration of the utter mental nelplesaness of the average capitalist politician who rashly challenges Social-

A debate was then offered by the comrades, which the "Democrat" eemed reluctant to accept, but which he finally did, urged on no doubt by the intellectual trouncing he had just re-ceived. This debate will be duly advertised in the party press, and the com rades who wish to get instruction and pleasure, should not miss this, that is, provided the "party of the first part" doesn't in the mean time come to the onclusion that "discretion is the better part of valor."

A sum of over twenty dollars was collected for the Socialist cause, and one of the best-meetings ever conducted in Chicago was brought to a successful finish.

This we hope, however, is but the first different halls throughout the city between now and election day, and from the energy which the comrades are universally displaying, it is not too much moment that even this mass meeting will not be eclipsed by succeeding ones.

Lithographs, literature and campaign buttons have been bought freely this week, and I would advise those locals who have as yet failed to get their supplies, to do so at once or the chances are they will be without any, as our stock is fast dwindling away under the heavy onslaught made by comrades, ordering from all corners of the country. I want to call attention to the subscription lists which were to be returned by October 15th, and would request all locals and sub-divisions to immediately vecturn same together with all monies collected. I also wish to call the attention of the comrades in the special due stamps issued to defray the expenses of the delegate to the International Socialist Congress, and urge all locals who have not yet purchased their quota to do so at once. Secretaries of state committees, and locals, please give this matter your undivided attention and see to it that stamps are immediately purchased and money forwarded at once. I have previously shown you the work the N. E. C. is doing; in order to continue in the same way we need the financial help of every comrade, so send in at once your nickies, dimes or dollars to the National Secretary. For Socialists' Consideration.

Editor Workers' Call:—

Referring to the general warning being given through the party press relative to a possible attempt by the old parties to spring a faise report of Debs' withdrawal upon the eve of election, permit the suggestion that it might be well to emphasize the fact, (which does not seem to be generally appreciated), that neither McKniney, Bryan, Debs, or any other so-called candidate for president is really such.

Tell people the facts—THAT WE CAN ONLY VOTE FOR PARTY ELECTORS, and that the withdrawal of any INDIVIDUAL, who may have more or less reason to expect certain candidates for ELECTORS to make of any INDIVIDUAL, who may have more or less reason to expect certain candidates for ELECTORS to make him their choice, can have no possible effect in the way of keeping any party whose ELECTORS are chosen, from selecting its candidate.

In other words, impress upon voters the fact that, in this election at least, they are voting solely for SOCIALISM—and that their vote will be counted for SOCIALISM, if cast for the Socialist ELECTORS—quite regardless of the withdrawal of any INDIVIDUAL.

This circular letter goes to six Socialist editors—who are urged to make the idea suggested public at once, in order that other papers may also heip to call attention to it—if it is thought worthy. Coming, as it does, from a "capitalistic exploiter" (though a mighty small one), it might be well to scrutinize it very carefully before going further—as you gentlemen are—thoroughly convinced that as one of you expresses it this week—you may "Trust a capitalist to discover and stand by his class interests every time."

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

"Trusta" and "Imperialism" Are But Necessary Parts of the Capitalist System of Production.

The following is part of the address Walter Thomas Mills, at Central Turner Hall, on Thursday, 11th inst.: The real trouble with our country is not the question of the trusts or of imperialism, or of the tariff or of money. or any of the questions which the ordnary politician is talking about. The real the thie is Commercialism, or Capi talism, by which is meant, manufacturing for the market and selling for a

It has not always been true that the only reason why men worked was to make things to sell. This summer I Fhave been raising potatoes en our school farm. But we did not raise them to sell; we are going to eat them ourselves. Both the Republican and smocratic parties claim that we must make to sell, that we are making more than we can sell to each other and so must have a foreign market. Mr. Mc Kinley is going after the foreign market with a gun. Mr. Bryan objects to the gun, but admits the necessity of going after the market.

But why cannot we buy all that we produce? Because we are not produc ing food to feed the hungry, or clothes to cover the naked of ragged. It makes no difference to the American producer how many are hungry or ragged, if they cannot BUY. He produces to sell, not to use. He pays so small a share of the value of the product for producing it that the laborer cannot buy h and he himself cannot use it-and so the foreign market must be sought.

I will not step to show you how the foreign market cannot bring any sure and lasting relief. The fact is that the only market which can last on forever, without a break, is one wherein the power to buy on the part of the workers shall be as great as their power to be destroyed except by the destruction of capitalism itself.

How, some one will ask, shall there be no exchange? Shall each produce all he tises and have no share in the product of others? Shall not the tallor and the baker exchange their clothes and their bread? Certainly, but that does not require producing for a mar-ket and selling for a profit. It only remeans of which the exchange may be made. Now the exchange is so made that the tailor gets the crusts and the baker gets the ravelings, and the capitalist organization of business gets away with both the clothes and the bread, to leave the toilers both hungry and ragged.

The real evil of the day is this system. Imperialism and the trusts are simply features of this capitalism. The trust is simply the mutual understanding of manufacturers that they will not destroy each other through competition. Imperialism is simply the American gunboat following the industrial trust round the earth in its efforts to dispose of its products.

The Democratic party offers to put the trust-centrolled article on the free list. Of this there are two things to be said: One is that if the Democratic party was in power tomorrow it would not do that. It would mean putting on the free list nearly every mannufac tured article in the market. It would practically close out and shut up the

But the larger share of the Democratic candidates for congress in nearly all of the states, and practically the solid delegation from the eastern states. are as much the agents of the trusts as are the Republican candidates, and no legislation really hurting the trusts will be possible.

The other thing which is true of this Democratic anti-trust platform is that trolled article on the free list that would not burt the international trust and all the trusts are becoming inter national. Should the same trust control the product and the price of the product, both from the American and European factory, it would be matter of indifference to the trust what the tariff was, for the prices would be fixed lectively all the instruments necessary by the international trust without comthe trustees of the trust, regardless of but he said something about the carry-

ANOTHER "FRIEND" TURNS UP.

What a wonderful brain Mr. Jas. H. Eckels must have, and what wenderful thinking mechanism the workingmen must possess who are alleged to have heard him speak at the auditorium on other so-called civilized countries one Friday night, October 6th. Here is a nan who was controller of the currency lican president, and giving as his reasons statements that are so clearly capspeech:

for the finished article is received from the purchaser, in almost every great institution operation would either be greatly reduced or cease altogether. It bridges over the period essential to the laborer between the day of the raw material and the payment for the finished, a period when the manufacturer must of needs have borrowed capital. Herein is the importance of the commercial bank and the necessity of it to the business and laboring world."

Let the laborer reloice because the bank exists. And Mr. Eckels gives him The blacksmith, tailor, carpenter, prin-tlement of the difficulty at the mills is the respons why he should. If the manufacturers did not loan money from the banks to tide them over the period of manufacture to the time of sale of the finished product, they might have Neither the trust nor imperialism can to cease operation, and then the laborer would be out his wages. Of course the banks and the manufacturers get the profits, but don't you get your wages, Mr. Laborer? What more do you want? Isn't Mr. Eckels and his class satisfied with the profits? and isn't he trying to convince you that you should be satiscialists, judging by their treatment of fied and indorse a system which makes it possible for you to receive wages for your labor? He knows that there is no chance for you under capitalism but work for wages, and even that under Mr. W. J. Bryan's brand of capitalism, for he tells you that "The laboring man has but the capital of brain and muscle, and to utilize these he must be afforded the opportunity to work. Make it impossible to have enterprises carrried on, and he is deprived of that opportunity; reduce the purchasing value of the money in which that wages is paid, or through such act double the price of the article he must buy, and you diminish his capital, which is the essential element in his well being. If ever there was a presidential election fraught with the weal or woe to the citizens of this republic, it is the present one. Why? .

Comrade Simons was the principal speaker at the meeting at Ninety-second street and Commercial avenus. Saturday night. He gave a stirring and convincing address, showing that the old parties are alike opposed to the real interests of the workingman, and that only by united political action of the working class, conscious of its own interest, can the emancipation of labor be achieved. The address was cernestly instened to by an audience of 500 perlec'achieved. Phoenix Hall, on Sedgwick and Division streets, was, on last Saturday evening, the scene of one of the largest and most successful Socialist meetings ever held on the North Side. The speakers of the evening were Comrades Wanhope, Walter T. Mills and J. Stitt Wilson, who spoke in the order named. The audience, which numbered about six bundred, testified to the prevailing enthusiasm for socialism by thundering chers, which completely squelched the efforts of a Republican marching club outside which was drumming up recruits for capitalism. The addresses of Comrades Mills and Wilson were particularly forceful and humorous, and the meeting was prolonged until nearly 11 p. m., the audience from time to time requesting the speakers to continue their addresses.

Meeting of the Twelfth Ward branch held at Madison and Western on October 12th, proved successful in every respect. The speakers, Bigelow, Knox and Collins, had a lively time answering the questions which came from the sudience, as it seemed that the opposition was out in force that evening. As usual, however, the comrades ecquitted themselves so ably that little room was left for reply from the objectors. A counter-demonstration was then arranged upon the other side of the street by some disgruntled Democrats, who very appropriately mounted a Grunken man on a box with instructions to yell for all that was in him in order to break up the meeting. The sitempt failed, however, and the speaking concluded quietly, the audience breaking up into knote and groups discussing the questions they had heard.

There is hardly a man in the Chinese relief expedition who has not a story to tell of Russian barbarism of which he has been an eye-witness. But to make a long and a fairy-like tale short, Mr. Tewksbury is not now in New York. Many people are now mourning his sudden disappearance and present whereabouts to the tune of from $10 to $90,000 each. And of such is modern commercialism based on private capitalism-worth millions today but worse than "dead broke" to mor-Beautiful system-washed in blood and tears; however, I reckon we

The Knoxville Express has much to say by way of criticism of and advice to the workers from a plutocratic or money-power standpoint. It says in

A Washington (Iowa) man 's writing a book on the "Cause of Poverty." He is a laboring man, and it is said he would publish the book but has no means to do so. It must be a big book if it gives all the causes of poverty. We presume he lists laziness, improvidence, misfortune, lack of management, extravagance, red liquor, cigarettes, gambling, lack of hustle, and a thousand other things we haven't room to publish this week.

Writing books on the cause of poverty and other economic subjects will have a tendency to keep that Washington man poor all his life. A man who is poor and don't want to get poore; should not take too violent an interest in political and social questions nor spend too much time in elaborating his ideas. The world is not crying aloud for more knowledge on these subjects, and those who force it on a glutted market must expect poor financial returns.

But the world is hunting for good very much alarmed lest the nogro should get an idea into his head that he would like to be free; for, although it is claimed that only "dreamers" have "ideas," yet "ideas" always precede intelligent action. So with the masters of today; they don't want the workers thinking, talking, much less writing on the "CAUSE OF POVERTY;" "SHOULD NOT TAKE TOO VIO-LENT AN INTEREST IN POLITICAL NOR SOCIAL QUESTIONS NOR SPEND TOO MUCH TIME ELABOR-ATING HIS IDEAS:" "but . . keep working . . . and not go straggling off at every by-path of the political and sociological highway."

The present cause of the common -the workers in America ready has its martyrs at Hazelton, Chicago, Wardner, St. Louis, etc.

Considering all this, the Socialist may expect nothing but epithets and calumnies from the same source; but for such we care nothing; our present leader, E. V. Debs, has already been in prison because of his strenuous defense of labors' cause, and if necessary I doubt not that he is ready and willing to go again. But let the present plutocratic oligarchy, the oppressors of the wage workers-the common people remember that, putting past history of nations and peoples in evidence, the Almighty law of truth and justice never suffers long violation in any one direction; that the day of retribution for the wage slave is coming just as surely as it came for the chattel slave thirty-five years ago. Already the hand-writing is upon the wall! Remember the proud boast of the South ern Confederacy, whose corner ston was slavery, and take warning:

Yes, let the wage slave power read : In March, 1846, the chattel slave power of these United States made war on weak and defenseless Mexico for th purpose of expanding pegro chattel slavery, but in less than seventeen years from that time there was not lawful chattel slave in all North America. At Belleville there was quite a hit of fun as the following account from the Morning Record will show. The last paragraph is something which might well have been written by a Socialist who really desired the success of the cause he advocated:

The Socialists of Belleville and vicinity assembled in numbers at the court house last night for the purpose of listening to an address by Mr. William Cox, candidate for licutenant govern or Illinois, who had challenged the representative of any other political party to debate with him the question. POLITICAL PARTIES REVIEWED

In the campaign the voter has before him three political parties representing duces. the interests of three different ecosomic classs. The first of these is the Republican party. This party stands for the interests of the great capitalists and industrial barons. These desire that industry should be as much concentrated as possible and that the very best machines should be used, not that the toil of the laborar may be lightened but that the share of the owner of these tools may be larger They desire expansion because the tools enable the workers to produce so much that THEIR MASTERS, THE TRUSTS, DO NOT KNOW WHAT TO bust. They very graciously promis the laborer that if he will vote for them they will give him a full stomach from the wealth that he produces for them that is for every CAR-LOAD he pro duces he may take home a DINNER-PAIL FULL.

the interest of that portion of the capitalist class that "got left" in the trust souabble and have only little machines small industries and imperfect tools with which to exploit their workers These capitalists cannot squeeze their laborers hard enough to make a profit competition with the great indus tries, and so they want these great organizations of capitalists disbanded s ant expansion. This is not because oppose imperialism or militarism for they are just as willing as their Republican friends to call out the militia to enforce imperialism in the workshops at home.

Thus it is seen that while these two great parties differ on minor questions as to who shall have what the laborer laboring men who are neither large nor have no interest with either party. These people are not the owners of 1thr trusts or small industries but only the users of machines and the creators of wealth. What are their interests and is there any party that stands for

If a laborer desires to live at the present time he must find some opportunity to produce wealth. But all the means whereby wealth is produced today are in the hands of either the cratic bosses. These bosses will only hire the laborer when they can make him to use these wonderful tools that he has made and produce wealth only them. As there are many more work. capitalists can PROFITABLY use, the laborers compete with one another for

Now if the laborer could but combine with his fellow workers and own these means of production that the capitalist now has he could keep all the product. There would be no one else to receive any since the same persons uld be both owners and users, All All would then be interested in having the very best machines and the very best organization of labor so that each would be compelled to work just as little as possible and produce just s much as he could.

Now neither the Republican nor th Democratic party has ever dared to stand for anything like this. On the contrary both of them have repeated; declared themselves to be in favor of private property, "honest wealth." good corporations," etc. Hence neither of them in any way stand for what we have seen to be the interests of the laborer. On the other hand the SOCIAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY stands for just these things. It de clares that the time has come for the laborers to stop fighting the battles of either the large or the small capitalists but to attend to their own battle which is against all capitalists. The Socialist declares that for the laborer the true ine of battle is between the laboring class and the capitalist class, and that the object of the struggle is to secure for the workers a chance to use their Socialist says that it is time that the laborer ceased to fight the political battles of his masters and united against all masters. The Socialist says that al oo long the worker has tolled for, fought for, produced for, voted for the capitalist class, and that the time has now come when he must fight for himself in order that he may toll for himself and enjoy what he himself pro-

THE IMMEDIATE FUTURE Whatever be the results of the coming election, whether great capitalism openly triumphs by placing McKinley in the presidential chair, or Mr. Bryan ecures that eminence from which to xhibit his impotence to those who look upon him as a possible barrier to economic progress, there can be no doubt but that Socialists have a task of educational propaganda before them for the next four years which will demand from every member the utmost energy of which he is capable. The developnent now in process which marks the a factor in production, at the same time opens a fruitful field in which the The work that has been accomplished future propaganda, and one of its most important functions has been the building up of a party which in its esence is frankly and clearly revolutionary. So well has this been accomplished that it may be said that every day the opportunity to build up a spur ness, and the reality of the class struggle, have been so incessantly reiterated mise is possible, that the line of battle is so distinctly marked that in the near future the choice between the two althe only one possible. It is only necessary to listen to the declarations of forlorn hope, as to their intentions in case of his defeat, to perceive the probproduces there is a great majority of lem with which we will have to deal the population who have no interest on in the years directly ahead of us, the Capitalist Politicians Fight Shy of the being deluged. The great object which is now to be attained is to lead them assimilate, to mould and shape into one coherent party with aims and objects distinctly defined. That this position confronts us irrespective of Republican or Democratic victory in the coming election, is of course apparent to all Socialists, and to meet it, and pluck from it additional strength to the movement, t is imperative that there should be no cessation in the activity with which so cialism has been advocated during the last year. That there will be an enermous accession to the Socialist ranks is unquestionable! That these new arlarge Republican or the small Demo- rivals will come into the movement with a perfectly clear conception of its nature and object is not to be expected. a profit out of him. They will allow and it devolves upon us to see to it that the "assimilating" process be completed as quickly and thoroughly as on condition that he sells himself to possible. Economic pressure can doubtless be relied upon to do its part ers than both the large and the small in this matter, but this does not relieve us of the necessity of active co-opera tion upon our part. Into the next four the chance to produce wealth for the years must be crowded more explanation, instruction and education in the knowledge of socialism than ever before, and to do this we were never better equipped than at present. ACCORDING TO REQUEST,

This Declaration From Eugene V. Deba Will Appear in Our Columns Until Election.

To Our Comrades and Friends:-The persistence with which the report is circulated that I have resigned in favor of the Democratic candidate impels me to issue this denial of the falsehood originated by the capitalist press to deceive and mislead our friends and supporters.

"Comrade Harriman and I have been nominated as the candidates for vicepresident and président, respectively, of the Social Democratic party, and we shall stand as such candidates to be voted for on election day, all reports and rumors to the contrary notwithstanding. "It is not at all improbable that this report may be sprung afresh on the very eve of election, too late to be met, and contradicted by the weekly Socialist press of the country, and for this reason I take the liberty to request all Socialist papers, and any others that may be friendly to our party to publish this statement and keep it standing in the last three or four issues preceding the election.

TO RESIGN AT SUCH A TIME WOULD BE RANK BETRAYAL OF WHICH NO HONORABLE MAN WOULD BE GUILTY, but if from any inconceivable reason such a step benecessary, I would not under any esible circumstances resign in favor of the Republican or Democratic party.

They are allke the representatives of the capitalist system, they are one in the support of private property in the means of production; they are agreed as to wage slavery; they do not differ in their hostility to socialism, and I would as readily think of resigning in favor of one as the other of these parties. "Our party comrades understand this and cannot be misled, but there is danger that some of our friends may be deceived, and hence this warning note. "The Republican papers declare that cialists will vote for Bryan, while the Democratic press charges that Socialists are in the pay of Mark Hanna. THESE OLD CAMPAIGN LIARS KNOW RETTER BUT THEY UN-DERSTAND EACH OTHER. fall they will be made to realize that with all the corruption funds at their command, their is no private property in Socialists.

THE GREAT COAL STRIKE.

The coal miners seem to be on the points struck for. The operators have cession so long as the other abuses revet there are signs that if the men can hold out a few days longer they ill secure yet other and more substantial concestons.

If ever there was a time when the corkers of America should lend a hand to struggling brothers it is now. Never capitalism could not find no excuse to But all admit that the miners' cause is "fust." The question arises as to why ome of those capitalist politicians who are so anxious to secure the "labor vote" do not make this an more men are concerned, more lives endangered, greater interests involved than in any question of "imperialism." But neither Bryan por McKinley have dared to say that if they were elected they would "withdraw the troops from Pennsylvania." Perhaps this is because the men cor erned, the lives endangered, and interests involved, are those of working." men and not of capitalists, large or mall. But from the reports sent in by thers, it looks as if a goodly-number of the miners will cast their ballots for neither the Republican nor the De ratic party, but for the party which I realfy concerns itself with their intersts-the Social Democratic party.

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

The Inter Ocean of last Sunday, in reporting a political meeting in which several capitalist stool pigeons of Irish in blg headline type that the "Irish are for McKinley," And Mr. "Bobby Burke" on the other asserts that the Irish are for Bryan. But the more intelligent and self-respecting Irishmer are for themselves, and will prove it by voting the Socialist ticket, and we hope that they will do it in such numbery that when "Bobby Burke" and the Inter Ocean ask "What's the matter with the Irish?" a chorus of toyful Socialists will be able to shout back "They're all right."

The weakness of the non-Socialist workman can be well observed by noting the anxiety he displays in finding out how the betting stands on th chances of the presidential candidates. He wants to know which is likely to win so that he can range himself upon that side, and in order to find out how he should vote, keeps his fingers on the gambler's pulse. Many thousands of votes are influenced in that way, and therefore the capitalist pres lays great stress upon the betting. It makes little difference however to the workingman, for whichever gambler wins, he loses, though he may find some consolation for the robbery of his labor pro duct, by declaring that he correctly guessed which particular set of thieves should plunder him for the ensuing four years.

The Republican and Democratic press. It will be noticed, are careful to make all the political capital possible out of the alleged attacks made by rowdy partisans from both sides upon candidates and other prominents. chunk of ice is thrown at Mark Hanna or Roosevelt is jeered and hooted in ome small town. For full particulars see the Republican papers. Bryan is howled down by a mob of students, or pelted with stale vegetables in some out of the way place. Look in the Democratic papers for all the details. All this political "martyrdom" is exploited for the benefit of the dupes to whom a personal attachment to some one or other of the "leaders" outwelch all other considerations. Just as the heathen in his blindness bows down to wood and stone" but will quickly resent any insult offered to his idol. so with the "intelligenc" voter in the tolls of capitalist hero worship. The press recognizes this and makes it serve its purpose.

And now comes those shocking tales "corruption," the buying of votes, and the "colonization" of voters, ing "Hinky Dink" and "Bathhouse John" raise their eyes in holy horror, over the wickedness of Republican 'colonization" in Illinois. And the spotbare idea of giving a voter money for his vote. And the Republicans too are filled with righteous wrath because of the Tammany "corruption funds" raised by the criminal classes of New York city to purchase the poor but honest voter. Their horror over this matter is also intensified by the fact that Croker and Democrats that source of revenue instead of themselves, and the press of both sides keep in standing type the headline "Gross Fraud Is Charged." And the workingman who knows enough to accept as truth the evidence of each as against the other will help to get rid of the whole mass of festering corruption and rottenness by voting for socialism, the ticket headed by Eugene V. Debs and Job Harriman.

The "settlement" of the coal strike presents some peculiar features, and the miners would do well to place little faith in the capitalist protestations of friendship with which they are now quietly into the capitalist political shambles on the 6th of next month, erge of gaining at least some of the and prevent by any all means the growth of a Socialist vote amongst already offered a ten per cent increase these unfortunate victims of capitalist and although this is practically no con- robbery. For this reason the mouth main and the union is unrecognized, Hanna, has been rushed into the coal regions, to keep the slaves in line by orations upon the 'prosperity' which they have enjoyed under a Republican administration, and a promise of still more of it for the next four years if they only elect his man McKinley into office.

It is very necessary of course to handle the miners gently for the next two weeks preceding election. There fore the capitalist press are now de claring that they have won a "great victory," the final settlement only being delayed by some minor matters. First it is the "railroad charges," then we are told it is the "powder question. etc., but once the election is over thes pretences will be cast to the winds, ne matter which wing of capitalism is ceive an illustration of how the power of state will used in the hands of their masters, either through the medium of the regular troops by order of Mc Kinley, or the "well, organized militia" favored by Bryan. The "powder ques Mother" Jones, Comrade Gelger and tion" will present no difficulties to either party when the "powder' is used to suppress rebellious, workers, strong vote for Debs and Harriman would be more likely to make them hesitate.

> One Biefeld, the owner of a clost factory (not a cloak maker as he is ermed by the Chicago American), has ust been having a "heart to heart alk with his own and his colleague's wage slaves, at a meeting to which th Central Music hall on Friday, the 19th inst. Ble feld, like every other capitalist just now, is very much interested in how these wage slaves are going to vote, and he therefore adjured them to vote for "self" on the understanding that their interests were bound up with those of the parasitical class, the class that takes the cream of labor's product and generously leaves the workers th chance of fighting each other for the possession of the skimmed milk. If these cloaks laborers continue to produce and then present them to Biefeld, they will have a hard job figuring out how they are working for 'self" in such case, and yet Biefeld's logic is correct from the capitalist standpoint, which presupposes that with the exception of a barely sufficient maintenance, the laborer belongs body and soul to the class which uses him as a means of production, and that he can only express "self's through the medium of the capitalist who employes him.

The Republican press in giving the reasons why workingmen should vote against Adlai E. Stevenson, Bryan's running mate, bring out as his chief offence, that he was a "copperhead" during the Civil war. But surely he has made amends for that crime. Will not his record as a labor skinner be credited to his account on the other side of the ledger? Has he not been as implacable a foe to union men as the great Mark Hanna himself? Did he not forbid even the formation of a union amongst his wage slaves in the Stev-

the drawing cards in the campaign The Socialists for the past year or so have persistently explained who and what Tiliman really is, with the result that his usefulness is destroyed in the industrial states of the North. The workmen in those states understand that his pitchfork is principally used to prod their fellow workmen in the Senator Jones, chairman of the Demcratic National committee and owner of Arkansas cotton plantations, is seemingly much disturbed about the coercion which is said to be exercised by the McKinley wing of capitalism over the wage slaves under its control in order to compel them to vote for McKinley. But Senator Jones is not in the least solicitous about the negro workingmen in the South who have been denied the right to vote for either. He does not lay any stress upon the fact that in case the latter insisted upon exercising this "right," a party in a red shirt, would with aid of a rifle, speedily convince him of the error of his ways. According to Jones it is far greater villany to compel a worker to vote in some particular way than to deprive him of all opportunity to vote in any way whatever.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS

A Summary of the Proceedings at Paris -De Leonism Repudiated-Re-establishment of the "International." -The "Millerand Case" and the Decision on Compromises-Universal Suffrage Declared For - Further Organization of Trades Unions Urged.

The International Congress of the So- definite action beyond recommending cialists of the world was held in Paris further and closer organization of the from the 25th to the 25th of last month. laborers economically. The congress Although it was the most representative body of men ever gathered togeth- after a great amount of heated discuser on this planet; although its delegates stood for a principle that has the backing of millions and is today sway-ing the destinies of nations and peoples in every corner of the earth, yet the press of America dismissed it with a half-dozen lines. While they could find columns to tell about the courtship of members of decaying royalty or a majority of that party should so decide mushroom plutocracy and chronicled every turn of some scion of Chicago pork or Pennsylvania oil, they had no the class struggle forbid all forms of space to mention the acts of a body representing 30,000,000 workers. The that the only time in which it was at Republican Inter Ocean that boasts of all permissible to make even temporary its widely scattered foreign staff, the independent 'intellectual" Record that has its representatives scattered wher-ver a prig of plutocracy may chance to sneeze, ready to chronicle his symptoms, and the Democratic and "yellow" Chicago American that has its unrivaled combined and concentrated aggregation of liars" ready at any corner of the earth where some oppressor of labor may happen to decre to perform any idiotic feat, all these agreed that a gathering of thousands of intelligent, trained intellectual and manual workers preparing programs and arranging campaigns of action that will set all modern society in motion, was not "good stuff" for the laborers of America to read. Yet millions of those laborers will vote as those papers tell them and think they are voting intelligently when they do so.

But fortunately there are Socialist papers, which, if they have not at their disposal the same rapid means of communication of news, still are able to give it with greater accuracy at a later date. So it is that we have gathered together from the columns of the French and Belgian dailies, as well as from the other European newspapers and private letters, the news of the working of the convention, and are able to offer a short summary of what has well been called "the Parliament of the Laborers of the World."

We will pass over the quarrels be tween the factions of the French comrades which opened up the proceedings of the first day, but which happily wre settled ere the close of the congress, so that the laborers of Franc once more present a united front to the common enemy. Credentials were sented from almost every country invaded by capitalist civilization, and telegrams or letters were received from those unable to send delegates. On the second day Sanial attempted to carry out the orders of his New York boss the great and only Daniel; and protested against the delegates of the S. D. P. Comrade Harriman gave a brief explanation of the tactics of the 'Scab Labor party" and was at once seated, together with his fellow dele-gates from the S. D. P., and when Sanial told them that he was under orders from New York not to sit in the congress if he had to sit with those awful S. D. P. fellows, he was promptly told to go, and that his sort of spirit was not needed in a Socialist congress. he decided to stay anyhow, and had the satisfaction of seeing the congres adopt a resolution taking almost exactly the same stand as the S. D. P. in endorsing trades unions, and he did it. From the last number of De Leon's People it appears that the "perfesser" has decided to start a new "international" all of his own, and allow none but true followers of the prophet to be On the third day was transacted what ant work of the whole congress. This was the establishment of the "Interna-The seat of the permanent committee is to be in Brussels, where there is to be a paid secretary who is to have his duties (1) The procuring of all necessary information; (2) The arranging of an explanatory code of the decisions of previous congresses, (3) The distribution of reports giving the state of the movement in each country two months before the holding of the next congress, (4) The preparation of a general survey of the questions discussed by the gress, (5) The publication from time to time of brochures and manifestos upon current questions of general interest, such as important reforms, and studies upon the more important political economic questions, (6) To take the necessary measures to favor the tariat of all countries.

This will mean that from now on the Socialist movement will be given a greater continuity and stability, as well as being able to realize in each country the momentum which its world-wid extent-should give. It means that its organization will be to some degree at least commensurate with its extent and ortance. It will mean that the strength of the party can be more inwill forever render any 'side-tracking" sible by individual nations.

As none of these cases are possible in America without a com plete revolution the action of the congress is of little interest, save as con firming the American Socialists in their uncompromising opposition to all polit

. The congress also put itself on record as opposed to militarism and the policy of colonial expansion, and pointed out that the trust was the natural and legitimate outcome of the competitive capitalist system. On the question of universal suffrage they declared that considering that upon the ground of Socialist politics men and women have equal rights, this congress proclaims the necessity of equal suffrage for the two sexes." On the question of the general universal strike the congress decided that there was as yet no sign that such a step could be taken effectively, and urged further organization of trades unions in order to be pre pared for whatever form the struggle

It was decided to hold the next International Congress at Amsterdam in 1903, and after a short speech by Van Kol of Holland the congress adjourned.

Comrade Knox outlined the history and development of socialism. He was followed by Comrade Smiley, who dissocted the platforms of the Republican and Democratic garties, proving to the satisfaction of the audience that they were not meant to benefit the workingman, the was followed by Comrade Milist (enough said). It was the most successful political meeting held in that district.

The Twenty-fourth Ward branch, S. D. P., held its usual agitation specing at Clark and Walton streets, last Thursday evening. Comrade Figelow spoke for about an hour and a half to a large and attentive audience. He placed the truths of socialism before his listeners in a clear, and forethe manner, and each point was received with enthusiasm. Just before the meeting closed a young man announced his determination to have nothing more to do with either of the old parties, and came into the fold. About 50 copies of the Workers' Call, and fifty pamphlets were sold.

It is getting rather hard to find any suitable adjectives with which to describe the meetings that are now being held by the Chicago Socialists. But the one at the Central Turner half on W. Twelfth street last Wednesday night was a record breaker. The shall seats over a thousand and it was crowded to the doors and a lot of extra chairs were brought in until every inch of available space was filled. Comrade Sifnons, Mills and Morgan were the speakers, and the audience was with them from the beginning. Round after round of applause and cheers punctuated every telling noint and many men who came to laugh remained to think and went away to tote for socialism.

That the remarkable strides socialist That the remarkable strides socialist is making are causing an uneasy feeling amongst our ruling class is we evidenced by an incident related by on of our local workers who has been of inte extremely active in distributing Socialist literature. He was returning to his home on one of the C. N. & Wrallway trains the other evening an began to pass out copies of the Workers' Call to the working people who were passengers. He had not distributed more than a dozen or so, when the head end orakeman passing through the car observed the title of the paper and at once ordered the distribution to be stopped. This is the soci of thin which arouses the curiosity of the to be stopped. This is the sort of thing which arouses the curiosity of the working class and leads them to inquire into the forbidden subect. The efforts of the capitalist under whose orders the brakeman, ta wage slave himself), was evidently acting, will in the end defeat its own obect.

A little incidence of the way in which Mark Hanna is helping the Socialist campaign along was offered by the experience of the comrades of the Seventh ward. They have been holding meetings in a half at Maxwell and Jefferson ward. They have been house meetings in a hall at Maxwell and Jefferson streets for some months, and during the campaign have been having acitations meetings every Friday night. The had held two of such racetings, but of which were packed to the doors with men standing on the steps and in entrance trying to get in. Meanwhile the Republicans tried to hold meetings a the same place. They also had two meetings, at neither of which more than thirty persons were present, all of whom had to be there or endange their present or prospective political jobs. When the Socialists went there is hold their next meeting they were tole that the Republicans had hired it for every night until the end of the campaign. Up to the present time they have not shown any intention however of trying to hold any meetings in it.

SLAVERY UNPROFITABLE.

An Incident in the Political Career of the Late John Sherman.

The passing of John Sherman recalls very important incident in his political career just before the struggle for the abolition of chattel slavery resulted in the Civil war. The cry against that institution had been mostly upon sen timental grounds, and had almost exhausted itself when a new element appeared which attacked chattel slavery in its weakest spot, by demonstrating that it was in reality an economic fail are and that greater advantage, i. c. more profit, would accrue to the enter prising capitalist from its abolition in favor of the modern wage system.

John Sherman was defeated for the speak rship after receiving the caucus mination for that office, because he had indersed the views set forth in H. R. Helper's pamphlet, "The Impending Crisis.' Sherman was eminently practical and calculating, and his after s when the Republican party had triumphed, justified his indorse which brought about his defeat in 1858. The progress of events in the present is even now sending the sentimentallets to the rear of the advancing Socialist movement, while the and material elements are forging to the front, a fact which presages the early realization of the aspirations of the militant proletarist.

The Socialist's motto is, "the greatest good for all. Bryan's motfo is, "the greatest good for the greatest number."

The great. in reality the champion of the small est number that can possibly attain labor skinner. As a proof of the truth this greatest good is all the people of these statements, just read the folexcept one only. One worker must be lowing report of his recent speech in left to work for all the rest of the Schnectady, N. Y., to the employes of race, who would be his employers, the Edison General Electric works race, who would be his employers.

Now by a bold stretch of the imagination it is possible to conceive that man's power over natural forces spight become so great that one individual alone could produce enough to support all the rest of the race in idleness as capilitalists. This then would be Bryan's paradise. It would be the greatest good for the greatest number. Having reached this point no further progress would be possible. The last laborer annot be turned into a capitalist. The devil take the hindmost.

Mr. Bryan would have as many as possible riding on the backs of as few as possible, and would ultimately have the whole world riding on the back of one individual, and this cotrine is preached in the sacred name of humanity, in the name of liberty, equality and fraternity! Mr. Bryan would press the crown of thorns upon the braw of this one laborer and crucify him upon the cross of "legitimate" profits, but would save the rest of humanity. If this coulse were necessary and unavoidable it might be justified.

What is all this screed except a plea and unavoidable it might be justified; but it is not claimed to be necessary; it is put forth as desirable in itself.

Do our Democratic friends think that truth was crushed to earth, and still this condition is attainable, and if attainable, is it desirable, or is any condition tending in that direction desrable? Is it desirable that the capitalists be as many as possible and the la-borers as few as possible? Is it not and that this competition resulted in rather desirable that the capitalists be as few as possible and the laborers as many as possible, and thus make the burden of supporting Society lighter? The accumulation of wealth in the hands of a few might be objectionable if considered as a permanent condi-tion; but considered as a stage prepar-Does Mr. Bryan believe that the payatory to the overthrow of those few, ment of high wages is satisfactory to it is seen to be necessary and hence desirable.

Instead of having all men capitalists except one who would be a laborer, foredoomed to everlasting slavery by the "natural order" of capitalism, would if not be better to have all men laborrs-except one, who would be a capl talist? But even there our progress would not stop. We can do better than that. We can turn the last capitalist into a laborer and then enter upon a course of prosperity for ALL that would surpass anything we can how conceive of. We would then have the greatest good for all without excepting one individual. The hindmost would not be told to go to the devil but would be welcomed to an equal share in all the advantages of society; though this would not be Bryan's paradise it would be something better; it would be socialism.

Debs in Davenport.

Comrade Conklin of Davenport, Ia. nterrupts a good large order for literalowing bit of cheery news: "Comrade Debs was with us on the 19th, and spoke to fully 2,000 people. We are terms possible," and Mr. Bryan forgot to add "at the lowest terms possible," and Mr. Bryan forgot ure and subscriptions, to give the folmore than double our vote."

Activity in Quincy.

From the way that Quincy, Ill., is ending in orders for literature and subscriptions they must be making things hum, and giving the Democrats and Republicans a "full dinner pail" of knock-out arguments.

How to Do It.

But the trust evil has a remedy, and the remedy is government ownership of all public utilities, such as coal mines, railroads, telegraphs, etc. If you are tired of being oppressed by monopoly in private hands, record your protest, at the polls,—Trackman's Advance Ad-corate.

This all very well, but it would have the laborers how to mark their ballot to make that protest. There is only one way to do it and that is to put your cross at the head of the column marked Social Democratic party.

Valuable Lessons.

Who said the Chicago American was not edited for the benefit of the labor ers? Its latest feature of value to the workers is a set of illustrated lessons on manicuring. It has not appeared as yet, but there will probably be special chapters on how to treat "the horny hand of toil" and to develop the "glad hand" of the profesional politician.

What is all this screed except a plea for the little capitalist? Is it not an attempt to hark back to the days of mall production in the Interests of that individual? Suppose it were true (which it isn't), that a number of capitalists were compelled to compete with each other for the purpose of securing "satisfactory terms." that is, high wages for the latter, what would be the first move upon the part of this group of capitalists? Would they not do as they have already done, combine together for the purpose of "regulating" wages as well as other matters? the small capitalist and obnoxious to the large one? Does he possess the slightest knowledge of how wages are determined? Can a petty capitalist pay his employes higher wages than his competitors and remain a capitalist?

Is it not the constant cheapening of the cost of production that alone brings success to the competing capitalist? And how will the raising of wages harmonize with this process?

What does the skilled laborer do now when he finds the "terms provided for his labor are not satisfactory?" He can leave the employer, but do mean that he will find "satisfactory terms" with another??(Does Mr. Bryan suppose for instance that the comparatively small building contractors in Chicago vie with each other in paying the highest wages to their em-ployes? If a bricklayer, carpenter or painter was dissatisfied with the "terms provided for his labor" could he be certain that another contractor was waiting the opportunity to pay him higher wages? "Competition," says Bryan, "will compel each man the means employer), to get the best brain doing wonderful work here and will also to state that if he, the employer, doesn't fulfil these conditions, compe will compel him to turn to look for an employer and "get what his services are worth," a fate which the petty capitalist dreads so much that he has employed Mr. Bryan's serv-ices to save him from its horrors. Whether they have secured the brain possible" for this purpose is a matter upon which we need express no opinion.

But it is not unlikely that Mr. Bryan after the election returns come in, may discover in glancing over the vote res istered for Debs and Harriman that the mission of the working class does not consist in creating two or three 'hosses" where there is now one, but in changing conditions so that "boss" will be entirely eliminated from our economic system.

Closely Related.

That anarchism and capitalism bear close relation to each other is borne out by the incident which occurred in this city last week, when a small explotter named Morris was arrested for threatening the life of John W. Gates. the steel and wire magnate. The capitalist press in their accounts of the matter display a sort of pity for the fellow Morris, who is said to have lost $30,000 by the manipulation of stock in the hands of Gates. Some people may say, "Well, what has that to do with the workers?" Nothing directly. it is true, but it may serve as an illus tration. Had any member of the working class who had been displaced, and himself and tamily through improved machinery, reduction of wages, the employment of cheaper labor, or any of the different methods by which up to date capitalism cheapens the cost of production, risen and threatened the life of Gates, the capitalist press. Re-publican and Democratic, would join in one long continued howl against the "affarchy" which is the natural blind evolt against capitalist conditions However, when an unsuccessfu plotter tries an "anarchistic" re they are strangely silent on that point,

The "Cheap Gas" Crusade.

The "gas" war is over at last and peace reigns supreme. The "People's' lion has lain down with the "Ogden" lamb, and the lamb doesn't even bleat, although that 'champion of the peothe Chicago American, promises that after the particular monkeyshines connected with the presidential campaign are over, it will re-open the "gas roblem." In the meantime the paraphernalla employed in the farce which has just been played may be put aside for future use. The little business man whose light he held his "indignation" meetings and explained to all comers how he was being 'robbed." The law-yers who raked in the shekels from the "protesters" can lay their affidavit blanks to one side until the next "problem" comes up for discussion, confi-dent that the little exploiters will again return for legal advice and Essistance return for legal advice and assistance against some other 'octopus' who threatens to absorb the meagre profits which they now with great difficulty extract from labor.

And the "protesters!" Well, they will toe the mark and pay their gas bills.

Platform of the Social Democratic Party

The Social Democratic party of the United States, in Convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the revolutionary principles of international assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the revolutionary principles of international assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the revolutionary principles of international associalism and declares the supreme political sentence in the suprement. We affirm our steedfast purpose to use those powers, once achieved, to destroy wage stayery, abelish the institution of private property in the means of production and distribution, and distribution, and distribution and distribution and distribution and distribution and distribution, fand, mines, machinery and means of production are alike the tools of the capitalist class of the second control of the commonwealth.

In the United States, as in will other chommic development has separated society into two antagonistic classes; the capitalists, a comparatively smalicass, the possessor of all the modern means of production are alike the tools of the working class, und the manifel class can not however, and the Co-operative Commonwealth.

The exit effects of the fate of the working class, until the special period of the government, the pulpit, the schools, and the public press, thereby making them the arbiters of the fate of the working class, while it is reducing it to a condition of dependence, egonomically exploited and degraded, and its political equality remotered a bitter mockety; and the content by the properties of the fate of the working class, while it is reducing it to a condition of dependence, egonomically exploited and degraded, and the public breast, the content of the conten the exploited, the capitalists and the wage workers.

The evil effects of capitalistic production are intensified by the recurring industrial crises, continually rendering the existence of the greater part of the population more precarious and uncertain, which amply proves that the modern means of production have outgrown the existing social order based on production for profit.

Human energy and natural resources are wasted for individual gain.

Ignorance is festered, that wage slavery may be perpetuated. Science and invention are perverted to the exploitation of men, women and children.

The lives and liberties of the working class are recklessly sacrificed for profit.

Ignorance is fostered, that wage slavery may be perpetuated. Science and invention are perverted to the exploitation of men, women and children.

The lives and liberties of the working class are recklessly sacrificed for profit.

Wars are fomented between nations: indiscriminate slaughter is encouraged; the destruction of whole races is sanctioned, in order that the capitalist class may extend its commercial dominion abroad and enhance its supremacy at home.

The introduction of a new and higher order of society is the historic mission of the working class. All other classes despite their apparent or actual conflicts are interested in the upholding of the system of private ownership of the means of production. We therefore charge that in this country the Democratic, Republican and all other parties which do not stand for the complete

Hence they wish to keep all such knowledge from those who have it in their power to abolish the aforesaid institution and thereby enable everyone to enjoy the product of the sweat of his own brow, or else not have any product.

Not that the average politician has ever reasoned out any of these things. He ordinarily could not understand them if they were told to him, and would be useless for his present work on as he did comprehend them. This is one of those unconscious social functions that like certain similar physiological processes perform their work better when the brain knows nothing of their action.

If the capitalist class is to remain in power it must do so through the continuous control over the minds of the workers and especially at the times when these latter imagine they are exercising a free choice as to any form of social organization. We must gain possession of the means of production and vest their ownership in organized society. The first step and the surest in that direction is the concialist ballot is the weapon that will make us the ruling class and free us

Stated briefly it consists in the fact

Let us now examine the railroad statistics, which, by comparing conditions in 1896 with 1900, have been offered in proof of the superabundance in our din ner pails.

The first point made is an increase in the number of employed. We cheerfully admit it, but it merely proves that at present the capitalists can profitably use more of us than they could in 1896. SO THE FIRST CHARACTERISTIC OF CAPITALIST PROSPERITY IS THAT IT ENABLES THE CAPITAL-OF THOSE WHOM THEY EXPLOIT. And while we may be glad of the emtalism; we could not live, that is no reason why we should overlook the exploitation upon which it is conditioned. Nor can we afford to forget its temporary character, and the certainty of

The increase, however, in the number flowing the storehouses of the capitalist class; the producers shut off from the means of production because of the mileage, 778 miles, and when account is mileage, 778 miles, and when account is extent. For instance, in the Illinois surfeit of their products, yet starving taken of this the real increase in the amid this abundance because they were employed shrinks by 5,164. It proves to satisfied with a "full dinner pail" if be only 3,574, an increase of less than

The statistics as to the amounts paid a standstill, in the face of famine, in wages are too incomplete to give York; the Democrats in Idaho. Both for funds that it will be possible to though the means of production are more than an approximate idea of existing conditions. Totals only are given, theism, are owned by it body and so It is these startling contradictions and when it is seen that the salaries and will resist to the uttermost your efand the terrible sufferings which they of the officers are included the unreliabring to the wage workers which at ble character of the averages arrived such times stir up the spirit of revolt. at will be appreciated. If the president The pressing conditions and their of the Illinois Central gets $50,000 a the process of exploitation from which wage will be $25,250. That sounds very comfortable, but there is little danger In times like the present, therefore, that your family will grow fat on your it behooves us to study the process by actual share of it. So when the average wage on the Illinois Central figures out pail serves us for today and today only. $1.48% per day, it means that by far We must think of the morrow and not the larger portion of the employees inevitably result from our present ac- is the unexampled prosperity of which wage of only $1.48%, with the salariwill the day of overproduction come, of the highly paid officers thrown in for What better evidence products into fresh capital, they will can be asked that prosperity as the close to us the means of production and capitalist sees it is his own prosperity wage is only $1.48%, which is still considerably below the average on other roads. The advance, therefore, merely represents the extent to which Illinois Central has been compelled to more nearly equalize conditions with other roads. This is the road which encourages" its employes to become petty stockholders. The effectiveness of this trick may be judged from the lowness of the average wages.

Even with this in- of the fool laborer,

On the Northwestern there is shown an increase of 4 1-6 cents per day, or $15.21 a year, and on the Rock Island but 1 4-15 cents per day, or $4.62 per-year. Against these beggarly increases must be considered the increased cost of living due to the general advance in prices, and it will be found that the slight advance in the wage is more than offset by the decrease in its purchasing power.

A SECOND CHARACTERISTIC. THEN, OF CAPITALIST PROSPER-ITY IS ITS ILLUSORY NATURE SO AS THE WAGE WORKERS' SHARE IN IT IS CONCERNED. WHAT THE CAPITALIST GIVES HIM WITH ONE HAND IS STOLEN FROM HIM WITH THE OTHER.

Let us consider the matter from one from the Illinois Central it appears that the number of ions carried was almost doubled. Here is the milk in the equoanut! The increase in tonnage is out of all proportion to the increase in the number employed. So it amounts to this, that each employe handled 76.37 more tons in 1900 than in 1896. As a result the labor cost of handling the traffic, in spite of the increased wages, decreased about 2% cents per ton. The labor was so intensified that each em ploye did extra work worth $74.84 and was paid for it only $59.17. This represented a saving to the road of $15.67 on each man employed, or a total of $442,-504 clear gain in the Item of surplus unpaid labor

Special attention has been give to the Illinois Central because of the seemingly large increase of wages on that road. Our analysis shows that instead of an increase there was an actual loss, if the efficiency of the labor is taken into ac-

On the Northwestern the number of tons carried per man employed increased 272, while the annual incre in the average wage was only $15.21. In other words this road has increased the exploitation of its employes at the rate of over eight million dollars per innum as compared with 1896.

THIRD CHARACTERISTIC. THEREFORE, OF CAPITALIST PROSPERITY, IS A GREATLY IN-CREASED RATE OF EXPLOITA-TION THROUGH THE INTENSIFI-CATION OF LABOR.

To sum it all up, capitalist prosperity is based on the most thorough exploita-tion of the working class. It is prosenough, for it is at such times that the robbery goes most merrily on. But from our standpoint as wage workers it is an unmitigated fraud. The vaunted dinner pail is a leaky affair at the best. Now, fellow workers, what are you gong to do about it? The Republican party promises no change. It boasts that it has given you the best that you can expect. You need not go outside of Chicago to learn how little that is. The Democratic party promises you cure the products; the wage workers face to face with enforced idleness and starvation when by the intensity of starvation when by the intensity of the control of the cont

All comrades and others who intend to vote the Social Democratic ticket, De Harriman for presidential candidates, are particularly requested to observe that the above ticket occupies the FIFTH column on the ballot in the state of Illinois.

A LAST REMINDER.

The campaign is now almost at its close and there is only time to speak . few words to those laborers who next press their opinion as to the way they wish this country to be run for another four years. Now is not the time to attempt to explain to you the whole philosophy of socialism. But if you can stop to reason far enough to understand that it would be better for you to own in common with all those who are producing wealth, the things by which they do that producing, then you know enough to vote the Socialist ticket. ballot to express that desire, and that is above the name of the Social Democratic party.

The incidents which mark the strugwhich he does not deny. The idea that gle of the rival capitalist factions for the Democratic capitalist would scruple who is intelligent enough to see that in if "business interests" demanded it, is good old Democratic times of '93 to '97, class are totally unaffected, their innot quite so foolish as they would have terests lying completely outside the sphere, of capitalist politics, but in the the nature of the capitalist system with the past fifty years. Those histories its conflicting class interests stands out so distinctly that it might be thought brought by the Democratic press of this city against the Republican employers for alleged "coercion" of their employes point. Although the Democratic press has attempted to make as much political capital as possible out of this event. they are careful not to pass the danger point by discussing at length the reasor why one class of men possess sufficient power over another class to make this possible. The Republican journals conowing to the fact that all the material nial of the Democratic charges, but are for this week's issue was already innot possessed of sufficient effrontery to disclaim the power which their rivals impute to them, and so the conflict bea mere clashing of empty words and phrases, just acrimonious enough to keep the duped followers of each faction in line, and allay as far as possible any suspicion that might take form in ther minds as to the manner in which their masters use them. So the Democratic journals rave about the "damnable insult" to the workers, and the "anarchistic," "un-American," etc., conduct of these who attempt to force their employes to appear as supporters of a political party to which they are opposed, and then proceed to tell their readers that such men "should" be in fail, that there is a law upon the statute books against this sort of thing, which "should" be enforced, etc., etc., and strange to say, this very cheap rot is sufficient to constitute its authors as "champions" of the working class. The Republican press to neutralize this charge, plays out its frump card, the "respectability" and "keen sense of honor" which the successful labor skinner is invariably credited, with possessing, and which would forbid his tampering with the political convictions of his employes. They are careful to pass over the notorious fact that the merest hint from the employer or even the knowledge of his political faith is in Heelf in most cases a sufficient cue to the employes as to what course will

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

History repeats itself, but the recurring form often varies. In the old Roan triumphs the returning conquerors loaded with spoll and accompanied by ong processions of captives wended their way through the imperial city amidst the plaudits of the delighted populace. And our Republican conquerors, on last Saturday, celebrated their victory by a triumphal procession in many respects similar to those of ancient times. Long lines of eaptives, chained to their industral charlet wheels, multitudes of exploited and plundered wage slaves assisted in the ploye quite so ignorant as not to triumphal march of capitalism. Wilting and ignorant dupes, unwilling and equally ignorant dupes contributed their once in thousands, but unlike the Roman emptives of old, were ignorant either of the shame or cause of their

And the spoils. They were also in evilence in the persons of the plunderers and parasites, in the advertising wagons of successful "business" firms, where the products created by the labor of the marching wage slaves were proclaimed the private property of the conquerors; in the derisive promises of the political tools of the master class, regarding the "prosperity" whose overflow was to materialize to the extent of filling a tin dinnerbucket; in the uniforms with which the captives in most cases covered the ragged garcised in this manner, it is not at all ments when otherwise might have east some doubt upon the reality of the "prosperity" they were celebrating.

But there were other elements in that and spoils. Here'and there in the ranks might have been found men who understood to the full the shame and mockery of this triumph of capitalism; men who understood the source of the power by which their mesters were enabled to publicly exhibit the fools who creared wealth and presented it to them men who comprehended that the prition alone made this cynical glorifica the capitalist class recognize this and tion of slavery possible; men who will-on the sixth of November next, register accordingly deny instead of justify, their protest against it by voting for the principles of socialism, whose representatives are Eugene V. Debs and est importance to the community, the Job Harriman. These men were few in business" man might justly claim that number, but they were there.

And in the evening the other capitalist faction took possession of the streets they were uncapable of understanding to tell the workers of the joy in store it as such. Of the "right" to do this it for them, if the tribe of small labor is useless to speak. The "power" to do skinners were increased. And the chief performer, Adlai Stevenson, Cleveland's vice-president, and running mate with it remains with the capitalist, a fact the Democratic capitalist would acruple a man whose very presence on the to use this power in the same manner ticket bears promise of a return to the one which may be passed over with went into the highways and byways to tell the slaves that their weal or contempt. The first of April ests are threatened are well known to has no menopoly of the name all students of economic history within Foots' Day."

Did it ever occur to any Bryan worshiper that the "coercion" complained power implied in the private ownership aspect, turn it which way you will, the real protest against it can only be expressed in a vote for socialism through The means but one thing to the workers-Job Harriman.

We regret it is only possible to give a short notice of the great meeting held at Central Music Hall on the 1st uit. ferred to the "doubtful" one if no "coercion" were practiced? Can he grasp fectly satisfied with that sort of game and the equally stupid workmen of the South are treated exactly allke by the Republican and Democratic capitalists respectively, as regards "coercion" That both northern and southern workmen have a common interest in abolishing the system of private ownership from which both Republican and Demseratic capitalists obtain this power! Pinally, that this common interest car only be evidenced in a Socialist ballot? If he win not think of these thingshe will be "coerced" until he does.

The Duke of Marlberough, husband of Consuelo Vanderbilt, is to be ap-pointed Viceroy of Ireland. The salary attached to the office is $100,000 per ear, the annual expenses $500,000. Our trish-American workmen who may be mployed on the Vanderbilt system of wilroads will doubtless be much gratiled and pleased to learn that the pro duct of their labor, finds "useful employment" in helping defray the exsenses of the flunkeys and parasites whose distinguished presence is neces sary to the splendor of the Vice Regar Court of Dublin Castle.

leclaration of the capitalist press, that paras the great labor dispute still pending will be settled JUST AS SOON AS THE ELECTIONS ARE OVER. They migh erhaps discover that this implies that their organizations have been used by political charlatans without their con ent. Of course we-recognize that the great mass of union men "want no dities in the union," but they would do well to prevent the unions from be-

Recollections of Debs' past experience called for the particular vehement applianse for one of his examples of the uselessness of the capitalist class. Said he: "If it were possible to remove from the earth all the presidents and boards of directors of all the railroads in this country no one would know it unless forsooth they read it in the esteemed capitalist press, for the railroads would be operated just the same; but take the thousands of trainment operators, clerks, and all the other workers, and let them suspend for just five minutes, and the whole country would be paralyzed." This of all had been supplied we could rest being a presidential election, the great mass of the people will decide by their ballots how all of us shall live for the next four years.

Now let us examine what there is in it for us, the working class, if we decide to return either the Republican or Democratic William into power.

You, my working class friend, are a nothing to lose at present but much to terests. gain. Between yourself and starvation you have nothing but your labor power of muscle and brain. This labor power you must take into the market and sell to some employer if you wish to live. Now why are you compelled to thus sell your labor power, and by so doing virtually sell yourself? Why, simply because you are not the owner of the tools which you must use. Again, the only time when you will be permitted to use these tools is when your employer, the owner of these things, can see a profit in your production. When you apply for a position in which to work, if profits are in sight, you will be employed, and then comes a struggle between yourself and your employer in order to see who can get the most of your product. He takes advantage of your condition, and you both know that the competition between yourself and your fellows is strong, and so he is able to pay you in wages, (i. e., a part of your product), just what the hungriest stomach in the competing crowd would accept. This, your wages, is jus so much of your own product as will keep you alive and allow you to produce new labor power in two ways. First, in yourself, until you have reached old age, you are then thrown on the scrap pile as useless; and sec ond, in propagating your race, bringing forth a new and unlimited power for your employer and master, the owner of your means of life, to exploit. This part of your product is on the average about 17 per cent. The balance of it goes to the employing class, who, through the OWNERSHIP, not the USE of the means of life, appropriate to themselves the surplus value of your product over and above the wage paid you. Now it is straply an impossibility to make a part of anything equal the whole of that thing, and consquently when the great working class, practically now 83 per cent of the population, go into the markets to buy back with their 17 per cent all of their products, they find it absolutely impossible to do so, and so the goods commence to pile up on the shelves, and in the store-rooms of the factories and stores, the stocks of coal and iron at the mines begin to plle up, the granaries are filled with grain, and finally they are full to the bursting point, and then all industry lies idle and stagnant and the great working class are then punished for having produced too much of the good things of life. These neressities of life, although produced by the very class that is now suffering from the lack of them, will be held by the individuals, in whose posse they are, until a profit can be realized out of their sale. They may rot and go to waste, but as they were produced to make a profit and not for use, they will be held for profit, no matter what the condition of the actual producers may

if you should apply for a job you would be told, "Sorry, but we have no chance of employing you," and it would make little difference if you and your family were starving, no matter how willing you were to work to produce for your own and your families' needs, IF PRO-FITS were not in sight, you will not be allowed to work.

I would now make the following proposition to you: You belong to the class that is the only essential class in society, namely, the producing, working Your class ' produced all the things which we eat and drink and wear, including the luxuries and the various kind of shelter,-and has also produced the very means with which it produced these things. I refer to the thing called capital-the factories, workshops, mines, railroads, steam boats, telephone and telegraph linesin short, all the modern means of production, distribution and communica These things your class created are now the very means used to exploit them. Very foolishly after creating wonderful means of production they allowed themselves to-be divorced from them. It is the private ownership of our means of life, production being carried on for profit instead of for use. which causes all the misery and degra-dation of your class; which denies you lows other individuals, (all non-producers), to appropriate your product after you have produced it.

As this private ownership is the caus of it, I say, that you and your class must change this ownership. If you want the right to work and the ful right to dispose of your own product, the means of production, instead of being a slave to the same. This you can the "Golden Rule" politics and non-sally get by foling with your class in partizanism of Mayor Jones?

You must elect men of your r Those Who Will Plunder Them class, conscious as to the interests of that class, into power, and they must that class, into power, and they must ERN MEANS OF PRODUCTION AND Well, my working class friend, DISTRIBUTION. This will make you it you should at once begin to realize owner, of your own product and do away with overproduction, as all production would then be carried on for shall live for the period covered by the use and not profits, and when the wants and would not have to starve eithe

Now, I think, I have clearly stated our interests above, and ask you Would you get this way out of your present troubles by voting the Demoeratio er Republican tickets? I say you cannot, for both stand for the interests that are satisfied with the present system and its conditions, and the laborer pure and simple. You have two candidates are pledged to those in-

> Both the Democrats and Republicans are but aubdivisions of the capitalist party, the party that stands for the private ownership of the means of life, and thereby the right to exploit labor They may bring things that they call 'paramount Issues" to the front at election time, but their fight is a sham one. They are simply Siamese twins, and the only question between them is whether labbr shall be exploited and robbed by the large or small robber.

The platform of both parties are alike and both find their roots in the same soll-our present economic systemwhich is the private ownership of the means of life and by it the right to exploit labor. Republicanism stands for the trusts and the larger capitalist interests and the scientific exploitation of labor through concentration of capitaland economical administration. De mocracy stands for the small capitalist interests; the scattering of industry; anarchy in production, and the right of wagon to exploit labor.

Both parties are pledged to the continuation of our present system and the interests that are rooted in that system, and so your vote for either one my good working class friend, would simply be thrown away, as by doing so you simply rivet your chains more firmly. You would get nothing out of it, your present conditions would grow rse and worse as capitalism developed, and whether Bryan or McKinley is elected your chance for employment will simply depend upon the ability o your employer to make profits out of your production, and neither McKinley would have been elected only to protect those interests which they repre eent. You would therefore get overproduction, your right to work resting on the chance of profits, some other non-producer owning your production, and on account of it, strikes, lockouts boycotts. The swelling of the ranks of the tramps, criminals and prostitutes, for these get in their accessions in the main from your class, and simply turn that way because they have been denied the right to work on account of the private ownership of the means of pro duction and distribution, and you, by your vote, have endorsed it and you must not kick after election if things do not come your way, for you will get it just exactly as you voted for it.

If, however, you want the right to work and the disposition of your product and do not want to throw your vote away, then you can rally around the ballot box with the rapidly growing class-conscious army of your class, and vote the Social Democratic party ticket. This party is formed by men of your class who are conscious on to the interests of that class, and on those interests it is formed. It stands for the collective ownership of the means of During this time, my working friend, production and distribution, the right the subject of "trusts" and agreeing to of everyone to work who wishes to, and hire the ball, furnish the audience and Strike Won--Conditions Un- words, pare also guarantees to those who work the full social value of their product. Are You Ready?

No one pretends to argue about the facts or philosophy of socialism. Every ne seems to admit it is a good thing, but they make a host of excuses to explain why we are not "ready for n." The only question for each voter to ask himself is, if he is ready to be a free man, and if he is, then he is ready for ocialism. If you are not man enough for that then keep the collar on your eck a few years longer by voting for Bryan or McKinley.

AN UNEQUAL DUEL.

Sense, Reply With Volleys of Stale Vegetables.

A good example of Democratic arguments(?) was furnished at the corner of W. Twelfth street and Union avenue last Friday night. Comrades Simons and Knox were speaking there when a mob of Democratic laborers, who did not believe they knew enough to take off their collars (and who can deny their ability to judge), appeared on the scene. For a while they tried to how! Bryan, but the crowd responded with such rousing cheers for Debs and Harriman as to render the weakness their cause apparent to everyone. In-deed at one time when they endeavored to have a concerted yell with a leader, less than twenty men out of an au-dience of nearly a thousand responded, which must have been a revelation to rally a half a block away, at which the candidate for governor was speaking. So when they found that yelling and abuse had no effect they resorted to mittee for the week ending October 17. Bryan on election day?

SOCIAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY. Platform of the Social Democratic Party

The Social Democratic party of the United States, in Convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the revolutionary principles of international socialism and declares the supreme political issue in America today to be the contest between the working class and the capitalist class for the possession of the power of government. We affirm our steadfast purpose to use those powers once achieved, to destroy wage glavery, abolish the institution of private property in the means of production and distribution, and to establish the Co-operative Commonwealth.

In the United States, as in all other civilized countries, the natural order of economic development has separated society into two antagonistic classes—the capitalists, a comparatively small class, the possessors of all the modern means of production and distribution, (and, mines, machinery and means of transportation) and the large and everincreasing class of wage earners, possessing no means of production.

This economic supremacy has secured to the dominant class the full control of the government, the pulpit, the schools, and the public press, thereby making them the arbiters of the fate of the working class, while it is reducing it to a condition of dependence, economically exploited and oppressed, intellectually and physically crippled and degraded, and its political equality rendered a bitter mockery; and the nontest between these two classes grows ever sharper. Hand in hand with the growth of monopolies, goes the annihilation of small industries and the modern wage workers and of the supremental provided and degraded, and its political equality rendered a bitter mockery; and the nontest between these two classes from ever intensified by the recurring industrial crises, continually rendering the existence of the greater part of the population more precarious and uncertain, which samply proves that the modern means of production have out. grown the existing sectal order based on production for profit.

Human energy and natural resources are wated for i profit.

Wars are fomented between nations: indiscriminate sinughter is encouraged; the destruction of whole races is earctioned, in order that the capitalist class may extend its commercial dominion abroad and enhance its supremacy at home.

home.

The introduction of a new and higher order of society is the historic mission of the working class. All other classes despite their apparent or actual conflicts are interested in the uphoiding of the system of private ownership of the means of production. We therefore charge that in this country the Democratic, Republican and all other parties which do not stand for the complete overthrow of the capitalist system of production are alke the tools of the capitalist class.

The working class can not however, act as a class in its struggle against the collective power of the capitalist class except by constituting lites! into a political party, distinct and opposed to all parties formed by the propertied classes.

We, therefore, call upon the wage workers of the United States, without distinction of colour race or sex and upon all clitzens in sympathy with the histocic mision of the working class to organize under the banner of the Social Democratic party, as a party truly representing the interests of the tolling masses and uncompromisingly waging war upon the exploiting class, until the Eystem of wage slavery shall be abolished and the Co-operative Commonwealth shal be established.

Pending the accomplishment of this our ullimate purpose, we pledge every effort of the Social Democratic party for the immediate improvement of the condition of labor, and also for the securing of its progressive demands.

As steps in that direction we make the following demands:

First-Revision of our federal constitution, in order to remove the obstacles to complete control of government by the people, irrespective of sex.

Second-The public ownership of all industries controlled by monopolies, trusts, and combines.

Third-The public ownership of all railroads, telegraphs, and telephones; all means of transportation, and communication; all waterworks, gas and electric plants, and other public utilities.

Fourth-The public ownership of all

FOUR YEARS' PROGRESS

Now that the fight has been fought and the working class have again voted themselves into four more years of wage slavery, disguised under the in order to giance over the progress towards economic freedom that has been made in this city since 1896, for although to the superficial observer the fabric of capitalism still stands to all appearances intact, the forces which have been steadily undermining it have increased enormously in strength and pare the Socialist vote of 1896 for president, with that of 1990 to gain some perception of the enormous strides which have been made in the last four years. The records of the former year show that the total presidential vote of this city cast for the Socialist can didates. Matchett and McGuire. amounted to 727. The immediate returns for 1900 already soncede over 5.000 votes cast for Debs and Marriman, and these returns are admitted to be notoriously defective. At a conservative estimate the vote polled for socialism in this city will total between seven and eight thousand when the official returns are made public, but even assuming that the first published represidential vote has increased seven fold. While the result may not altogether satisfy some of our more enthusiastic comrades, nevertheless it may be justly regarded as, a solid and carry on with renewed energy the fight ngainst enviralism. Now that the victory of McKinley has had the effect of sweeping into oblivion the misleading rubbish with which "Bryanism" so long detuded a large number of the working class, the field is left clearer than ever before for straight Socialist propaganda, and the next four years must be decated to a campaign of inin 1904 with tenfold the voting strength now possessed by the party. On looking back over the work performed in the last four years there is on the whole every reason for satisfaction. Notwithstanding some regrettable dissensions in the party, which possibly impaired our success to some extent, we emerge from the electoral contest much etronger, cleaver and more determined than ever. . We have now a rapidly ing organization, a widely circulated party press firmly established. and the knowledge of the fact that socialism is in the field, has been brought to the notice of sinfost every inhabitant of average intelligence in the country. The present situation is distinctly favorable, and the efforts of ganda will be required for the next four years. The capitalism for which a mafority of the foolish workers have just voted may be depended on to do the most.

REAL DANGERS OF "BRYANISM."

Whatever may be the merits or demerits of Mr. Bryan, there is one thing certain, that his campaign has aght no little haven with the blind faith which the working classes have heretofore repused in the capitalist system; not that this action was deliberately planned by the Nebraska statesman, but that the possibility of conducting a campaign at all rendered asked for. an indirect attack upon expitation nocessary. How keenly alive his post ical opponents have been to this danger is epparent in the frantic deminetations with which he has been born-cover the modus operandi within, and the howl of enger with which every such effort was greeted bore ample testimony to the solicitude of the ex ploiters in concealing their methods of exploitation. They didn't want the masses to see "how the old thing worked," and Mr. Bryan's strenuous endeavors to reach the presidentia chair, may perhaps render Republicar victory more costly than defeat would have been. The things which it was impossible to conceal, such as the crushing out of the small capitalists by the trusts, the "coercion" alleged to garding parades, elo,, and the power implied in so doing, the woes of the Filipinos to counteract which the Republicans were forced to exhibit the disfranchisement of the colored workmen in the South, constitute in reality the real dangers of "Bryanism" from the standpoint of the great capitalists. They know well that even if elected he was powerless to effect the allehtest change; they knew that in reality he had no tidea of altering the relations between labor and capital in the smallest degree, but they knew also that he could only hope to succeed by making some sort of attack upon the conditions under which they exploited the laborers, and that the same necessiry existed for enlisting the aid of those laborers by confusing their interests with those of the small exploiters, of whose cause he was the champion. In short Mr. Revan's campaign has had the effect of uncovering the class struggle in spots, and in spite of all, a glimpse of it has been generally perceived by those from whom capitalism would fain conceal it. It is for this reason that he has been accused of setting class against class," and so liberally bespattered with such epithets as "Socialist," "demagogue," "Popu-Het," etc., etc., combinations of names which serve the double purpose of venting the ire of the successful labor skinners and at the same time designedly creating confusion in the minds of the masses as to the meaning of these terms. On the other hand, in difficult, to compel them to erect a spite of repeated denials from Bryan fumself, the masses in some instinctive though confusing manner couple his candidacy with socialism, which even now they vaguely recognize as destined enment of those it has so long deceived. to shape the society of the future. For this reason , vast numbers regarded Hrvan as a sort of forlorn hope, which in case of failure left no alternative but socialism. Capitalism has already scenfed this danger, and the course of to checking, as far as possible, th spread of this idea. How far they will succeed will depend upon circumstan there is no doubt that this campaig has brought the fact to light that w are now entering the last stages of capitalist production, where the small est attempt at change threatens the existence of the entire system, and that social evolution can even use the dema gegue and economic ignoramus to bring by his actions this truth into public view.

Desperate Democrats Seek the Aid of Toughs and Hoodiums to Break Up Socialist Meetings.

The last act of the tremendous cam-paign that the Socialists of Chicago have carried on during the past few months was the great gathering on State street on Friday evening. On the preceding Saturday the same street had been occupied By the Democrats, and when a Socialist endeavored to speak a block from where the nearest Democrat' stand was located, he was promptly arrested, and all those who him were brutally chibbed by the nolice. No better proof of the virility and growth of socialism in Chicago could be given than that afforded by the meeting held in Central Music Hall on Oc tober 31st. A Socialist Candidate.

Dear Comrade:—As you may knew, Comrade J. Mahion Barnes, of Philadelphia, has been nominated for the president of the Cigarmakers International Enion; the election takes place about the first of the year. I think.

Barnes will be invaluable to the movement in that position, and the pure and simplers will make a ferce fight against him. For this reason it behooves us to use every pleans in our power to assist him, and to this end it is requested that Socialist editors make a note of the matter and take every opportunity to give publicity to the candidacy of Comrade Barnes: In this way comrades of the cigarmakers' trade will be advised, and comrades will be working with their cigarmaker friends and acquaintances in his interest. As such officer he will have control of their Journal, now a morthly, but then to be a bi-monthly, which reaches many thousand of the craftsmen, and will be able to spread the Light as all the rest of us are yet unable to do.

On tast Sunday Comrade T. J. Morgan addressed a large audience in Anderson's Hall, 54th and Wentworth avenue-and was listened to with much interest. His skeich of the status of the working class in different historical epochs down to the present day was keenly appreciated by the audience, in many of whom this treatment of the subject was altogother new. The gradual achievement of religious and political freedom by the workers was discussed at length and led up to its necessary completion, by the achievement of industrial freedom, without which the other rights were neutralized. A brief glange at the Republican and Democratic platforms and their utter ignoring of anything that would better the conditions of the workers, together with an expésition of the Socialist principles and platform, brought the address to a close.

There are 59 Socialists standing as andidates in the forthcoming General Election. Every effort is being made for their candidatures, but the difficulties are very great. Dr. Newell Dwight Hills preached a sermon on Sunday evening, October 21 in Plymouth church, Brooklyn. The one while rending what he said, smells f rotion capitalism. He has the peculiar ability of putting scriptural teach ings in a light which will ease the consciences of those who believe in them and of making belief in them a matte of small importance to those who are in reality faithless, but who still, for respectability's sake, wish to occupy a pew in Plymouth church, and who have the "stuff" to help pay the ministers hire for tickling their ears. The Tri-

He showed that ability has been the cause of nearly every large fortune in America and that the laboringman has profited more than any one clee from the superior ability of inventors and leaders of industry.

"Anarchy and socialism propose to run a mowing machine over the top of society and cut off the tail men's heads, until we are all equal."

Dr. Hillis stated a fundamental truth when he said that the great need of our day is not land nor capital, but ability. The greatest difficulty encountered by all organizers of industrial enterprises today is that of finding menwith the brains and judgment to fill the places of greatest responsibility. Ability was never at so high a premium and never earned such large rewards as now. There is no place so high that the humblest boy from the forge, the factory or the farm may not aspire to it and win it if he has the mental of physical powers to fill it better than any one cise. Ability is what builds factories and makes profitable employment for everybody.

For instance, "ability" caused the

For instance, "ability" caused the large fortunes of the coal barons, and of course we see the laboring man of the coal regions getting his "profiting" hunger, nakedness and starvation. And he is getting more of this than anyone elee in the transaction. Then "ability" caused the large fortunes of the Chi cago packers and the workingmen arcago packers and the workingmen are getting in full measure all of the want and misery entailed in the process of the "beef barons" successes. They succeed by taking almost the entire product, leaving the rest to the labor ingman-brutalizing labor, uncertain aployment, (meaning uncertain "eating"), and the spectacle of starving omen and children. Socialism, which will do away with the evils which beset society, the Doctor confuses with an archy, showing him to be a hypocrite for he must know that the present state of affairs is anarchy, for which socialism is the remedy. The Tribune thinks that he has stated a truth wher he said our need is ability. Indeed, it is certain that he has the ability for his position and nothing further is needed to show it than this sermon of his. He is paid $10,000 or $15,000 yearly to cater to the swipe before whom the pearls sweated from the brow of labor are cast. The "ability" needed is that which shall awaken workers to think so as to cut short the reign of these nauseating parasites, by taking the full value of their product, instead of tollows: voting it away to these "tall men" who hold their noses out of range of the at-mosphere of labor. The greatest difficulty does not seem to be to get mer of his callber nor of the callber of his Tribune prototype in capitalism, and may safely take their word for it that the reward is large. And what makes it so? The employers of these men reward them richly because they are betraying all the instincts of humanity in order to keep up the syster which puts the wealth in the hands of said employers, out of which they can easily spare the "thirty pieces of silver," for it has purchased the blood of sands of their fellowmen. readily seen by any intelligent observed that the ability which "was never at so high a premium" is the ability required by the capitalist class to stem if possible, the rising tide of socialism. would require a great deal more ability than the betrayers of the people are possessed of, and the fact that conditions have got to the point where these "tall men" are forced to try to disprove that there are classes in this country grade. The cry is rising, "ability, abil but there is no ability. The workpower, and the man does not exist Mr. Bryan may have the ability to se class hatred by eloquent appeals to the ignerant, but the intelligent workingman wants more than eloce-he wants proof that this or that system is going to be of benefit to and experience has taught him that the capitalist parties' systems are alike against him and he is voting with a class intelligence—not class hatred-

A glance over the contents of the following clipping from an English newspaper, may perhaps serve to illustrate the nice discrimination observed the "philanthropists" of the "right little island" in the distribution of their ounty, and it might also throw som light upon the manner in which the sald "philanthropists" regard those whose labor product has enabled them to pose as benefactors of the human race. Here it is anyhow-and the Britsh workman who has already cast his "bloomin' vote" for the continuation of more than probable that the eagerness atil which the capitalist press seized upon this lecident to declare socialism is dead, was rather a prelude to news of increased Socialist activity in Helland, which we said at the time would shortly appear. We do not wish to lay claim to any prophetic powers whatever, basing our conclusions wheily upon deductions drawn from actual observation of capitalist tactics. And new comes the verification of our forecast. A few days ago we received a communication from Comrade Troelstra himself, which will emable our readers to judge what wend that socialism is doing in Holland. It runs as follows.

It is not likely that the complete account of the vote in Chicago can be made public in much less than two weeks. At the date of this writing the official returns of eleven wards only are available, but they serve to show as was previously asserted in these columns, that the press accounts first published were notoriously below the actual vote cast, and that the official ount would add considerably to the figures given as representing the Sovote in the city. The returns from these eleven wards, (which are mostly non-Socialist), as reported by the capitalist press, showed a total of 1,114 votes cast for the Social Democratic ticket. The recount adds to this $10, making a total of 1,624. It is most probable that this ratio of increase will hold good all through the count, which would show that the Socialist vote cast in Chicago will range between seven and eight thousand.

When it is remembered that the vote registered four years ago for the cialist presidential candidates, Matchett and Maguire, only amounted to 727 within the limits of Cook county the comrades have every reason for satisfaction with the progress made. It means in plain language that there are in 1900, ten Socialists where there was one in 1896. We may add that the returns from the state also bear promise of equal progress, and the 429 votes cast through the state outside Cook county in 1896 will almost certainly swell to more than ten times that num-

The returns from other states and olties are yet so incomplete and frag-mentary that it is very difficult to estimate with any degree of accuracy the total vote throughout the country. Suffice it to say that what is already known shows that the increase in Illinois is passibled almost everywhere eise, and that the four years since '9 will mark a period of Socialist activity utterly unprecedented in the history of the country. We can await with confidence the final report, and are thoroughly satisfied that it will fully bear out the expectations of the most san-

How Capitalism Redeems Its Preelection Promises.

OHIO BRAND OF "PROSPERITY."

National Steel Co. "Re-adjusts" Wages Leogthens Hours of Labor and Prepares for the Fray.

Hardly had the shouts of triumph ver Republican victory died away, and ong before the ballots registering th adorsement of the "full dinnerpad" policy had been counted, than McKiney's native state contributed the following significant comment upon the folly of the dupes of capitalism:

Steubenville, O., Nov. 8.—The management of the National Steel company's Mingo Junction plant today offered the men a new socie of wages that MAKES REDUCTIONS IN THE EXISTING RATES OF FROM 28 TO 6 PER CENT. THE NEW SCALE IS BASED UPON NEW METHODS OF WORKING, WHICH MAKE TWELVE HOURS A DAY'S WORK AND RENTED FOR THE TASKS SO HARD THAT NONE BUT THE BIGGEST MENCAN STAND THE TWELVE HOURS STRAIN.

STRAIN.

The offer of the new scale comes with the determination of the company to resume operations after being closed six months. THE MILLS HAVE BEEN SURROUNDED BY A HIGH BOARD PENCE SURMOUNTED BY ELECTRIC. WIRES AND SPIKES. Everything is ready for a fight, as it is expected the men will resist the reduction.—Chicago Record.

Let us see. What balt was it that the Republican politicians held out to the vorkingmen before election? What was the printed legend with which thousands of billboards and fences decorated in the interests of McKinley and Roosevelt? What motto did the "workingmens' Republican clubs" plaster upon the windows of their club rooms, hang across the streets of our great cities? Was it not "Prosperity, Plenty of Work and HIGH

And now the National Steel company starts in to redeem the promise in true capitalistic fashion. As was foretoid in our columns weeks prior to the election, the necessity for "re-adjustment". of wages would dawn upon the capttailst class immediately after Novem ber 6. And here it comes. Twenty to 60 per cent reduction, on the existing rates and a 'new method of working. Thus do the crafty owners of the means of production make good the first article in their promise. The new grangement undoubtedly means proserity for them.

Regarding the second clause in the re-election promise, dealing plenty of work," no one can justly acse the owners of the means of production of neglecting the fulfilment of this invaluable privilege. If the "new methods" involving "twelve hours" and a task so hard that "none but the strongest men can stand the strain," doesn't fill the bill in every respect, the orkingmen who voted for it are certainly hard to please. It cannot be denied that the measure of "plenty work" is to be kept "heaped full and running over."

Over and over again we told those foolish individuals who thought that they could "convert the Democratic party to socialism' they were being made tools and fools of by those who hated them with a savage ferocity. The Wednesday morning after election, the Chicago Chronicle paid its respects to those who were trying to "save the Democratic party" and the country at the same time in a iouble-leaded editorial, in the following

The present is a time for "re-organization" all along the line, and the Socialists should not neglect the lesson. They, too, should perfect their organizations, wipe out all childish lines of divisions and warring central bodies, put aside personal personal ambitions and pride of institutions, and join in one common effort to build up a mighty collical party that shall be ready and able to guide the proletariat of America they will do this. FIRST LESSON OF THE ELECTION. So far as the returns from the elec-

The two facts from: which this deduction proceeds show clearly upon the one hand that the class divisions in society are becoming more distinctly marked; on the other, that the permanent occu pation of any intermediate position be tween both is utterly impossible. Th defeated capitalist faction and their suggestions for "reconstruction" furhish proof positive of the truth of this of the Democratic party with one voice repudiate "the "political heresies" of Bryan, which they charge as being responsible for their defeat. been recorded at the ballot box, and and the presence of Socialist watchers will shortly appear in the official returns, it becomes necessary to transfe if possible, the entire energy devoted particularly to the November campaign into somewhat different, channels of isefulness, and in this respect we would call the attention of military omrades to the present condition of the party press. We might venture to say without seeming boastful, that for the last few months this paper has played no small part in helping swell the number of ballots cast for social ism in this city on the sixth of Novem ber. The efforts of comrades to in tion have been made public they uncrease its circulation, the time, energy pleted, an enormous increase in the So. and money devoted by them to that cialist vote throughout the United purpose are cheerfully and gratefully States must be registered. For some weeks previous very large number of copies of this paper have been printed, and either sold at bundle rates or distributed gratis by zealous comrades. In the first place the expense was considerably greater than the returns, and in the latter, from a purely financial point of view, there was no return whatever. The excitement of the election week naturally enough distracted the attention of our nest earnest workers to some extent from the affairs of the paner and the the receipts and a consequent impairment in the ability to produce such large issues as heretofore. We there fore earnestly urge upon the comrade to at once see to it that the party organ is not suffered to lapse into difthese features were in themselves dan- ficulties which must inevitably decrease its ability for propaganda by restricting the number issued. The best work in this respect can be accom plished by the branches taking hold again and working for the circulation of the paper with unabated vigor. The necessity of possessing in the near future a daily paper in this city devoted to the Socialist movement, becomes more apparent every day, and as a step owards the realization of this much to be desired object, it is imperative that the weekly organ of the party be first placed upon a solid financial basis. By concerted and systematic action on the part of the branches and the efforts of individual comrades, this can be easily attained, and in our preparations for the future no better work can be done their final stand. COMPENSATION FOR DELAY

To many comrades no doubt the delay in recording and reporting the Socialist vote is exceedingly irritating. but in the natural order of "things as they are," these figures must first pass ent, worked in temporary harmony, through the hands of those who control the press and telegraphs and other poffunity to curtail or otherwise man ipulate the vote cast by the clair conscious workers throughout the land. It cialism is too insignificant to be taken gradually die out, to be replaced by practicable. The delay therefore in getting a complete account of the votis partially compensated by the know edge that the figures when published will more nearly represent the actual vote cast than heretofore. Hereafter, if possible, every precinct must be equipped with a Socialist watcher, task by no means difficult, considering the rapid growth of our organization, and judging from the results already disclosed in this election the attempt will well repay the labor it costs.

"LEADERS AND FOLLOWERS."

Danger of "One-man" Movements to the Socialist Cause-No Capitalist Imitations Wanted.

Every once and a while during the resent semi-confusion in the Socialist ranks there arises a cry that what is needed is "leaders" or "a great leader." Now the person who gives expression to any such idea at once and absolutely signifies his complete and overwhelming ignorance of socialism, Socialist philosophy and the history of Socialist development. Socialism needs strong men, educated men, fighting men, men of organizing, oratorical and literary ability, But what it DOES NOT need, has no use for, and has altogether too many at the present time, is leaders There is not a shadow of doubt but what if those who are so willing to plan campaigns of action for the great mass of socialists would instead of would allow that membership frequent and free expression of their ideas, we would not be in the present muddle A socialist Moses can lead his forces into the wilderness, but there is yet to be recorded an instance where he did not have to be conducted our into daylight by his "followers.

The greatest danger that confronts the socialist movement to-day is that some one with magnetic influence and power of organization will appear before the existing socialist forces, have had time to crystalize, and gather around him a great personal following apon which capitalist politicians could trade. And it would make no difference "honest" that leader might be, for men who are gathered together by personal leadership can be and will be sed for corrupt purposes whether their leader wishes or not.

The one thing we cannot afford to have just now is an organization that allows some one else-to do its thinking for it. May the fates preserve us from "leaders" should be the hope of every ocialist for the next few months.

To Non-members.

Several thousand persons in the city of Chicago read this paper each week who are not members of this organiza tion. If you who are reading this are that another day. Sit down this minute and write a card to the office of this paper stating your desire to meet with those who are doing the real work for cialism and some one will see you or notify you where to go and how to proceed to make your work effective. The "unattached socialist" is an ano maly, and to a large degree a parasite He is just a little (do not get mad) like the scab in the reaping the benefit of the fight that others are waging. The responsibility of the Republican party for the vilianies practised by southern Democrats, which have often een alluded to in these columns, has ust received further verification. The cent election held in Kentucky under the Goebel law, which was so flagrantly fraudulent that denial was impossible, is to be condoned. The Republicans will not contest the election. As the Chicago Tribune well says, such a course would not be possible "without e-cening the Taylor-Goebel contro versy from the beginning."- Therefore he fraud is to'be allowed, lest by any chance damaging truths might appear which would work mischief, not so much to either political party, as to capitalism it self.

It seems that even if wages are not reduced, they will buy less just the same. Coal has advanced in price. Flour is beeming, having been raised nearly 50 cents per barrel during the sek; and the packers, or rather the ellows who own the packing houses at the stock yards, have sent the price of neat upwards, while here and there wages have been "re-adjusted." Public works have been stopped, and labor which was so coddled and pampered efore election, will now have to take care of itself, with all the elements necessary to do so in the hands of the other fellow, the fellow whose being. aim, end and existence is the accumulation of profit. And labor has given its consent that this should be so.

. . . . The prize puzzle which calls most oudly for the solution in "politics" is what are undying principles of the "Democratic party?" A perusal of the views of the different "statesmen." who are now giving suggestions for the "reorganization" of that wing of capitalism, leaves the reader wondering what that party really stood for, and what it ought to have stood for to attain the desired end.

And what was that desired end? The Islahman who arrived in this country during the heat of a political campaign. (according to the often repeated story), gave the correct answer. Having been taken by a relative to several meetings. of different political complexions, he was asked what he thought of the "principles" of the different parties. Sure its as plain as the nose on yer face " he replied, "the fellows, that's out want to get in, and the fellows that's in want to stay in. He was right. The difference between the two parties is the difference between the "ins" and the "outs," a mere struggle for offices.

The views of Democratic statesmen upon the nature of the bait to be used hereafter in the political fishpond, are, to say the least, interesting. The gen tleman from Mississippi, the "shotguh state," deprecates "all appeals to the passions." The senator from Alabama thinks that no "reconstruction" is needed. Others again favor the resurrection of the "fundamental issue of taxation." Reformers like Mike Mc-Donald, the notorious gambler, deplore the "conservative" policy of the party as the cause of defeat, and would probably advocate a more "liberal" one, that is, we suppose, if "liberal" could be construed to mean wide-open, and W. G. Whitney, the representative of the Standard Oil interests within the party, calls somewhat yaguely for the At any rate, out of this medley of advice, suggestions and empty phraseology there stands out at least one real purpose, viz.: to support the upon the robbery and slavery of the workers.

Let us get solthe government—and then use that idly together ourselves and this shall sovernment for the protection of the be obtained without deliberate and capitalist class, just as they have al. particular effort. ways done when in power.

That the victory of Mark Hanna, and the class he represents, will clear a way for the more active operation of expital may be seen in the reduction to use a more polite term, the "readjustment" of wages which is now ur der way. A dispatch from Steuben-ville, Ohio, states that the National Steel company has already started the employes of a reduction-we mean readjustment-of wages by from 20 to 60 per cent.

There will be more of this of co It is eminently just and proper from the capitalist standpoint, that the campaign expenses of McKinley's election ild be defrayed to some extent out of the wages of the "intelligent" lahorers whose votes secured victory for the "advance agent of prosp even if the "full dinnerpail" suffer a "re-adjustment" in its contents just so, and they will get exactly what they voted for, even if they did not comprehend just what it was. - But in the long run "experience teaches, etc."

The attack upon the Socialists on State street on the Friday preceding election gave the capitalist press an op portunity for falsification that the were not slow to take advantage of and in this respect the Chicago Record port which appeared in that scabby and snivelling sheet was a wilful and

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE, deliberate lie from beginning to end. which, perhaps, was offset by the publication of the text for Sunday school discussion, which appears regularly inthe Saturday issue of that paper.

. . . And now the preparations are being made for the Spring campaign. capitalist, parties, as usual, are getting ready their fake "issues" to divert the attention of the workers from the fact of their being plundered. Such questions as railroad franchises, municipal gas, the stealing of city water by stockyards magnates; etc., will be pushed to

But right now there occurs an "issue which touches the workers more nearly than any of the above. The laborers of Chicago may perhaps notice the efforts of the city administration to conomize on the public funds to make retrenchment for the amounts squandered for political purposes. Here is where the first attempt at "economy" comes in.

The Harrison city administration, as he public press informs us, has ordered the discharge of 367 laborers that is people who worked on public improvements, not holders of sinecures men' who, lured by the promises of Democratic politicians to vote Bryan, now find that they have been deceived, had in the face of the winter they are thown out in the cold. . . .

Will these laborers ever recognize the fact that Democrats and Republicans alike use them so long as they are of value to capitalist politicians, and alike reject them when they are not? Will they ever comprehend that until the working class as a class Note themselves into power, nothing substantial can be obtained? . Will they ever understand that capitalist issues are no concern of theirs, and that eapitalist promises are made only for the pur pose of deceiving them?

Now that the Republicans are triumphant we may expect to see wonder-ful "progress" made in the exploitation of labor and natural resources, and right here the duty of Socialists in educating the masses of their fellow-laborers to the significance of the impending crisis, becomes apparent, and this work can be best accomplished by all Socialists uniting on the lines of the all Socialists class struggle.

There is no good reason why a unity of all Socialist forces for the combat with capitalism should not take place. The "questions" which apparently divide us are largely personal, and therefore outside the domain of revolutionary socialism.

Some comrades may perhaps hold that the difficulties are too great to be overcome; that officialism in the different factions of the movement stands in the way. The official positions will be found to be largely personal, and the test will shortly be made. 'He who cannot separate his individual ego from the common weal of the propaganda may perhaps discover that his place is outside the movement. There is no room for "leaders" or "followers" in the sense that these words are used in capitalist politics, in an organization in which the members salute each other. as "comrades."

The "trades union question" will settle itself, provided we agree together "principles that represent the old De. on the necessity of political action for morracy," without defining what they the conquest of the public powers by the working class as the only means of emancipation. When, by united action, we attain one million votes the trades unions will naturally place themselves capitalist system of production, based in line without any particular effort on our part, for notwithstanding the mistakes and blunders of many Socialists. the majority of Socialist votes in the There need be no fear, however, that industrial centers are even now drawn premature attempt at capture by some

Where They Got It.

The virtuous indignation of many patriotic Democrats was aroused to the highest pitch by the oft-repeated charge that the Socialist campaign fund was augmented by Mark Hanna for the sole purpose of defeating the 'peoples' champion," W. J. Bryan. Now that the battle is over and explanations are in order from the vanquished to account for how it happened, the following discovery as reported in the Chicago Record, may perhaps throw some light upon the shady quarters from which the Democratic party drew the sinews of war:

Defeated candidates on the Démo-cratic ticket are charging that they failed of election because the Burke-Eldred machine did not spend what money it had collected for the cam-paign. They say that the following table about represents in round figures the money available for campaign pur-poses and the sources from which it was raised: poses and was raised:

ployes and police ... 15,000 evied on saloons

Total $200,000

While we recognize of course that the Chicago Record is by no means a trustworthy informant, we are quite safe in making the following assertion: That it would be infinitely easier to prove the truth of the above statement in every detail than-to produce one scrap of evidence tending to substantiate the alleged connection between Mark Hanna and the Socialist campaign fund.

As for the peasants, great was their fear of these gay and golden lords. I judge that they did not know the King, since it was little likely that any one of them had seen his face; and they knew of him but as the Great Father, the mighty warrior who kept the Turk from harrying their thorpe. Dr. Henry B. Fay Gives Reasons for Re signing from the Populist Party, in Favor of Socialism,

Hon. Juo. A. Parker, Louisville, Ky., Chairman Peoples' Party National Committee:

Only very gradually has the uselessness of such a fight been forced upon me. Not until the last of July, this year, in conversation with Father Haire, Aberdeen, S. Finally, let me urge you to remembe that (1. Kings 1.1), "when King David was old, they covered him with clothes, but he got no heat," so now, my dear Mr. Parker, I can see innumerable old clothes, patched reforms, young virgin political parties, being brought forward in useless expensive conventions from all parts of this Isrnel, these next four years, to vainly try to put life into the already dead competitive system,

The competitive system is rusty with rent, interest, profit. It is a self-destructive system, breeding an unnecessary class of 8 per cent that owns practically all the wealth, and leaves the valuable producing class of 60 per cen of our people mere wage slaves.

I have seen new light. There is no paramount issue but that of city and farm LABOR AGAINST CAPITAL. Henceforth I shall contribute, m

THE PRESENT OUTLOOK.

Disruption of Capitalist Political Partie Shows Necessity of Immediate Socialist Unity.

Never, perhaps in the history of the Socialist movement of the world were there greater opportunities offered for Great Socialist gains are reported in a movement less capable of meeting bem than are offered to the Socialist inovement of the United States at this present moment. With political parties changing, dissolving and combining political ties breaking on every hand. while all economic and social forces are converging men toward socialism, those who should be ready and able to or cy into one mighty revolt against capibecile contests between themselves over guestions of precedence, dignity of Never did so great a drama have so farcical a setting.

The letter from Mr., no. Comrade

Fay, printed in another column, is but an expression of the state of mind of hundreds of thousands of men who voted for Barker or Bryan. But the majority of these will not have the ourage or the heart to follow Comrade Fay into the midst of a divided camp. Whether we like to admit it or not, the fact is that our imbecile and criminal actions have within the last few months built up a large and constantly increasing body of Socialists QUTSIDE f the organization who are looking with mingled disgust, serrow and ridi-cule upon the antics of those who are supposed to constitute the organized forces of socialism. These outside So-cialists, so to speak, being really in rocess of formation, are by 'that very fact less clear on the average than those inside, although there are some brilliant exceptions. Their number is constantly increasing. Now that the Democratic party has served a writ of ejection upon all "socialistic" elements within its ranks this mass of independents will receive tremendous accessions And this very ejection from the Democratic party will in many instances be the final jar necessary to crystalize and arrange the ideas of many a man and transform him at once from a muddled Utopian into a class-con Socialist.

But the essence of the matter in its elation to Socialists lies in the fact that this whole condition is one of exfremely unstable equilibrum. It is only a question of a short time until this great mass of "unattached Socialists" will be in some manner organized. In their present state this could but mean "decoy" socialism, to become the trading stock of politicians and an obstruction in the road of all actual pro-

Never mind what organization you "disrupt": in so doing. Any organiza-tion that is disrupted by an actual union of Socialist forces is so much like a rotten egg that further "spoiling" will not injure, and "disruption" will but expose the rottenness to the air.

Will the proletariat of Ameria arise to it? LABORERS OF AMER-ICA, UNITE: YOU HAVE NOTHING TO LOSE BUT A FEW LEADERS: YOU HAVE THE WORLD TO GAIN! A. M. Simons.

A New Side-show.

Here is perhaps the first decoy duck put forward as an adjunct to the "reorganized" Democratic party, which is contemplated by the labor skinners who have recognized that Bryan is played out:

New York, Nov. 10.—Henry White, general secretary of the United Garment Workers, makes a statement to the effect that a movement has been started for the organization of a hational labor political party in sympathy with Democratic party, and to affiliated with National Assochation of Democratic clubs. Mr. White says that this party, while it is composed exclusively of members of labor organizations, will act independently of the labor unions, but will further all measures, state and national, supposed to be in the Interests of labor. It will favor the Democratic platform, he says, with the exception of the free-silver plank.—Chicago Daily News.

Those composing the new organizaion may recognize through the heats with which their masters attempt to use them, the fact that their class alone possesses the power to make and unmake capitalist political parties. In such case the rest of the Democratic platform might possibly share the fate of the "free silver plank."

Now They Are Used As a Capitalist "Prosperity" Argument, and What They Really Show. With the same issues that contained the first news of the success of the Republican ticket the capitalist newspa-pers began what seems to indicate the inauguration of a campaign of slander against the Socialists. Democratic as well as Republican sheets have their hands in it, showing that their interests in this respect are identical. The unanous indulgence of abuse against what they are pleased to call "Debism" by parasitical blindfolders , and thought stiffers, in commenting on the necessity of reorganizing the Demoeratic party, ought to convince all workingmen who are not absolutely incapacitated for thinking, of the fact that the existence of the two great political parties of capitalism is simply for the purpose of dividing them by the use of decoy issues, in order to teep their minds off the real leavethe systematic plundering of the producers. But it is well for the producers that the Democratic party, if it is to be reorganised at all, should be reorganized according to the plan which these newspapers suggest. They assert that it should be done in such a way that the reorganized party will be acceptable to the "business interests" of the country, so that in the future the compaigns can be carried on with decurum, and without entailing any fear that-whichever party wins-these "business interests" will be unsettled. There you have THE plan! The parthes will simply be divided so as to give an increased incentive to timeserving, place-seeking politicians to ex-ert themselves in doing the bidding of Th "business interests" of the country. Surely when this reorganization is accomplished, no workingman will be fo alish enough to think that the Demperatic party (or whatever name it is tune. to be known by), is in any manner orking towards socialism. Thus, we may expect with a tolerable degree of hope, that thousands of workingmen who voted the Democratic ticket will now at least recognize that that party is henceforth not their fold, and that the spark of a longing for freedom, they hoped to see materialize with the success of Bryan, may de-Velope into a flame of enthusiasm for party which puts before them intelligently the only means of acquiring | Izora Chandler, at $100 for each head. that freedom-collective ownership. Those who persist in quarreling and quibbling over phrases and thus retarding the important work of making Socialists should be called to reason at once, and made to understand that the Socialist movement can go on as well, if not better, without their presence or assistance. We could do with considerably more socialism and considerably less of the individual.

An Encouraging Sign.

The latest example of capitalistic ontrol of educational Institutions was offered by the recent bouncing of Prof. E. A. Ross from Stanford University, because he dared to have an opinion of his own. The important point in this particular instance is that for the first time in the history of similar occurrences the colleagues of the man attacked showed some little class-consciousness.

Larargue in his pamphlet on "Socialism and the Intellectuals," points out that in a shop if a workman is dis charged his comrades will raise a protest, but if a professor is fired his coleagues are more apt to join in the damor against him.

But.in, this case Professor Howard, of the history department, has already jeopardized his position by protesting against the discharge of Professor Ross, while even Pres. David Starr Jordan has found the courage to object to the action of Mrs. Stanford. The step is not long from this position to a general recognition of their common interests with the great working class. and the Socialist movement, Mrs. Stanford will give Comrade Wilshire a close race for first honors in that part of California in making Socialist propaganda.

Editor Workers' Call:—

The mass meeting which was held in this city last Sunday, and which is described in another column of this issue of the Workers' Call, marks a long step in advance in the Socialist movement of Chicaso and it is hoped ultimately in the whole country. But it still leaves much to be done before local unity is attained. The meeting wisely made no attempt to arrange details of any permanent organization. It would not only have been impracticable but presumptuous on the part of the committee of resolutions to have made any such attempt. This work of complexing and perfecting the local organization of the Socialist movement of Chicago is something that must be worked out by the rank and file of the Socialists as circumstances and experience demand. But at the first meeting of the provided for in the resolutions, some steps will have to be taken. The ceptral committee in the form provided for in the resolutions, some steps will have to be taken. The ceptral committee in the form provided for in the resolutions, is an unworkable and impossible body, as a permanent resolution, and was so intended by the writers of the resolutions, it provides for exactly equal representation from each ward regardlyss of the size of membership, and takes no account of conditions of organization, geographical makes up or other local peculiarities of the various wards. All that this provisional city central committee cas do is to meet and work out, from the information that will be brought in by delegates from the different wards, some form of constitution for a permanent organization that will be brought in by delegates from the different wards, some form of constitution for a permanent organization that the aim and object of the committee was to simply construct an instrument which the rank and file could use to organize THEMSELVES into such form as they hight see fit.

intat the aim and object of the committee was to simply construct an instrument which the rank and file could use to organize THEMSELVES into such form as they juight see fil.

Another fact which will probably attract the attention of the reader of the resolution is that no provision whatever is made for membership in any national organization, and this too was done intentionally in pursuance of the poincy of the committee to put the closest possible construction upon its own powers and duties and to not attempt to do anything FOR the membership that the membership should do for itself.

Now in view of these facts, and as a means to start an intelligent discussion upon the points which remain to be settled I offer as a suggestion, the following scheme of local organization. Bearing in mind all the conditions referred to above and that the end in view is an ORGANIC union, first of the CHICAGO Socialists, and ultimately of, ALL Socialists in America I would ask if this scheme does not offer a solution of many of the problems.

Let there be but one City Central Committee to have absolute control of ALL afairs within the city of Chicago, Let this committee be made up somewhat as is the present City Central committee of the Springheld, S. D. P. That is, let there be two delegates from each ward organization having ten or more members and an additional delegate for each additional twenty after the first twenty. Let these ward organizations be formed as the membership within the wards many decide, subject to the above limitation as the numbers.

Let these individual members relain that valence in the second or the committee of the above limitation as the numbers.

Ject to the above limitation as the numbers.

Let these individual members retain their national membership in whatever party they wish, a raid up card if wany national organization, to entitle the holder to membership in any lossi. This provides for the supporter the national bodies and at the same time removes them from the local field as a disturbing factor.

The present system of book keeping by the stamp and card system fenders this plan perfectly easy of application as it would in no way complicate matters. It would permit present organizations to remain as they are unless there was some valid reason for changes that the membership of such organizations should find it desirable to make. It would of course have its defects and be at the best a makeshift to last until national union is consummated. But whatever plan is adopted will have this same defect, and none that has yet been suggested to me will make the change same defect, and none that has yet been suggested to me will make the change suggested to me will make the change to complete consolidation with less friction than this. It leaves absolutely no reasonable excuse to be offered by any organization for not uniting, and forces any body of men who oppose if to put themselves on record as opposed to united effort for socialism and in favor of disorganization and division of the Socialist forces of America. Think these over comrades. You will have to act upon these points soon and you want to do it intelligently and not blindly. Consider this plan or offer a better one.

At a mass convention of the members of the Social Democratic party of Boston, and comprising the various elements of the party, viz. Those who recognize the Springfield National Executive Board, these who recognize the Springfield National Executive Board and those who, at present do not recognize the Chicago National Executive Board and those who, at present do not recognize any national executive board, met in Boston oh Sunday, November 11, 1996, at 724 Washington street.

Said convention, by unasimous vota, declared that the two national bodies, mentioned above, and claiming to be the national executive committee of the Social Democratic party, immediately, on as soon as possible take steps to unite the party under one head.

Said convention also declares that a committee of three, (one from each faction), be elected to forward the above resolutions to both national committees and also to the various party papers for publication.

In conclusion the committee would further state that the prevailing sentiment of the convention favored the calling of a national convention.

And no answer, of hope, no program or policy for social and indi dual freedom is before us except the program of scientific socialism.

The political conditions in our coun try call loudly for the Socialists of America to rise to the occasion, and save the people from the horrible tinkering of petty "radical" programs that become the food of political sharks. How to Get Socialism

"How are we to get it? The answe of these resolutions; the answer of the enthusiasm of this meeting, and the answer of thousands of Socialists throughout this country tonight By a united Socialist movement. We, of the rank and file of Socialists, don't want parties, or leaders, or pa pers, or ward organizations, just for the having of them. We want the Co-operative Commonwealth for our children and children's children. And we want parties, leaders, papers, organizations as means to that glorious end. And when any of these means fall as means to that end they become a menace to our object. Such a menace to our obare the factional organizations in the Socialist movement tohight, and we believe that the sacred enthusiasm of this meeting, demanding a unified Socialist movement will sweep this country. In 1991 we shall have a Socialist movement which shall so grandly rise thrust upon us by the plutocratic debauchery of one old party, and the rank economic ignorance or cowardice of the other, that in 1964 we shall dictate the paramount issue, and in 1909 sweep to Socialist victory in these United States.

WHO! WHO! WHO ARE "WE?"

Puzzle Awaiting Solution by the Working Class-Key to Be Found in Socialism. . .

There is perhaps no word in the English language more useful to the rulls lass than the simple expression "We." A few years ago a well-known So dalist writer composed an essay upon in which he dilated 'blessed words," upon certain familiar phrases which were discovered to be of the utmost value in perpetuating capitalist conditions of appropriation, and which were in consequence, worked to the limit upon every possible obcasion, but in the list of examples given this priceless; treasure was omitted. This may be accounted for by the supposition that the aforesaid writer designedly excluded this word from his catalogue con sidering perhaps that it might require a volume rather than an essay to justice. At any rate there is no doubt phatever but that it stands high in the odor of capitalist sanctity. From that point of view it actually deserves nisation.

. Naturally enough, the growth of dis se scale during the strike at the of capitalist society, has compelled the roling class to demand that this word If "socialism is not practicat," are do double shift in bracing up the present system of legalized robbery. Since Chauncey M. Depew informed the American workingmen that "WF had very interesting reading." produced two thousand militon dollars worth, more than WE could consume. the word has been in constant requisition. In fact it has been worn thread, base in the effort to give expression

At times, however, 'the connection and significance in which this word is used by the champions of capitalism omes so glaringly apparent, that it might be thought positively dangerous to the interests of the users to employ wage earner is taken into ac count the risk, though still present, is sensibly/reduced.

Here for instance is a quotation fro Leslie's Weekly, in which this and reliable" expression bobs up in almost every sentence. It might furnish an instructive and entertaining pastime to the wage working reader to go through it and try to discover just how many times he can identify himself and his interests in each "we" which it contains. He may rest assured that he is decidedly in it in some cas just as decidedly out of it in others:

As far as prosperous conditions are conserned, We may as well understand that if WE are to retain our foreign trade WE must be prepared to fight for it. As the president of the German butrade WE must be prepared to fight for it. As the president of the German bureau of commercial treaties recently said: "The dread struggle will have to be met; the longer it is postponed the harder it will become." English fronmakers are already announcing a reduction in prices in competition with those given by American and German manufacturers. The closer the competition the less the profits. WE are having also Toser competition at home. WE hear of an advance in Southern iron and steel, but WE also read of a big steel raif plant to be erected at Birmingham in competition with Northern rail mills; that the Carnegie company is to invade the sheet steel business: that the railroads are discussing the building of their own rail mills; that Ceveland and Pittsburg concerns are preparing to manufactures ateel when in competition with the trust. Again, as affecting the railways. Western jobbers are demanding lower rates and Southern manufacturers are combining to secure legislation in the same direction. Nor should the observer for and Southern manufacturers are com-bining to secure legislation in the same direction. Nor should the observer for-get the reports of a glut of wool in Ar-gentina, with no orders and inadequate storage space. This puzzle can easily be solved with i little application, and it would be present and thus spoil the interest of the reader in it. He will doubtless appreclate it better if left to work out the solution unsided, though perhaps it might be suggested that a five or ten cent text book upon socialism would b and useful in unraveling the mystery. However he must discover for himsel whether he possesses any foreign trade or not, who it is that "must be pre pared to fight for it," and whether the either, to devote some thought to that foreign manufacturer" , mentioned in his establishment at starvation rates The bill, however, was not and try to figure out for himself whe the "we" may be upon whom is laid the obligation of meeting this "foreign manufacturer" in "open competition

Modern Methods of Wealth Ac tion and Their Relation to the Pres-ent "Epidemic of Crime."

With the first blasts of winter, the criminal features, inseparable from a society which has chosen for its "busiiess" code the motto "devil take the hindmost." begin to put in their appearance as usual. The "hold up" man has opened up for business at the old stand, and a sum total of forty-eight highway robberies, (mostly with violence attached), in this city within two weeks, testifies to his determination not to get left in the general "tee for all," y which "property" is transferred from one individual to another.

To describe this condition of affairs the phrase "epidemic of crime" has been coined and applied to these periodical manifestations of the working of our onomic system, the capitalist civilization of today. As might be expected the remedies by which it is proposed to eliminate this disgraceful feature in modern society are one and all directed to measures of suppression by force through the judi-Unions of Vancouver have declared a content with economic conditions, and all and executive functions of the af-boycott against the militia because the the increase of that ominous movement latter responded to a call to protest the which questions the very foundations into the cause of the "epidemic" are extremely few, and, we might add, extremely stilly, while the difficulties which, according to the so-called competent authorities stand in the way of its suppression, make to say the least,

He can recollect vividly all the necessary preliminaries to his becoming a police officer.

Probably half a million persons read this declaration of the state's attorney on this question. How many of them really understood its significance? How many of them asked themselves with whom the criminals possessed "political influence" and why? An inoutry started upon this line might, if followed out logically, lead the inquirer into fields of discovery beside which the press woold seem fame flat and the

As for the remedies proposed by the application. The question here is merely one of driving the "hold up man" out of Chicago. The chiefs of different plaining just how they cleared the objectionable parties out of their particular localities, not being able to o hend that suppression of this kind of crime in one place inevitably means its clates who are on the ground and at appearance in another. Even supposing that the most drastic legal measures against these crimwere universally enforced, they could have at best no other effect than to change the form of the robbery. If the occupation of "holding up" were made too difficult or too dengerous, those plying it might naturally be expected to travel along the lines of least resistance, and burglary, sneak thievery, other lines of party conduct it is certain that by spreading socialist literature you help the socialist cause. Send in a property would become still more artiscular that by spreading socialist cause. Send in a travel along the lines of least resist-

Comrade W. T. Mills Announces Mis Intention to Work Exclusively for Speialism.

To the Trustees of the Peoples' University, and to all others in any way interested in its affairs:

It is with the sense of a great personal bereavement that I am obliged to send to you this communication. Por more than seven years I have continuously labored in the effort to explain to others what had seemed to me a practial plan for organizing an institution where Socialists could work with less of the stress of capitalism upon them and so be able to do more in the general propaganda of socialism than in any other way. During this time I have also endeavored as best I could to help to organize for such work, those who have become interested and were willing to undertake the enterprise.

During this same time I have tried to teach the doctrines of socialism as I have myself understood them and to as large a number of people as I have been able to reach, consistent with my devotion to this school organization.

I am now fully convinced that my own duty lies in the direction of giving all of my time to the general Socialist propaganda. It is in order to undertake what seems to me to be this larger duty that I feel compelled to resign as Field Secretary of the Peoples' University, as trustee of that institution and to withdraw entirely from any relations to it which can in any way hinder what I might otherwise accomplish in the field and for the cause of socialism.

I cannot refrain from expressing my sincere appreciation of alf of the people who have at any time had any share with me in this work, nor can I pass the opportunity of saying that I am greatest "sensations" of the capitallst sure that what we have been trying to accomplish, shall yet be accomplished. not for ourselves, only and those who He would find in every case that this might choose to join such an undertaking, but for all mankind. A Falsehood Refuted.

Bourgeois reformers and friends of capitalism generally have for several years been industrially circulating th statement that the Socialist parties of Europe were gradually ceasing to be rev olutionary and becoming mere reform organizations. This same report, has been repeatedly published since the International Congress was held in Paris. and particularly with regard to the "Kautsky resolution," permitting a Socialist under certain conditions to take a position under a capitalist government. These statements have recently found a new supporter in the person of Maine will show a vote of 800 for the Daniel De Laon, who seeks in this way national ticket. Two months ago the to vent his spite on the Congress for having unmercifully snubbed his delepolicy. He has continuously aprend the report that the Parti Ouvrier or "Quesdists" of France were also snubbed horing thus to secure a sort of respect ability for himself by getting in good

All this would not concern us save that the allowing of such an impres to get abroad will be an encouragement to muddled tactics here, and an assistance to capitalism. Therefore it might be well to give an opinion from the organization with which De Leon is trying to curry favor and which was supposed to be so badly snubbed as to have formed a "new international" with Daniel. In the issue of "Le Socialiste" of October 21st, a paper of which Jules Guesde is himself an editor, and which is the efficial organ of the "Parti Cuvrier," there is a sumgress from which we take the following extracts. After complaining, and with perfect justice, that the Congress had no business interfering in French local politics, the account says:

"Nevertheless those who resorted to this new International consuttation, upon the Millerand case, have been required at every point, and the opinion of the Socialist world has declared them wrong upon all these points. Not about the Kautsky resolution, which he spite of its emeiliating expressions, is wholly a condemnation of their raislitterial policy but the resolutions which concerned the allances with their bourgeois parties, colonial politics, so-called futuricitial socialism. Inversal peace, general strike consistent universal peace, general strike consist. posities, so-called flughting socialism, universal peace, general strike consistent of them a defect. This result was not to be doubted the class-consciousness of the workers of the sorted is henceforth to sure of itself to be caught by surprises and uncertainties."

ADDRESS BY GEO. D. HERRON

Delivered at the Unity Mass Meeting Held By the Socialists of Chicago in Brand's Hall, November 18.

Speaker Reviews Present Economic and Political Situation in the United States, Deducting Therefrom the Absolute Necessity of Concerted Action Upon the Part of All Socialist Forces.

There has never come to socialism so plain an opportunity as that now offered by the American political situa-tion. We have reached the psychological moment when Socialists may define the issues of life and death for the nation. A united and harmonious Socialistic mevement may now make clear to all the people the lines of conflict; between capitalism and socialism; beof conflict may be made so definite that no party of compromise or tinker. Liberal party. While English Socialists ing can enter the political field. Now is the time of Socialist salvation, if we Liberal party deluded the people with are great enough to respond to the factory acts, municipal water works, greatness of our opportunity.

Nothing outside of socialism can defeat it; capitalism cannot defeat socialism, any more than it can defeat the law of gravity, or obstruct the progress of the seasons. It lies not in the power of capitalistic governments, or capital laws, or capitalistic standing armies, or capitalistic religions, to of speech and of suffrage. In more than withstand the Socialist evolution and one state, legislation has already been freedom of society. A united and harnious Socialist movement has the the human future for its own. But So. injustice and the subsidized public noble unity and concerted action, may ling pulpit, will be turned against that put off the co-operative commonwealth, freedom of agitation and action which d prolong the suffering of the world's disinherited, for a generation, or a International Action Against Scotaliers. divided Socialist movement can social-

A "Reconstructed" Dummy.

Let us look at our political situation, that we may see what we have to pre pare for. The break-up of the Demo-eratic party, and its re-organization upon strictly capitalistic lines, is inevitable. The party will be captured by what is called the old-line Democracy, represented by such men as Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Whitney and Mr. Hill. It willbecome merely an opposition capital-istic party, to alternate with the Reconstructive capitalistic party, in the possession of power. It will then make no sort of difference to capitalists, or to the working class either, whether the Republican or Démocratic party be in control of government; for capitalism will be in possesion of both parties. The perpetuity of the capitalistic system depends upon its having two political parties, about equally matched, to play off against each other, and to shuttle-cock the proletaire between blind issues. American of both parties were in capitalists only need to read the recent editorials warranting most anxious solicitude pattions as to its necessity for the de-

Meanwhile, during our reshifting proess, the Republican party will be making steady encroachments upon liberty proposed that has no other motive than the elimination of the Socialist ticket sh of all the centuries behind it, and from the official ballot. The courts of socialism needs for its progress.

International preparations

gainst socialism will increase. Behind the pomp and strut, the lies and treaof international diplomacy is the subtle and far-seeing purpose to unite the world-powers against the international Socialist revolution: Diplomacy is today but the mere shadow cast by the vested interests of the great banking houses. And it is against the dreaded triumph of socialism that these word's diplomacy. Not long ago, Kaiser Wilhelm frankly and brutally declared socialism to be the coming enemy against which the civilized world should arm itself. And he has had a ridiculous picture painted wherewith to camphieteer his warning to Europe. Lord Salisbury has recently said that it is time for the nations to come to a nutual understanding, or else the dregs of civilization would overwhelm it in of civilization are the proletaire, no matter how else he may define his has already gone far enough to make sure that the menace of socialism in political campaigns have long been a sure that the menace of socialism in sort of Punch and Judy show; and it one nation means its co-operation of has been all one to the workingman, all the great world-powers against it.

We had just 4s well understand that bands. As evidence of this, you will have to be prepared to meet all Europe at the same time; for American capitallem will have arroad Europe as its For not a throne in Europe rould stand a year after the triumpl of socialism in America.

pon the widest liberty of opinion and detail. We make socialism the betrayer of the people who are crydng for liberty of life, if we win them to our program only to menace them at every turn by sheer authority, and drive them from one jealous faction to another, each faction claiming authoritative powers. The principle of authority, of the rule of a single dogma or center of author-ity, belongs to the capitalistic system and not to socialism. is a brute principle at best. And it is upon this brute system of authority that the capitalistic system depends. Liberty of thought and action, under respective governors of the several the capitalistic system, means loss of states issue proclamations setting aside position, daily bread, and even life it-self. afterwards not only the truth of his emark, but also the underlying caus for the passing of chivalry. Through out the mase of works which this clear sighted writer has left to the world, this explanation may be found in numerops places places by the reader of ocdinary diligence. One example which covers the whole ground may here be quoted. It may be found in a document na aed the "Communist Manifesto, published to 1867, and runs as follows: 'It has left remaining no other nexus between man and man than naked selfinterest, callous 'cash payment,' It has drowned the most heavenly ecstasies of religious fervor, of chivalrous enthusiasm, of philistine sentimentalism in the key water of egotistical calmlation." .

The "it" referred to, is the domination I the bourgeoiste, the regime of comnercialism, or in one word, capitalism Strange to say, however, although the truth of this statement is generally admitted, for instance in such phrases as that there is "no sentiment in business," etc., the vast majority of mankind still believe that the "age of petuation of this superstittion the upholders of the very system which is alry" find one of the strongest bulwarks of the system itself. The shudow is still used to conceal the nature of the reof discontent that supported the candi, ality, and it must be admitted, with considerable success.

It seems to me that some feasible plan could be suggested to the rank and file of the Socialist organizations and approved or disapproved of in one short month.

The rank and file of the Socialists of this country are disapprised with the divisions which have been made in the lines of the Socialist parties and are anxious to throw off such tyrants of De Leon type as exist in the two parties of this country, the S. D. P. and the S. L. P.; and as soon as the issue can be put before the members in a clear light they will-settle forever these little differences.

cient light they will settle forever these little differences.

Let it be understood that any Socialist paper which is afraid to launch upon the sea of journalism without forcing the combined subscription of some Socialist organization is not worthy of the support of any Socialist. Any good Socialist paper with a reputation, already established can easily increase its subscribers every day for the coming four years of campaign work as the Socialist forces, will graw to be the greatest and only permanently organized party in America in the next four years if we only UNITE. The Sunday Tribune devotes two colnns to a list of 173 American helresses who have married titled foreigners. The aggregated fortune thus transplanted to foreign soll is estimated at $305,253,000. This is interesting in more ways then one. Many people will lament that so much American has gone to support old world aristoc. racy. Looked at in that way it is in deed rather deplorable. But to the Socialist the question of what is done with the fortunes of American capitalists' daughters is not nearly so important as the question of how can be accumulated in the first place. tion or co-operation which have marked the progress of man, none has been perfect; yet have they possessed, in a gradually assending scale, less and less of imperfection. Every working political and social organism has maintained, during the period of its usefulness and in accordance with time and place, an equilibrium between the cidims of the individual and the claims of society. When the balance was destroyed, elither by too harsh an assertion of the right of the single life or the right of series of burdens borne by the comthe type, the social organism has munity. To make it concrete, let the passed away, and another, adjusted to the changed conditions, replaced it, Certainly fifty thousand is a conservaother than those along which it works today. This brings us to a discussion of the present: What the community loses by the competitive system.

Division of Land. All things being equal, ten thousand acres of arable land, under one execuworked en bloc, say for the purpose of growing wheat, utilizing the most improved methods of plowing, sowing and harvesting, will 'produce greater returns at less expense than an equal number of acres, divided into one hundred plots, and worked individually by one hundred men. If the community; believing this friction of its units to be logical, farms in the latter ma ner, it must suffer a distinct pecuniary loss. And the effects of this loss—call parently borne by the agrarian populaparently horne by the agtarian population, are equally felt by the urban population. Of the many items which at once suggest themselves, consider the simple one of fences. For the division of land in the state of Indiana, alone, their cost is computed at two, million dellars, and if placed single flie at the equator, they would circle the globe fourteen times. Under a scientific system of agriculture with. As it is, they represent just so much waste of energy, just so much real loss of wealth. And these losses, of which the preceding is but one of a asserted right of the individual to prirate ownership in land.

To this division of land among individuals, whether in the country, in the city, or in franchises, may be traced numerous other losses and grotesque features of the community. Lack of embination in the country causes expensive crops; in the city, expensive blic utilities and service, and fright street railway corporation can insue an run that railway for tiself, has lost the ply, the necessary facilities for distrib run that railway for itself, has lost the ten per cent, which otherwise it might have enjoyed in bettering its transit service by the building of recreating the party of the presenting the efficiency of its by increasing the efficiency of its predatory capitalists invades the established with regard to architecture, the presence of co-operation among individuals is most notable where it occurred, most reference where it is absent the hills in get the necessary commodities.

One big store could operate the distributing function performed by these dozen small ones, and operate it more efficiently and at far less cost and labor. The success of store, in wiping out competition, gets in a hundred houses, on washing-day, greater returns out of less effort. And having destroyed competition ist, save as the common property of the community to be operated for the community's common good: It cannot be by so operating it, and not only in this but in all similar enterprises. Nor from the economic view, is this the sum total of the community's loss. These drummers are not legitimate creators of wealth. The cost they add to the articles they sell is an unnecessary one. The function they carry on in society is absolutely useless. Their labor is illegitimately expended. Not only have paid as though they had done some thing. And it must be borne in mind that this is but one of a long series of similar burdens which may be assembled under head of "commercial waste." Consider the one item of advertisement. To make which litter preets, desecrate the air, pollute the circle, a host of people are employed, such as draftsmen, paper-mak penters, gilders, mechanics, et cetera. Scap and patent-medicine firms have been known to expend as high as half a million dollars a year for their adertifing. In one of these three ways the competition of corporations men where only one is required. But must inevitably result; nor can the community escape the consequent loss, munity, which he, as a member, must save by the co-operative operation of · Costliness of Effort. Because of the individual performance of many tasks which may be done collectively, effort entails a corresponding costliness. Since much that might have been included under this head has as may be purely individual shall be here handled. In the field of household economics there are numerous losses of this nature... Of these, choose one. no longer any reason that it should ex. thrown out of joint, one hundred fires, one hundred tubs being filled and emptied, and so forth and so on-soap, pow. der, bluing, fuel, and fixtures, all bought denied that the community would gain at expensive retail prices. Two men, by so operating it, and not only in this in a well-appointed small steam-laundry, could do their washing for them, year in and year out, at a tithe the expense and toil. Disregarding the saying gained by the wholesale purchase of labor, these two men, by machinery alone, could increase their power tenfold. By means of a proper domestic co-operation, if not municipal, each of these housewives would saye a sum of money which would go far in purchasing little luxuries and recreations.

Again, consider the example of the poorer families of a large town, who buy their food and other necessaries from at least one hundred shops of one sort and another. Here, the costliness of effort for which they pay is not theirs, but that of the people they deal with. Instead of one large distributing denot these one hundred petty merchants each order and handle separate parcels of goods, write separate letters, and checks, and keep separate books, Somebody pays for all this, for the useess letters, checks, parcels, clerks pookkeepers and porters, and assuredly it is not the shopkeeper. And aside for its owner ten dollars a week-a very modest sum-or five hundred dollars year. For the one hundred shops this would equal fifty thousand dollars. And this the poorer members of the community must pay.

The people have come partially to recognize this, however. Today no man dreams of keeping his own fire-fighting or street lighting apparatus, of mainall: that is to say, there was greater triction or less co-operation among the oits of society then than now.

Internal Co-operation Necessary.

The rank and file of attached Socialists, and several hundred thousand unattached Socialists, are asking that we and yet harmonious organization that shall command their moral enthusiasm; their noble support and joyful sacrifices. We must give what these ask of ment. If we stand for the unity of human interests; we must prove our faith and sincerity by uniting. If we stand for brotherhood, we must set like brothers, and not like the so-called Christians who call one another brother and then proceed to devour one another. If we stand for the co-operative, commonwealth, then in God's name let commonwealth, then in God's name let us begin to co-operate among ourselves. We shall find lined up against the capitate us give trust, and we shall receive trust. Let us show confidence in one callet comrades, filled with the loy of callet comrades, filled with the loy of Let us give trust, and we shall receive trust. Let us show confidence in one another, and we shall receive confidence. Divided by strife and suspicion, we fail, and are faithless to the world's disinherited who stretch forth to us worn hands of entreaty. United by patience, by good-win and brave com radeship, we shall conquer the world, and make it a fit place for free men and comrades to live in. And the stars themselves cannot fight against us.

As a Socialist, I believe I can be true to my contrades only by taking the poskies make me his personal enemy. At the same time, I will let no man take from me one jot or tittle of the philoso phy and principle upon which socialism bases itself.

cialists are not asking that, old leaders get out of the way; for they recognize the long hardships which these leaders have undergone, and their noble pioneer service in the great cause. The Editalist ranks are only asking that their leaders learn to work together, and lead harmoniously. For the multitudes who really want social-ism cannot bear to have their hopes, and the master-opportunity of socialism, wreshed by factional strifes, which are not only senseless and meaningless, but wicked. I cannot believe that these strifes will continue. And I do not be-Here that they represent the real hearts and minds of those who have engaged We have only to witness this meeting to night, which has impressed me with its moral carnesiness mere than with anything else. I have not seen a sign nor heard a syllable of strife for advantage in the work of this day; in the committee room, and on the floor, I have seen nothing but an honest and carnest desire for the good of socialism. I believe that the deep feeling of responsibility which pervades us at this hour really represents the spirit and future of American socialism: Is we here unite in one body and organism of purpose and action, then we shall compet the unity of Socialists throughout the United States. And a united and harmonlous movement in America means a great new fire of hope kindled upon every Socialist altar in Europe.

Socialism As a Religion.

Socialism needs no religion imposed upon it from without, and the less it has of such, the safer will be its course. But it does not need to be shot through with that spiritual passion without which, as Hegel says, no great movement ever prevails. And socialism has within itself the germs of that passion. It has the seed of a new religion. Socialism has power to become it own religion. Essentially, socialism is a religion. The religion of life and brotherhood for which the world has long waited. It has in it that purpose which can command the idealistic motive that lies deep even in the most matter of fact man. Hundreds of thousands of young men and women are crying out for some cause in which they can invest their lives, some cause that shall afford them alters of vanited and self-ford them alters of vanited and self-for denying service. They see the gods and their temples burning to ashes, and they ask for something that shall take the place of these in supplying the most elemental need of the human soul. So-challess can supply that need. It comes to the common life as the religion of a ree and happy earth, the religion of common life as the religion of common life, and mutual hope and bratherh od. DEBATE ON TACTICS

Harriman and De Leon Discuss Trades Union Policy.

SILENCING THE "PROFESSOR"

re of S. T. & L. A. Scabbery Re duces De Leon to the Pitiful Defence of a General Dental.

The debate between Daniel DeLeon and Job Harriman last Sunday evening in New Haven, Cona., was a rousing success for the Social Democratic Party. From the time Harriman took the floor a large majority of the audience, indeed all except the strict De Leonites, were enthusiastically with

In De Leon's first speech he evaded the real issue and spent most of his time on general principles, upon which all Socialists are agreed.

But Harriman's first speech brought out the real issue so plainly that De Leon was put of the defensive, and kept dodging throughout his second and third speech.

The question for discussion was: "Affirmed that the tactics of the Socialist Trade and Labor Alliance AGAINST PURE AND SIMPLE TRADE UNIONISM is for the best interests of the working class and for the promotion of socialism in America." De Leon spoke in the affirmative and Harrinan in the negative. De Leon thirty minutes, Harriman thirty minutes. De Leon twenty minutes, Harriman thirty minutes. De Leon ten minutes. In his first speech De Leon set forth the prinof the class struggle, universally accepted by all Socialists. He then went off into the old-time pure and simple pereration to the tune, "We want something Now," for, as he rightly said, top, it will take a long time hefore the S. L. P. gets into pow-The present trade unions, however, were not enpable, in his opinion, to ac-complish anything for the worker since they were controlled and misled by the "Isbor lieutenants of capital." Three methods, he said, had been proposed for dealing with the pure and simple

1. Bering from within,

2. Withdrawing and paying absolutely no attention to the unions 2. Organizing opposition unions on the lines of the S. T. & L. A.

He then stated that he with other Socialists had tried the methods of boring from within; that they were very k in numbers and were defeated. He charged all those who differed from him with being "fakirs" and "lieutenants of capitalism." He said that the active men in the labor movement cere all corrupt and were agents of the capitalist class.

As proof of this he pointed to the late coal strike in Pennsylvania, also workers' in Wisconsin, the cabinet-makers' strike in New York; the recent digar strike in New York and others, claiming without any ground that in all of these strikes the leaders had sold Having shown to his satisfaction to the S. T. &.L. A. He said that the S. T. & L. A. was organized on class conscious lines and claimed that they supported the working class in all its whether led by the S. T. & or by the pure and simplers, or That by this method they establish the S. T. & L. A. and that the remedy was not to be found in boring from within, but in battering down the pure and simple unions from without.

When Harriman next took the platform he pointed out that we do not differ upon a question of principle. Intion is the position taken by all Socialthere to asert that the pure and sim favor of political action. The question is not whether the principles of the pure or simple unions or the S. T. & are correct or incorrect, but quoting from the argument read by the AT & L A. Gentlest PITRE AND SIMbenefit of the working class and the otion of Sociation in America." Hence political tactics and class-consciousness are not before us for con-spicration. It is the factics of the S. T. & L. A. AGAINST UNIONISM that is before us, and I for one mean to stick to this issue and no other. If the Lean and his associates were decreased when they were bering from within because they were weak, he could only since they had quit "boring from withsince they had quit being from which in" and have organized a union to their liking, the question is, what are the tactics of this new union AGAINST THE OLD UNIONISM? Harriman then read extracts from De Leon's People, and showed from the discussion which took place in their national convention that the S. L. P. and S. T. & L. A. proposed to "smash the un-lens to pieces. That they "should do othing to keep in existence that which they were trying to put out of xistence." By several such quotations he showed that their "tactics against pure and simple unionism; was to amuch their without any qualification," Harriman said that the reason he was compelled to show this fact was because De Leon did not show it. and instead of that -tried to mislead the sudience by the assertion that the policy of the Aliance has been to assist the working class in its economic struggles. This latter statement was so inconsistent with the theory of 'smashing the union" that Harriman felt constrained to prove that the contrary was the case. Referring to the us strikes mentioned by De Leon he said time would not permit a full discussion of each' of them, but he would discuss one in full: that he would est his case upon one and stand or fall with it. He then took up the cigarmakers' strike mentioned by De Leon. union to show that no union had a right to consent to a decrease in wages vithout permission of a two-thirds vote of the International union. Continuing Harriman recited the particulars of the strike. Davis, in whose shop the strike occurred, had declared that he was ompelled to decrease his wages or shut up his shop, whereupon the local union ald the facts before the national arganization and the strike was ordered by a two-thirds vote. The committee in New York followed the instructions of the national organization when they ordered the strike. Now, in the light of these facts, what becomes of De Le-on's statement that the cigarmakers' committee ordered the strike "shaply to gather in more dues and to sell out the union?" Harriman stated that over 200 men same out on strike, and that only about 30 went back scabbing. The first meeting of the shop hands

That bavis had spies there and thereby corred the men to take the poets are to be believed, there thirty scales returned is evidence that thirty scales returned is evidence that thirty scales returned is evidence that was a time "When Music, heavenly maid, was young," but capitalism was maid, was young, and its power of ly when the S. T. & L. A. men were among them. The strike committee was present only at the second meeting where no vote was taken, but where the orders of the national union was given, Davis, in his application for an injunction against the union. stated that the "purpose of the union was to benefit its members by holding wages up. And that he had reduced. the wages, and the strikers were interfering with his employees as they went e and from work. That these employees were willing to work for the ra-duced rate. A-SIGN OF PROGRESS.

The action of the Chicago Federation of Labor in extending an invitation to colored workingmen to join the labor organizations, is, ope which will meet the hearty approval of all Socialista thenuclous the United States and else. where. It is not likely that the capitalist press will indorse this latest move on the part of organized labor, for it conveys to them in unmistakable terms the fact that the workingmen are recognizing that in the struggle before them unity, upon class lines, rather than upon racial or national ones, is a necessity that cannot be avoided if any success, however small, is to be attained. And this lesson has been taught not by humanitarians, sentimentalists or advocates of brotherly love, but by the irresistible force of economic evolution working through the development of capitalist production. In asking the sid of the colored workmen, it is quite evident from the wording of the appeal that the Chicago Federation of Labor rested its case not so much upon the color in its mode of exploitation, but upon another and somewhat more anparent one, viz., the manner in which the colored workman has been used so extensively of late by the possessing classes; as a weapon to neutralize, by virtue of his cheaper labor, lower standard of living and more tractable disposition, the resistance of organized Probably in no other country has racial prejudice and aversion played so large a part as in the United States. At the beginning of the century, it is no exaggeration to say, that the negro was hardly considered a human being. A long and bloody civil war was necssary to settle the question of his political and economic status in capitalist society. Today those who benefited most by the results of that strife see in the negro not only an unlimited sup ply of chean labor power, but a potent force to cheapen and degrade those by whose aid the negro was transformed from an expensive chattel to a "free" competitor in the industrial system of Old prejudices, however, whether of long time for the working classes to ditions, both being inherent parts of disappear, perceive, however dimity, the nature of these phenomena; and that perception is only made possible through the exinotes of our social system. The conflicting material interests of capitalist this action upon the part of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

The ultimate political unity of the working class is assured by the development of capitalism alone. The ster which has been taken by the Chicago Federation of Labor will not be retraced as it is in a direct line with what is known as progress. Considered as an isolated action, its importance is certain to be underrated, but taken in connection with the trend of comomic evolution, its significance is unmistaka. ble. Nor will the call to the colored for participation in the class struggle be confiend to the ecneld alone. He will be required, equally with his white fellow workman, to engage in the conflict for political supremacy which is now embodying itself in the Socialist movement. Capitalism leaves him no choice. He must take his place with those whose material interests are identical with his own. negardless of race, religion or color. the present social and industrial system compets the workers to unite.

as a "moral crusade," is about due, The grand jury has made its report clergy are urging the "good citizen" to help in the purging process, and Mayor Harrison is busy defending, excusing and explaining the position of the administration in regard to the "dives," 'resorts" and other "dens of iniquity' which are to be swept out of existence by the forthcoming onelaught of the 'crusaders."

Mayor Harrison does not look with a favorable eye upon the preparations which are being made. He thinks that those who are interested in making them are about to meddle with matters which he himself is fully capable of regulating, and in consequence, his defence shows considerable resentment against the originators of the movement against "vice."

For Mayor Harrison is a shrewd poltician and has been engaged in the reform" business himself, and knows exactly how much value is to be aitached to the professions of "reformers" in general.

So he boldly asserts that those who are engineering this "moral crusade" are by no means so zealous for "morality" and civic purity as their professions would indicate. The newspapera, ministers and churches, he save are being used by the traction companies for the purpose of unseating him, so that they may be able to secure more favorable terms for the renewal of their franchises from his successor, In other words, Mayor Harrison's rebuttal brings to light the inseparable connection between capitalism and

Although the municipal campaign has not , yet been formally opened on either side, the Republican and Democratic politicians are by no means ignorant, of what the "reform wave" signifies.

They recognize it as the advanced guard of the "outs:", a skirmish line thrown forward by those who wish to displace the present office holders. Those attacked are under the necessity of uncovering its real significance, while those who attack, are equally bound to conceal it.

But the Mayor is correct in saving that "vice" existed before he took office, that it is necessary, that it may be "regulated," but cannot be abolished. He knows that his political opponents are also aware of this fact, and that the "crusade" they are manipulating is directed, not against "vice," but against himself and the crowd of city politicians, known as the Cadministration." There are no doubt a great many who really believe that the "basement ished and that drunkenness, highway robbery, prostitution, gambling and debanchery will disappear with their abolition. It would be useless to enter into argument to convince them of the folly of their belief. If repeated failure cannot effect this it is difficult to see how they are to be disillusionized.

But like the iniquity against which they apparently contend, these people are also "necessary," and the manner of their utilization is he mystery to the capitalist politician. "Merality" or orality" makes little difference to the latter. Within the boundaries of

But instead of this logical arrangement of industry, the community today possesses the chaotic system of competitive production. It is a war of producers, also of distributors. Success depends on individual knowledge of just now much and at what cost all others are producing, and of just how much and at what prices they are selling. All the factors which decide the fluctuations of the world's markets or the purchasing power of its peoples, must be taken into account. A war-cloud in the Balkans, a failure of crops in the Argentine, the thoughtless word of a kaiser, or a strike of organized labor, and success or failure, depends on how losely the result of this event have been foreseen. In notifying the union men of this city as to its intentions regarding them in the future, the firm of Hibbard, Bartlett and company, supplied organized labor with matter which should cause union workmen to seriously reflect upon the relations exas seen from the standpoint of the former, and as Messers H. > It may be observed in the first place that this notification begins by declar-ing in favor of unions, a trick by which capitalist ultimatums are invariably prefaced now-a-days, but it would seem that the union which finds favor unongst the employers is not exactly he same kind of organization which the men believe to be best suited to their needs.

According to Messrs, H. B. S. & Co. there are many grave defects in the economy of the unions which must be liminated before it will be possible for that reputable firm to enter into busirelations with union men. The 'spell binders' who infest their organizations and who "fill their pockets at the expense of the men whom they profess to represent," are highly ob ectionable to the moral sense of this pious corporation, and, their abolition insisted on an the first necessary preliminary before any dealing with the unions is possible. .

The H. S. B. document then gives a dissertation upon the origin and object of unions, which it is declared were founded for the purpose of protection against the "rapacity of employers who were greedily enriching themselves at the expense of their workmen." This action, which according to the same authority is "highly commendable," is be ing frustrated by the "spelibinders" aforesaid, "under whose bondage the workmen are chafing," and it is to rescue the afflicted ones from this galling yoke that the H. S. B. Co. put forth their manifesto.

And when they have freed the vic-tims what then? Why the unions will commendable" purpose, of their being; viz., to "check the rapacity of employ ers who are greedily enriching themselves at the expense of the workers."

This is a fair deduction from the identical words in the document. Is there any union man so laiotic as to believe that the firm in question really wishes to have this program carried out? Does any union man think that because they feel any sympathy for evil would be remedied, but advices the alleged victims? Is it because their sense of honesty is outraged that they pose as champions of the "best interests" of the workmen? Is there any union man so credulous as to imagine that these people wish to arm the unons with increased power to carry out the "highly commendable" purpose for which they were established? We should hardly suppose such to be the case. What then do they really want? They want unions in which they shall be the dictators instead of the,"spellbinders" and "walking delegate." want unions which are incapable of resistance. They want to be themselves the judges of those elastic terms, a "fair day's work" and a "fair day's wage." They want submissive, sub-servient, emasculated organizations disguised under the name of unions They want the shadow of power to remain with the unions; while they utilize the substance. ODDS AND ENDS.

A Socialist's Comment Upon Some of the Current Topics of the Day.

On Thanksgiving day the Times-Herald reprinted, for the edification of its saders, a cartoon from Harper's Weekly, headed, "Let Us Give Thanks!" It represented Uncle Sam with the large end of a "Horn of Flenty" on his right shoulder. From the mouth of it poured, a mixture of the good things of lifefilled barrels and boxes and tubs, bags of money, wose coins and loose vege-tables. The horn was a long one, and following it to its end brought the eye to the smoking chimneys of the factories in the background of the picture, giving the impression which it was likely intended to convey, that from among the factories came the good things which were dropping from the mouth of the horn. Uncle Sam, thin and bent under the and, is opresented with a smile on his face, as if he is well plused and is about his business. We see the outlines of the factories the smoking chimneys, the born trailing from among the buildings until its huge mouth is brought to the foreground, disclosing and emptying its contents, and the man who oversees the job. Uncle Sam. The recipients of the contents of the horn are not represented, but from the twinkle in Uncle Sam's eye we infer that he knows who he is working for, and from the headme "Let Us Give Thanks" you are at liberty to extract whatever comfort you may, it all depending upon whether you are in the US. It is truly a representative capitalist picture.

Is there prosperity? There certainly it on all sides-for somebody. And look it the figures representing our exports! They have been something wonderful lately, more than ever before. We are so prosperous that our masters, having taken possession of everything of value ever here, are hustling goods over the seas to get the gold with which to purhase the bonds of foreign countries. And the lower the wages paid to the slaves here, the more they can send over. So they are cutting down wages, and of course it shows in the export figures-don't you see? And the money which the foreign rulers get for the oonds is put into armaments and equipments for the soldiery, who are used as an instrument to compel wage slaves of still other countries to submit to the impositions of commercialism. what a beautiful system of internalional capitalism our low wages are augmenting!

The Des Moines Globe says that thinking people with large commercial interests have for a long time safe with the present form of government, and it advocates a constitutional monarchy to be adopted, as "everything is ripe for a change." is the change to be dreaded nor looked forward to with foreboding. It is just as, foolish to fight unionism because of a few dishonest men as it would be to fight socialism because of Alliance tac-

Since unions are born by reason of economic pressure, it is evident that if every union were swept off the face of the earth to-day that the same eco-nomic cause would reproduce them tomorrow, So long as the vast majority of the working class are yet unacquainted with Socialism it is evident

Convention, Etc. of the working class are yet unacquainted with Socialism it is evident that the union thus reproduced would be exactly like those of to day. Hence if every union were "smashed" nothing would be gained. But since the working cines are not acquainted with the principles of socialism, the union is to them the natural and only method of fighting the capitalist class. For they do not see the class struggle. Hence to fight the union is to attack the only means by which they know how to even temperarily keep up their wages. The "smashing union" policy only arouses their antagonism, stirs up their prejudice and inspires their harred, and divides the working class. into two untagonistic camps.

The same policy had resulted in dividing the S. T. & L. A. in 1898, the S. L. P. in 1899. At the same time such that a country to resulted country is a country of the coun S. L. P. in 1820, At the same time such tactics causes the working clars to refuse to listen to Socialist appeals because they think Socialists are their ensures. Thus such tactics stand in the way of progress of Socialism. Hardinan then showed by quotations from De Ison's paper that members of his own party were actually boring from within, and that the boring within was possible and practicable.

NEW YORK.

The Socialist Campaign Book of 1900.

CONTENTS.

The publication of this work marks an era in socialist propaganda in America in that it places in the hands of every socialist worker the information and material necessary to his work in as attractive a form as the material hitherto only accessible to the capitalist parties, while at the same time this material has been illuminated and explained in at the same time this material has been illuminated, and explained in the light of the socialist philosophy. This makes of the book at once a store-house of knowledge for the socialist speaker and agitator and the best propagandist work yet published, for it not only presents the doctrines of socialism in clear, convincing form, but accompanies the reasoning with the facts from which it is drawn in a manner that can but carry conviction to any unprejudiced mind.

The table of contents given herewith will give a good idea of the plan and scope of the work. The first two chapters are not simply a recital of isolated facts, but so correlate the historical data as to cause them to form a convincing argument of the trend of industrial development. The chapters on trusts bring out their two-fold character by which they mark at the same time a higher degree of economic development and a more intense exploitation of the producer. In "Labor's Demands and Capitalism's Answers" the efforts of organized labor to secure relief in "labor legislation" through capitalist parties is treated exhaustively and should prove a convincing argument with any trade-unionist for the necessity of independent political action along socialist lines. The chapter on "Wages and Living Expenses" is a careful examination of our present "prosperity" and a complete refutation of the claim that the laborers have shared in industrial advance. The discussion of "How the Working Class Live" is written by one of the foremost students of this subject in this country and embraces much material hitherto unpublished. The last two chapters, on the "Capitalist Political Platforms" and "The Growth of Socialism," complete the line of argument furnished by the facts in the preceding chapters, making of the whole work a powerful brief for the cause of socialism.

THE SOCIALIST CAMPAIGN BOOK contains 150 pages and is handsomely printed on extra book paper, with an artistic cover. The price, including postage to any address, is 25 cents; 5 copies, $1.00.

A Great Scientist Reviews the Progress of the Century.

OMITS AN IMPORTANT FACTOR

Socialism Practically Ignored by Alfred Russel Wallace in His Recent . Work on Progress.

The stole philosopher Seneca was repronched for his constant repetition of his precepts; he replied that he did but inculcate over and over the same counmitted the same faults. A similar state of affairs confronts the scientific So-cialist. He is frequently told that he is making himself a hore; that people are tired of hearing him evedestingly harp on the science of socialism. But until that science has forced itself to recognition among more people than have yet recognized it, he will be justined in repeating it many, many times and in every conceivable way, shape and manner. It is not a pleasant tack, but it is highly necessary, and if the Utopians taunt us with making slow progress we can truthfully reply that edge and charged with the responsiwe are the only ones who are making any progress at all.

The foregoing thoughts occurred to us in looking over the latest book of before spiritualism, broke down when Alfred Russel Walling, entitled, "The R reached the law of the class struggle Windorful Century," This intellectual "For the pracching of the cross (the giant has investigated nearly the whole I the terrestial, celestial and spiritual universe. It is with disappointment that the Socialist looks through this book, and finds that one of the greatest scientific discoveries of this century has been overlooked. He wonders what is the matter; he turns to the ladex and look the names of Mark and Engels Not there. The word socialism appear we believe only once in the whole book next the last page the author speaks of the 'movement towards socialism. The last three chapters on Militarian Greed and the Plunder of the Earth are very wishy-washy stuff to be founin a book on science. Their titles alor are enough to condemn them. Finally in the appendix, in fine print, there is suggested a "remedy for want in the midst of wealth," and how to stop star-Befiamy's "Equality" is as far as Mr. Wallace has got in the science of soefetury life. In fact, he has no suspicion that that there is such a science present is a carnival of greed; the army; which is nothing but the buil pup of capitalism, is his bets noire. He can not see that militarism is only a necesand is mercy itself as compared with the condition of the tollers who, having lieen freed from the ownership of private masters under chattel slavery have now become, with their wives and children, the common staves of a whole class; that private slavery has been preparatory by the everthrow of all and dangers in every form, in search of or the population which is being cro and generation, in his sen country and agitation for governmental construc-city there was discovered and published THYRE a scientific law of the very first im tion of reservoirs and a system of joriportance, a law which forever puts an gotion. Great is capitalist government end to the blind and almiese narration ownership—when the capitalist is to reof historical events as something to be ceive the benefit and the workers pay matted or decounced, or wondered at, the piper. but nover understood; a day which not only explains the past course of human history but by that very fact also dis. measures in the interests of the com-single hour's reflection upon its conents; that he is now an old man and no doubt feels that he has done his share the world's work. But we wish to sive notice right here and now, not to Mr. Wallace, but to all whom it may oncern, that we are thred of these selentific men whose science always winds up in the science of agnosticism. It is high time to demand for socialism its dues and to challenge these bug hunters and professors who pride themselves on heir scientific attitude of mind to tell chy il is that the science of human history, past and present, is unworthy of their attention, or even of mention in a list of the century's achievements. This book illustrates forcibly the great truth uttered by Kropotkin, that science roday is a special privilege of the few, and as long as it remains in this condition it is obstructing its own progress, that the day when a man becomes indued with wide, deep, humane and profoundly scientific truth, that day he will lose his taste for science only.

25. S. SSince writing the above we have changed our mind. A more careful consideration of numerous passages in Mr. Wallace's book has convinced us that he cannot be ignorant of the literature of socialism, that we have been ine lement with him; that in-stead of being excusable for his ignoronce he must be credited with knowl obility which comes with a knowledge: that his praiseworthy scientific spirit which qualled before nothing, not even "For the premning of the cross (the class struggle! Now is the opportune time, let us take advantage of it and build up the S.D. P. for socialism.

Each commade should appoint himself a committee of one to find the unorganized Socialists in his vicinity.

Fourteen new locals in three weeks is zood, but let us do better and make it double the number in the coming same length of time; which state will be the first to send in an application from a newly organized local?

Again 1 call attention to the futstanding subscription lists and urge the comrades of those locals who have called to make returns to do so proptly.

failed to make returns to do so proptly.

Secretaries of state committees are also requested to hasten the sale of int. Del, stamps and make a final report not later than the 23th of this month, as this account must be closed on January lst next; comrades who have not yet purchased stamps should do so at once.

I also request secretaries of state committees, and in such states where there are no such committees secretaries of locals, to inform me immediately upon learning, the official vote cast for the national and state candidates on the S. D. P. ticket.

We need this information just as soon as it can be gotten in order to publish the vote polled in the entire country. There are also a number of locals and state committees in arrears for campaign literature, lithographs, etc., and they are requested to promptly remit the amount of their indebtedness to the N. E. C.: comrades this is highly imperiant, so don't forget it.

Semi-annual report blanks are being forwarded to all locals which are to be filled out on January 1st next and sent to the national secretary before January 1st, 1961.

All of the above is respectfully submitted to the comrades of the S. D. P. for their earnest consideration and

It were lamentable indeed if this last effort to save the republic should fall to the ground, or if such un-selfish strivings against "the downfall of home and church and state" should be fruitless.

The most notable address of this annual meeting was the report of its president, Mrs. C. F. Corbin. She assured her audience that the members of their association 'are not in the field to bandy personalities or trivialities with anybody, but for the simple purpose of discussing calmly and fairly the relation of women to the state." She said:

We believe this question to be at this "We believe this question to be at this time one of the most important that can engage the attention of statesmen and politicians, as well as the people at large. It is a very serious fact that the doctrine of the industrial and political equality of women is an offshoot from the social democracy which uniformly insists that women shall be units and factors in the state equally with men

The influence of such teaching diffused through society is feit not only in the loosening of marriage lies and the neglect of home duties by a large class of our women, but in our legislative halfs, in the tendency to overlook the mission of the home, and do lay upon the state such burdens of support and control as belong primarily and indefeasibly to the parent.

Such tenets destroy the home at a blow, and the mutual relations between hasband and wife, of material dependence on the one hand and of affectionate and spiritual dependence on the one hand and of affectionate and spiritual dependence on the other, from which the ripest fruits of civilization, the ideals of duty, responsibility, purity and unselfashness flow, is utterly abrogated."

"For these great ends we believe that it is expedient that women should yield to men the reins of civil government, a government necessarily founded upon force, and accept in return the protection which in the hands of our fathers and brothers, our husbands and sons, it is sure to afford us, and such moral and spiritial influence as flows to us freely by the operation of the higher law of love."

It is rumored that Rockefeller is going into the newspaper business with the object of doing up Hearst. Perhaps the old king scents dangery in the "socialistic" editorials which appear from time to time in the journals of the latter. Anything savering of socialism is distasteful to the ruling class, even though it is used merely as "seasational" matter. Rockefeller knows the danger that exists in playing with fire.

An interesting fact shown by the report of Labor Commissioner Wright, ecently issued, on the subject of laboraving machinery is the enormous reduction in the cost of various kinds of nanufactured articles. The labor cost of making 100 pairs of men's cheap dots, which was formerly $408, is now $35, a reduction at a ratio of 12 to 1. The labor cost of 100 pounds of sewing otton, which was formerly $86.85, is now said to be only $1.89, or a ratio of is to 1.—The Advance

This gentleman, according to the oil upon a basis that would give it a New York World, has a plan by which these blessings can be procured for duced rates. All that is necessary is o put Mr. Taylor in possession of an automobile and the labor problem will he solved inside of five years. At least, that is what he says, and who should be better qualified to judge? Mr. Tayfor wants an automobile-not for himself-but for the benefit of "every business than and workingman's in the ommunity, and this is how he braces, the "public" for the wherewithal to procure it.

"To the public and lovers of cur

"To the public and lovers of our country." I am getting up a Gospel automobile to take the place of the chape car. I am of the opinion that if more work were done among the men in our ductories and railroad shoots and miles, among the men that still tod go to church, there would be LESS STRIKES MORE CONTENTED MEN AND HAPPIER HOMES and more insity men that we bear now. The chapet car can said go where the rails are laid, but the automobile is see about to build will be run by powerful engines and can go anywhere. I purpose to preach the Gospet to the men from the wagon and sen them Bibles and give thom such literature as will be a benefit to them.

'The outilt will cost about $2,090. It am asking all the rich and poor of the country to help in this work by sending me just what they feel dispased to send. If they send me onough for a complete outilt i will name the automobile after them. I want to put as many to work as I can this coming year."

number of young men now being trained in the Moody Institute will be fitted especially for this work.

The paper from which the above is extended refers to this plan as "the latest," which is a mistake. The special type of brain which evolves such schemes as this, is to say the least, not remarkable for originality, and a study of the features of the evangelist whose portrait is given above the arti-cle bears out this statement fully. The idea of a "Gospel automobile to prevent strikes," to quote the headline, is not at all original. It is by no means the first proposal to utilize the automobile for this purpose. More than a year ago the writer remembers actually secope of these machines undergoing settling strikes. He was working on the Northwestern elevated road out rolled swiftly into view. in a most attractive and elegant style, green cloth, gilt top, the very style desirable for a gift.

Socialism and Modern Science is our latest production of Eurico Perri's delightful literary works. This is another popular treatise on ectentific socialism with the aim, as the author says in his preface, "To point out, and to nearly all cases by rapid and concise observations, the general relations existing between contemporary socialism and the whole trend-of modern scientific thought."

The characteristic features of this valuable book are the scientific refutation of the many incorrect and insincere oppositions to the philosophy of Karl Marx, and the able manner in which Darwinism and socialism are analyzed, compared and proven to agree both in fundamental as well as in evolutionary phases,

Sociatism and Modern Science will be especially welcomed because it affords scientific solutions to the many misleading oppositions to social-

NEW YORK.

The Socialist Campaign Book of 1900.

The publication of this work marks an era in socialist propaganda. in America in that it places in the hands of every socialist worker the information and material necessary to his work in as attractive a form as the material hitherto only accessible to the capitalist parties, while at the same time this material has been illuminated and explained in the light of the socialist philosophy. This makes of the book at once a store-house of knowledge for the socialist speaker and agitator and the best propagandist work yet published, for it not only presents the doctrines of socialism in clear, convincing form, but accompanies the reasoning with the facts from which it is drawn in a manner that can but carry conviction to any unprejudiced mind.

The table of contents given herewith will give a good idea of the plan and scope of the work. The first two chapters are not simply a recital of isolated facts, but so correlate the historical data as to cause them to form a convincing argument of the trend of industrial development. The chapters on trusts bring out their two-fold characters. ter by which they mark at the same time a higher degree of economic development and a more intense exploitation of the producer. In "Labor's Demands and Capitalism's Answers" the efforts of organized labor to secure relief in "labor legislation" through capitalist parties is treated exhaustively and should prove a convincing argument with any trade-unionist for the necessity of independent political action along socialist lines. The chapter on "Wages and Living Expenses" is a careful examination of our present "prosperity" and a complete refutation of the claim that the laborers have shared in industrial advance. The discussion of 'How the Working Class written by one of the foremost students of this subject in this country, and embraces-much material hitherto unpublished. The last two chapters, on the "Capitalist Political Platforms" and "The Growth of Socialism," complete the line of argument furnished by the facts in the preceding chapters, making of the whole work a powerful brief for the cause of socialism.

THE SOCIALIST CAMPAIGN BOOK contains 150 pages and is handsomely printed on extra book paper with an artistic cover. The price, including postage to any address, is 25 cents; 5 copies, $1.00.

The largest and most important city vention of Socialists ever held in Chicago assembled last Saturday evening at Uhlich's hall, 27 N. Clark street. Delegates were present from thirtythree of the thirty-five wards of the city. A municipal platform was prepared and a ticket nominated for the city election, to be held next April. It was decided to go on the ballot in the spring election under the name Socialist party. In a session which lasted from o'clock in the evening until 2 o'clock Sunday morning, questions of vitat importance to the Socialist movement in Chicago and in the whole countrry were discussed and disposed of in an open and intelligent manner. When the business of the convention was finished the comrades went to their homes tired, sleepy, but enthusiastic, and carried with them the conviction that a great good had been done for the cause of socialism. The convention was held in pursuance of the call issued by the unity conference and mass meting held Nov. 18 at Brands Hall, at which Comrade George D. Herron delivered his now famous address on Socialist unity. This call provided for the complete reor-Chicago independent of any national executive authority. The ward was to be the basis of representation in the nvention, each ward being entitled to five delegates. Conventions were held and delegates elected in thirty-three out of the thirty-five wards of the city The two wards not represented, the third and the seventeenth, were handicapped in their organization by the shortness of the interval between the unity mass meeting and the convention. The 165 delegates composing the convention represent an enrolled membership of 922 in the thirty-three ward branches of section Chicago, Socialist

The convention was called to order at 8 o'clock by Comrade J. B. Smiley. Comrade T. G. Strickland was elected temporary chairman and Comrade Somerville temporary secretary. Com-rades J. S. Smith, August Klenke and J. B. Smiley were elected a committee on credentials. During the interval occupled by the committee examining credentials Comrade A. M. After a brief address, in which he urged the party membership to push the circulation of the party organ as the best way of making Socialist votes, a collection was taken up for the benefit of the "Work-the Cause;" Every voice in the hall joined in the ong. The occasion was inspiring to me who had the cause of socialism at heart. If there were any one present who was inclined to look with scorn upon the smallness of the Socialist novement he surely cannot have falled to have been impressed with the mar-rellous enthusiasm and untiring zeal of the Socialist. After the song some one started the "unity yell," and for some ninutes the roof was started by the omrades who chose this mode of announcing that they stood squarely and fairly for Socialist upity "then, now and all the time." Addresses were made by Comrade Kaplan of Massachusetts, and by Comrade Jos. Wanhope, editor of the Workers' Call.

When Comrade Mills concluded, the flelegates sang the marching song beginning:

In view of the fact that the municipal elections in Chicago are to take place in April, the Socialist party, in convention assembled, once more affirms its allegiance to the principles of international revolutionary socialism.

In calling upon the working, class to rally to the support of the principles of socialism, the Socialists wish to emphasize the fact so often reiterated, that until the complete triumph of the working class, which can only find expression in the overthrow of the capitalist system, be accomplished, any temporary palliatives must of necessity be partial and insufficient. Therefore, with this distinct understanding, we present the following immediate measures, which our candidates will enforce according to the amount of power conferred upon them, for the consideration of all workingmen who desire to achieve the emancipation of their class by means of the ballot:

1st. The employment of all unemployed citizens by the municipality shall furnish support and assistance to all workmen upon strike, and aid them with every public power which can be used to help them accomplish their object.

3rd. That school facilities be made adequate for every child of school age in the city of Chicago, including free books, clothing and meals, and that all children of school age in the city of Chicago, including free books, clothing and meals, and that all children of school age in the city of Chicago, including free books, clothing and meals, and that all children of school age shall be registered, and that there be a strict enforcement of the law prohibiting child labor by the municipality, the register to be in evidence, in all cases of violation of the law. That all systems of public education, adequate kindergarten and primary instruction be the first consideration, and that in the higher grades manual training be introduced wherever possible, not as a means of learning a trade, but as a means of learning a trade, but as a means of seducation.

That adequate medical and hos-are be provided free of cost by unicipality for the sick and in-

Pending the accomplishment of our ultimate purpose, we piedge every effort of the Socialist party for the immediate improvement of the condition of labor, and also for the securing of its progressive demands.

. THE CITY CONVENTION.

One hundred and sixty delegates, representing $3 out of 35 wards of the city of Chicago, met in convention last Saturday, at Ulich's hall, to prepare for by the fact that its deliberations lasted com 8 p. m., on Saturday evening until 2 a. m., Sunday morning, with scarcely over a dozen delegates leaving their seats. Its claim to represent the virile forces of socialism in this city is equally attested when it is considered that but two wards in the entire metropolitan district were unrepresented, and that in neither of them is there any Socialist organization whatever.

The platform adopted needs little comment. Suffice it to say that it expresses the principles of revolutionary socialism in as concise and distinct a manner as the collective knowledge of ling" may be inferred from the fact the convention could devise, and was that resolutions brought forward by ratified by an overwhelming majority of that body. It is not our intention to votes. The highest number ever before deny that the question of a municipal platform admits of much debate, and that many reasons well worthy of consideration can be given as to altering. amending, adding or taking from any platform yet framed, but nevertheless what has been determined by the great majority must be loyally adhered to-a statement which, after all, to the majority, of Socialists, is happily superfluous.

SOCIALISM AT LOUISVILLE.

American Federation of Labor at Louisville, Ky., are by no means calculated to reassure those who imagine that the working class will be content the bounds that capitalism has laid down. We have long been aware of the purpose underlying the press reports of the doings of labor organizations, and the accounts of how socialism received a "setback" at the hands of this or that body of organized workingmen, have become almost stereotyped in their repetition. Concerning the actions of the convention at Louisville the same course was pursued by the daily press. We were informed in prominent headlines that socialism was unanimously repudiated by that body although dethe coming municipal campaign. The class struggle will not be ignored. There is little use in crying peace, peace; when there is no peace.

The well meaning gentlemen who fill Steinway hall with their impotent oratory, might continue doing so for years without the slightest result. The specfacle of a number of supposedly intelli-'advisability" of doing things that they have no power to do, and at the same time upholding a social system the conditions of whose existence renders them powerless, is neither profitable nor entertaining. To check the revolt of the workers against social conditions which originate that revolt, without changing a comforting delusion. One would supthe economic structure of society, seems-like the efforts of the party who, ignoring or ignorant of the law of gravitation, attempted to lift himself into the air by his bootstraps. Steinway hall, however, was, we believe, built for the purpose of exercising the lungs, and perhaps is fulfilling its function.

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

We have it on the authority of Mr. J. V. Farwell, Jr., that the recently established State Pawners' society exists for three purposes, viz: the encouragement of self-reliance, self-respect and peting pawnbrokers to reduce their rate these qualities increase in proportion as interest on capital decreases, would such accurate knowledge. it not be reasonable to expect that the reduction of interest to the virilshing ing "self-respect" and "self-reliance" to rich man-far from it-but I now see the maximum? But the disassociation elevate character is an impossible conception for the capitalist class.

For example. Here is the preamble of a set of resolutions recently drafted for a local "business men's" association for the prevention of "vice," which appeared in the daily papers last week;

Realizing that the presence of VICE in our community DESTROYS THE VALUE OF PROPERTY AND REAL ESTATE, endangers the safety of our families and homes, and lowers the standard of moral and character, be it Resolved, That all respectable and law-abiding citizens of this community unite in organizing, etc., etc.

with "pusiness" in some particular locality. On the other hand when it con duces to rent, interest and profit, it is not only unobjectionable but eagerly sought after:

Some time ago a gentleman-we'll call him Jones, sithough that is not his name-sent forth a flat ordering all houses of ill fame to move from the East to the West Side. Why? Because he had houses and flats to rent over there, and the exodus would fill those houses and he would get rent.

Another "reformer" states that the business houses going into a certain down town district raised the price of property so high that the houses of ill fame were forced to move out. In this case it paid better to fleece laborers out of the product of their toil than to wait for monthly rents from houses of pros titution. So out went those who paid the least, and the "moral" character of the neighborhood was at once elevated

In a lecture before the Political gave it as her colnion that the public schools of the country were modeled too much after what is called in England, and that the schools were endeavoring to supply this demand." This is tantanount to saying that education today is terests of the capitalist class, a state ment which has over and over again been re-iterated by Socialists. The correctness of Miss Addam's observation are resolving themselves into appeals who recently remarked that so long for further organization of the workers as the American school system existed socialism would never dominate Amer . . .

President Mitchell of the Mine Work ers' union denounced the Socialists for interfering with the coal miners. He may be right so far as the DeLeonlies are concerned, but Socialists, usually the advisability of doing away with the workers that are not satisfied and never will be until they secure the full social value of their labor.

President Mitchell further says, that today our people earn as good wages as any of the crafts." That may also be true, but only two months ago official statements were made that the average wages of miners were less than $5 per week. They have since won an Increase of 10 per cent, and if that repgent people meeting to consider the resents as good wages as is earned in any craft, is it not time that we got together to secure what belongs to us?

The indignation shown by some members of the A. F. of L. when a Socialist in that body alluded to the working class as "wage slaves," is a curious illustration of how irritating a new truth may be when it comes in contact with pose that the resentful members would have sufficient reasoning power to perceive from their experience as workingmen that the word "wage slave" had at least some reason for coming into existence. They know that workingmen cannot employ themselves, that they have nothing, that they must ask permission to labor as their only means of supporting life, and that this permission may be witheld or refused as another party sees fit. Yet they are "Wonderful is this thou tellest of a free man with nought whereby to live."

In the "society" column of one of our daily papers the statement is made that ble argument, but the crowd goes home the securing of six per cent dividend And yet it is said that "one-half the world doesn't know how the other half tion it has compelled individual com- lives." Evidently the editor of this "society" column has been inquiring of interest, and consequently assist in into the preent condition of the working augmenting the "self-respect" and people and had discovered the item "self-reflance" of the community. CIRCULATION NOTES.

GENERAL MENTION.

The good work of the city convention last Saturday night has opened up the way for a season of Socialist propaganda the like of which has never been as seen in Chicago before. The petitions will be in the hands of the comrades by the time this edition gets to press. In a week or two haif a hundred speakers will be talking socialism all over the city. The fight next sprins will be to place the Socialist party on the official ballot in Chicago. This will be an easy matter if every comrade will do in it is an easy matter if every comrade will do it his duty. That the speakers will do their duty is assured. But the great bulk of propaganda work devolves on those who are not public speakers. Speakers are a good thing, but there is something else far more important than oratory. Literature, and first of all the party paper, must be circulated. This is work at which every comrade should take a hand. Roll up the circulation of the Workers' Cail to 25,000 and we will go on the official ballot in the spring with votes to spare. And remember, comrade, that you are individually responsible for those 25 or 20 subscribers which you can get, if you try, between this and April.

Say, comrade, have you any friend in mind to whom you confemplate giving a little Christmas present? You have? That is nice. There is nothing prettier than the good old custom of giving present have you in mind? Neckitle? Muffler? Gloves? Umbrella? Clway for a season of Socialist propaganda the like of which has never been retorts, that while this might be true, Equality League, Miss Jane Addams go on the official ballot in the spring of a present have you in mind? Neck-Muffler? Gloves? Umbrella? Cigars? You have not decided yet? Very well, let's talk about it. Two heads may be better than one. Three presents for one pay, how does that strike you? FIRST make your friend a pres-ent of a yearly subscription to the Workers' Call; SECOND, and at the ame time, in all probability you make your party a present of a new adherent; and THIRD, we make you a present of the Socialist Campaign Book for 1900. Now! Doesn't that jar you into activity?

On the eleventh day of March, nineteen hundred and one, the Workers' Call will start on its third year of pub-Beation. It will have put behind it two years of hard work for the cause of socialism in Chicago. During these two years the movement has grown from insignificance into a prominence which commands respect. No one will deny that the Workers' Call has been the chief instrument in bringing about this state of affairs. The movement has now reached a point in its development when the necessity for enlarging the size and scope of the paper has become imperative. The Workers' Call-should start in its third year as a seven in stead of a six column folio. This will lengthen each page about three inches and add four new columns, making in all an addition the size of one page of the Call in its present form. We are sure that every comrade who reads this desires the change. However, it is impossible to make the improvement with the present circulation. If every comwill put his shoulder to and push the circulation of the Workers' Call up to the 25,000 mark, the change will be made March 1, 1901. Comrades fill your pockets with Workers' Call postals and work for a beter paper.

So you are a Socialist too? Are you a speaker? No? Well, that's good. We cannot all be speakers. Besides the speakers' opportunities are restricted. He spell binds his audience perhaps with his eloquence and his unansweara. and forgets all about it. The speaker's arguments need to be supplemented by six months reading of some Socialist paper. Pushing circulation of "the party press is the important thing after all. Bring your man to hear a Socialist speak and you perhaps will get him started towards socialism, but make him subscribe for six months to a Socialist paper and you have got him good and fast. Have you any Call postals in your pocket?

PERSONAL MENTION.

Five dollars worth of postals go to Comrade L. H. Edmiston at Riverside.

In the face of these facts, we feel it our duty towards those affiliated with your committee, to define once 'more our attitude on the issues between us. Comrades, we are for the union of the Socialist forces of this country today, as strongly and unqualifiedly as we were ever since the joint unity committee adjourned. We are willing to forget the many unpleasant incidents of the past, we are ready to surrender our mandates, offices and organization to the entire membership of the Social Democratic party represented at the joint convention, and we demand the same of you. Women to the Rescue

A New Society Organized to "Save the Republic."

By LAURA WILLARD TAFT

The element of time being eliminated, the remaining charge against the suffragists is that a woman's ballot would overthrow the home." This is so interesting and startling a charge that it requires special investigating. If it be true, here is an end of all the fine things that have been written on the "native delicacy and refinement of women" and their "instinctive love of the home," If the opportunity to do as they please would overthrow inborn traits, their heredity cannot extend very far.. A love of home which vanishes with the deposit of a bit of paper cannot be very instinctive. One would like to think that the things supposed best in women would not disappear with the opportunity freely to choose their own life. If one is to believe Mrs. Corbin, our present civilization stands above an abyss into which it is re strained from- falling by the veriest shell-work of legal structure.

But let us go into details. What evidence is there of this threat of the ballot to destroy the home? Were our means of information limited to the address we are now considering, we would infer that the mere intellectual belief in the wisdom of universal suffrage, to say nothing of the opportunity to act on such belief, is accompanied in the homes of its holders by a display of ignorant, ragged and unwashed children, of absent or unloved husbands, of supperless tables, vacant walls, unswept floors and quarrelsome wives. What are the facts regarding the women who have been identified with this movement for suffrage during the past forty years? Their record is not far to seek. One calls to mind the winsome Quaker presence of Lucretia Mott, the sweet and persuasiveness of Lucy Stone, the gentle loving-kindness of Lydia Maria Child, the gracious personality of Elizabeth Cady Stanton. Susan B, Anthony is still living, with her clear brain, her wide sympathy, her unfailing cheer, her love for little children, her sturdy common sense. The homes of all of these women were abodes of "sweetness and light." Not only did they work for a larger human liberty for their own sex, but they were ploneers were interested in factory legislation and the correction of prison abuses; they- were concerned for the better sanitation of cities; they used their influence against war between nations; they were influential in improving the quality and extensiveness of the public school: particularly did they have care that the minds and bodies of little children should be rightly developed and that they should inherit a sound physique. The bomes where ignorance and squalor and quarrels prevail are the homes of suffragists, but of people who perhaps have scarcely-heard be-where children are left to the care of nurses or placed in a "children's while their mothers are occupled in dressing and dining, are again not the homes of suffragists, "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth," and a love for the largest things so expands the mind that it is able to put little things low and high things high and to enter with little difficulty into the cherished plans of its dear ones. "Purity of the home.". . What does picked up a lump and exclaimed: "What clean dirt!" It seems an error less natural than that of the little girl when that home is called the purest in which purity of motive on the part of both husband and wife is most distinctly absent. Surely the husband who them-either mentally or physically." stays in the home only because sure of the law compels him, or the wife who stays because she must or because unable to make a living-might seek for higher motives, if not for purer. adequate motive for the making and keeping of a home is the mutual tain such love and trust is worth ah the time and thought and study which been put upon marriage-and more. It cannot be bought by money or position or by physical beauty. Bu won, every grace of lintellect on spirit, every impulse of loving fancy, to strengthen its bonds. The homes in which it flourishes are homes of peace and confidence and constant growth. When husbands and wives so love each other, every intellectual gain of either, every progress in mental unfolding, is a source both of joy and of growth to prived of fishes!-There is no danger. such companionship, and no hint of out of water insures the absense of new joy. No. logic, have fallen back upon that in-stinct which they are fond of telling existence; which excites contempt or us is superior to reason in their sex. pity of friends. The secret of all this concern to "pro- women of the industrial class are those tect women from the ballot" is found in that portion of the address which re. of a noble home. It is true that women lates to socialism. In the realization of this class do not willingly call them-that no form of liberty can long re-I hope they have not yet presumed to call themslves "individualists." They have at least the instinctive consciousness that the Socialist is the only true individualist, and that in the freedom of the individual which would come through socialism is found the deathknell of that authoritarianism and compulsion which they would fain maintain. The very essence of the fear of socialism is distrust of the individual. Socialism is not merely the reviintegrity of the individual. Socialism, by so organizing production as to secure to each individual the satisfaction of physical needs with a minimum of time and effort, would set free to perocialism do not trust such freedom. 'Men will refuse to work at all," they ation." Perhaps the enemies of soracy is a mistake. Perhaps the past pany are obliged to be absent from can always tell better than the future their homes thirteen hours every day, how the future ought to act. But if so, in the anti-slavery movement; they let us not deceive ourselves by calling this doctrine-"individualism." Let us label it "slavery," fairly and honestly, and let us say that slavery is right.

I have never talked with an opponent of socialism who has not admitted, of work through amalgamation with a in the last analysis, that his fear of socialism came from his distrust of the individual-what he was pleased to call in a union or "interference in politics." his "human nature." If would appear that this same auman nature is quite safe when compelled from without, but sure to go wrong when guided from within.

And so one comes back to the woman uestion and finds it one with that of the word. And the homes-if such they labor and of human freedom in all time.

"Do not give this people liberty; they will not know how to use it."

"Do not shorten the workingman's hours of labor; he will spend and the extra time in the saloon."

"Do not increase wages; this will but give more money for drink."

"Do not give women freedom of occupation; you will destroy all incentive to marriage."

"Do not open to them the suffrage; purity mean? I remember a little girl, they will lose their own purity and de-playing with me in the sand, who stroy that of the home and state."

It is the old, old, doctrine of Original But there have been even Socialists nome. "We would gladly give her other nome. In the presence of facts such as these, one may look with interest on the recent awakening of Belgian Socialists to the importance of such exension of the suffrage as shall include both men and women. The existence of any large portion of a population, ignorant of its social duties and irreenonsible for their exercise, is danger ous to the liberties of every fellow citizen. No wonder that those distrust. ful of human freedom hre fearful lest this example of Belgium shall be imitated in America. Mrs. Corbin points with both pride and dismay to the fulwomen. A Successful Opening. The night school of political eco established by Walter Thomas vas opened last Thursday, December 13th in the Schiller building. About 250 pupils attended the initial lesson of the course, and seemed most willing and apt learners. Almost everyone present had confe provided with note book and pencil and used them without stint. Not content with making notes the eager pupils frequently interrupted the speaker with inquiries as to parts of the subject on which they wished repetitions and explanations on points which had been previously made. thirst for knowledge thus displayed is in the highest degree indicative of the attitude of the younger generation toeconomic conditions They feel instinctively, as it were, that everything is not exactly as it should be, in spite of capitalist assurances to the contrary, and Compade Mills is wel qualified to bring 'to their notice the nature, structure and working of modern society, and the logical deduction

The fear expressed by one of our contemporaries that our open ward conventions would result in our becoming a prey to politicians has not been realized. Ward conventions were enthusiastically acbeen realized. The officers of Union No. 100 also pointed out the fact that while the union has been held, and will the movement is entirely in the hands of a revolutionary Socialist membership.

The Socialists throughout the state are assuming an activity which speaks well for the future of the movement. FOREIGN NEWS.

The energetic comrades of the Twenty-Fourth Ward branch have secured new and commodious beadquarters at 52 Wells street, where lecture meetings will be regularly held until May lat, on every Wednesday and Saturday evening at 8 p. in. Good speakers will be provided for the entire course, and the comrades have evidently made up their minds that the situation requires tall hustling and they have started in to make it. Business meetings will be held every Wednesday evening after the lecture concludes. The old quarters at 59 N. Clark street were found too limited to accommodate this vigorously growing branch, and so the removal to 52 Wells street was determined upon. The energetic comrades mined upon.

The meetings held by the Fifteenth Ward branch, at their hall, 543 Arminge avenue, continue to grow. At every meeting the andience grows larger and the interest deeper. It promises good for the Fifteenth ward, and the comrades throughout the city must not be surprised, if the first Sooialist member to the council comes from this section of the city. At last Friday's meeting Comrade Mills made a very eloquent address on the subject, "Savagery, Civilization and Socialism." He was stirring, convincing and touching, sowing the seeds of socialism in the fearts of many of his hearers, and making many of the comrades take hold in their work with more zeal and determination. At Sunday night's meeting Miss Mary Collson of Hull House, spoke on the "Ethics of Socialism." A string quartet infuses new life into the campaign carried on by the Fifteenth Ward branch.

Cigarmakers' Union No. 100 Is Relieved From Financial Difficulties and Feels Good About It.

The regular weekly meeting of Cigarmakers' Union No. 100, held Friday evein ing. November 23rd, will long be re-m-membered by the membership, as the action taken refieves the members an enormous financial burden, and they are correspondingly happy.

In the financial report of May, 1900, issued by the Cigarmakers' International Union of America, there was charged against Union No. 100, $5,294.39. as deficit to the International union. which in large part was a relic of the great strike in Philadelphia in 1894.

It was shown by the officers of Union No. 100 that $134.23 charged by financler J. C. Dernell was an error, though the correction was never permitted to appear in the official journal), and is now admitted by the international president by letter; also, that $780.97 fost in the Chestnut street bank failure was wrongfully charged against us in the international office, and later admitted.

A committee of 21 appointed by the union in 1897 to conduct a lyceum and reading room for all trades unionists known as the United Trades association, submitted their report, and stated that in agreement with J. Mahlon Barnes they were prepared to liquidate the entire deficiency of Union No. 100,

The dock laborers' strike in Antwerp is assuming large proportions. It is estimated that over 20,000 men are out. The coal men have joined the strikers and business is almost suspended, very few outsiders having taken the places of the strikers, who are said to be behaving in an orderly manner. It is said that the employers are bringing men from England to take the places of those on strike. Rotterdam is also reported to be benefiting by the conditions in Antwerp.

The Socialists have decided to intro-duce several bills in the Italian parliament. One relates to the labor of women and children, one on the municipalization of public works, and one proposes to abolish the iniquitous system of the "domicilio coatto," by which without trial and compel them to live in other places.

The "Avanti" has been comparing the amount of money spent on elementary education by Italy and by Switzerland. Though Switzerland has only a population of 3,000,000, she spends 000,000 fr. a year; while Italy, with a population of over 30,000,000, only spends 0,000,000 fr, for the same purpose

Sicily has a population of about 3,ending school. The result is that in Sicily over 82% per cent'of the populaion are liliterate, whilst in Switzerland it is only 16 per cent. such change was unnecessary. The Washington street board they contended, had no legal right to the name, and such right they argued could be refuted in the courts. The debate in favor of changing the name to Sociadst party was led by Comrade Klenke and Somerville. These comrades conclusively explained the reasons why the name

Comrade Klenke gave a brief resume of the events which led up to the unity mass meeting. He showed in a concise and forcible manner the suspicious and unsocialistic attitude of the parties at 126 Washington street in regard to unity. It was palpable he said that they were taking steps to put a-municipal ticket in the field. If the convention of united Socialists proceed under the name. Socal Democratic party, there must necessarily come a clash in the capitalist courts a few days before election, which would most probably result in their retaining the name. To avoid this probability, which would be most unfortunate for the class-con-scious Socialist movement in Chicago, the safest course was to adopt the name Socialist party-the only logical name and henceforth to agitate indefatigably for socialism

When the vote was finally taken or this proposition there were not more than two or three dissenting voices,

It was past two o'clock when all the business before the convention was disposed of. The delegates departed for their homes, and the most memorable convention of Socialists ever held in Chicago was a matter of history. The feat the plans of government. He forcomrades have since been busy predicting the possible results. It is argued, that with the splendid new organization, with its active membership gaining day by day, it will be an easy mat-ter for the new Socialist party to gain a place on the official ballot in Chicago in the April election. Here therefore we have an almost omplete exposure of the modern method of accumulation at the end of the century. It consists mainly, as Mark foresaw, (long before John A. "SOCIALISM AND MODERN SCIENCE."

in a most attractive and elegant style, green cloth, gilt top, the very style desirable for a gift.

Socialism and Modern Science is our latest production of Enrico Ferri's delightful literary works. This is another popular treatise on scientific socialism with the aim, as the author says in his preface, "To point out, and in nearly all cases by rapid and concise observations, the general relations existing between contemporary socialism and the whole trend of modern scientific thought."

The characteristic features of this valuable book are the scientific refutation of the many incorrect and insincere oppositions to the philosophy of Karl Mark, and the able manner in which Darwinism and socialism are analyzed, compared and proven to agree both in fundamental as well as in evolutionary phases.

Socialism and Modern Science will be especially welcomed because it affords scientific solutions to the many misleading oppositions to social-

The appendix contains the author's reply to a letter of Herbert Unflinching Advocate of Spencer and to an anti-socialist book of M. Garofalo. "It shows that the present state of social science, and of the struggle between ultra-conservative orthodoxy, which is blinded to the sad truths of contemporary life by its traditional syllogism and innovating heterodoxy which is ever becoming more marked among the learned, as well as strengthening its hold upon the collective intelligence.

The price of Socialism and Modern Science is one dollar. To make this book a popular Christmas gift we offer the Eighteenth Brumaire. INTERNATIONAL LIBRARY PUBLISHING CO.

The Socialist Campaign Book of 1900.

CONTENTS.

The publication of this work marks an era in socialist propaganda in America in that it places in the hands of every socialist worker the information and material necessary to his work in as attractive a form as the material hitherto only accessible to the capitalist parties, while at the same time this material has been illuminated and explained in the light of the socialist philosophy. This makes of the book at once a store-house of knowledge for the socialist speaker and agitator and the best propagandist work yet published, for it not only presents the doctrines of socialism in clear, convincing form, but accompanies the reasoning with the facts from which it is drawn in a manner that can but carry conviction to any unprejudiced mind.

The table of contents given herewith will give a good idea of the plan and scope of the work. The first two chapters are not simply a recital of isolated facts, but so correlate the historical data as to cause them to form a convincing argument of the trend of industrial development. The chapters on trusts bring out their two-fold character by which they mark at the same time a higher degree of economic development and a more intense exploitation of the producer. In "Labor's Demands and Capitalism's Answers" the efforts of organized labor to secure relief in "labor legislation" through capitalist parties is treated exhaustively and should prove a convincing argument with any trade-unionist for the necessity of independent political action along socialist lines. The chapter on "Wages and Living Expenses" is a careful examination of our present "prosperity" and a complete refutation of the claim that the laborers have shared in industrial advance. The discussion of "How the Working Class Live" is written by one of the foremost students of this subject in this country and embraces much material hitherto unpublished. The last two chapters, on the "Capitalist Political Platforms" and "The Growth of Socialism," complete the line of argument furnished by the facts in the preceding chapters, making of the whole work a powerful brief. for the cause of socialism.

THE SOCIALIST CAMPAIGN BOOK contains 150 pages and is handsomely printed on extra book paper with an artistic cover. The price, including postage to any address, is 25 cents; 5 copies, $1.00.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Three Cents Per Day After the Age of Seventy Is Reached.

A POWERFUL "INCENTIVE,"

Its Adoption An Admission of the Robbery and Pauperism of the Workers Under Capitalism.

As the working class gradually begin to perceive the truth of the statement that labor produces all wealth, and as this perception shows signs of materfallzing in political action, so in like manner the ruling class begin to see the necessity of compromises, which they hope will retard the coming of the when millions of workingmen demand the full product of their labor, and make that demand through the medium of the ballot.

Just at present the scheme known as the "old age pension system" is becoming a matter for consideration amongst the possessing classes, and already one railroad company has estab-lished an arrangement of this sort some years ago. Another, the Chicago and Northwestern, is about to follow suit, and has just drafted a plan for pen-sioning its employes, the outlines of which have recently appeared in the daily papers.

capitalist is a capitalist-for the benefit of the working class," as Marx cynically declares, and like every other scheme ever invented, this particular pension system of the Chicago and Northwestern is heralded as an enor-mous boon to the railroad men for which they should be eternally grateful. A glance over the provisions of this philanthropic scheme, (which by the bye, is said to be modeled closely after that adopted by the Pennsylvania railroad company), will show that the owners of the road expect their employes to be thankful for small, (very small), mercies.

The best knowledge and ability that the officials and managers of the road could devise, to quote the President Hughitt, produced the folwing generous scheme, according to the press report:

Any employe who is between 65 and 69 years of age who has been thirty years in the employ of the road, and who is disabled in service, will receive a pension of 1 per cent per month for the last ten years of his service with the company the last ten years of his service with the company.

Any employe who has seached the age of 70 years, and who has been thirty years in the employ of the company, will be retired upon a pension of 1 per cent a month esculated upon the monthly rate of war paid him for the last ten years of his service with the company.

Working in harmony with this plan is another rule of the company that it will not employ any man over 35 years of age.

It is hardly necessary to analyse this offer to show that it amounts practically to nothing. The reader may be left to judge for himself as to the per-centage of railroad operatives, brakemen, switchmen, firemen, engineers, etc.; who constitute the great bulk of the employes, who attain the age of 70 years. A little calculation will also serve to show that a man earning $50 per month during his last ten years of service would be entitled to six dollars per year, a trifle over one cent and a half per day. However, as it is the best that the knowledge and ability at the disposal of the company could pro-vide, it may be pased over without furpect nothing from the capitalist class.

As might be expected, the press comments upon this scheme are invariably also might be expected, they show a gence of the working class, in attempt-ing to make this beggarly gift appear most ridiculously false assumptions can any scruple about adopting them. The necessity for deceiving the working parcel of the existence of the capitalist press, that every succeeding falsehoo generally more barefaced than the As a proof of this, the following this subject is here inserted:

Here we have two most astounding assertions. The first implies that it average employe on the Chicago at Northwestern thirond earns 1100 per month, and that they will continue to earn this sum up to the age of 70 years nected), implies the probability of the whole 27,000 reaching this age and qual-trying for a pension of 2 cents per day.

We venture to say that if amongst workingmen, there is a majority so utterly imbecile as to accept these im-plied statements for facts. the advent of socialism might be postponed for

But it is not to be supposed that this generous provision for old age is to be made without due compensation for the philanthropic donors, the parties who magnaminously "give, employment." They expect that the employe himself will, by increased attention to their business, "probably" earn the extra sum to which he is entitled after reaching the allotted three score and ten. After stating that thinking men have conluded that the pension system is both "wise and humane," the editorial pro-seeds as follows: "It," (meaning the prospective three cents per day).

tends to promote loyalty to the "tends to promote loyalty to the employing firm and to encourage faithful service. An employe who has a definite reward of this sort to look forward to is more likely to try to keep his position by doing conscientions work, and by his increased efficiency he will probably earn the extra amount to be received by him when his working days are over."

It may be justly observed that the "wisdom" of this proceeding (from the capitalist point of view) is considerably more evident than the 'humanity." Socialism cannot present any such "incentive" to work as is here set forth. The entire product of labor for the laborer would inevitably lead to laziness and demoralization, while the very uncertain prospect of two or three cents per day, after the age of seventy, is expected to spur him into increased constant activity. The bait is hardly large enough to conceal the hook, but the experienced fishermen seem confident that the gudgeons are not very particular as to what they bite

These so-called "old age pension schemes are in reality a confession by the capitalist class that the wage system is no longer adequate to the means of present society. It is an admission which directly antagonizes the theory so often put forward, that the working class can, by the exercise of thrift, sobriety, prudence, economy and other alered victues, secure by their own labor sufficient to keep them in existence when their services are no longer profithe exploiter. The chattel slave ed by age, was by law entitled to sub-sistence for the rest of his life. The first meeting of the Provisional City Central Committee of the Socialist arty took place last Saturday night at Jung's Hall, 106 E. Randolph street. The delegates to this body were elected along with the delegates to the city convention, at the various ward conventions held three weeks ago, in accordance with the call issued at the unity mass meeting at Brand's Hall, on intend to establish will "keep in touch ventions held three weeks ago, in ac-October 18. Thirty-three out, of the thirty-five wards of the city are represented in the Provisional committee. The meeting Saturday night was for the purpose of formulating a constituparty, the new political organization formed by the united Socialist forces of Chicago at their city convention held December 15, at Ulich's Hall.

The meeting was called to order by City Organizer August Klenke, Comrade J. B. Smiley was elected temporary secretary. Comrades A. Somerville R. A. Morris and August Klenke wers elected a committee on credentials. Their report having been accepted and the delegates seated, the following comrades were elected a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws: F. W. Knox, E. Richter, A. Bisno, F. G. Strickland, Jas. S. Smith and R. A. Morris.

While the committee were occupied drafting the constitution addresses vere made by Comrade Pete Curran of London, England, and by Comrades Walter Thomas Mills, Jone Collins and Thos. J. Morgan. Comrade Curran's address was of especial interest because it dealt with the progress of sorialism in Great Britain and explained the tactics of the English Socialists in regard to trade unions. Comrade Curran has been identified with the Social ist movement in Great Britain for a number of years and is also a prominent trade unionist. He was a fraternal delegate to the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor from the Federated Trades of London. Since the convention adjourned he has been traveling under the auspices of the National Executive committee of Social Democratic party with headquarters at Springfield, Mass.

Inquisitive Socialist Wants to Know How the "Consent of the Governed"

Applies to Georgia.

Sir:'Having noticed in the daily press an announcement that you intended in the near future to establish a newspaper called The Commoner, I take the liberty of hoping that you will, in the first is with social, economic and political problems," you will doubtless see at once distinctly inside these categories. It has during the time that you were making your presidential campaign been proposed for your consideration, more than once, but on no occasion have you attempted to answer it. You have, on the other hand, invariably evaded or flippantly dismissed this question by referring to matters with which it had no connection.

There is one plank in the Kansas City platform which affirms that no country should be ruled "without the consent of the governed." In other words it means that every man shall have the fight to express himself at the ballot box as to whom he prefers as official in town, city, state, or nation. Now, I wish to call your attention to the fact that in Democratic states and by Democratic officials, black men have been deprived of this right. You know this. You knew it when questioned about it during your eampaign speeches. If you are competent to explain it, and show that it is consistent with the aforesaid plank, let me hope that you will do so in the first issue of The Com-

These black men have been disfranchised upon the flimsy pretext of a so-called "educational test,", which means that if a man cannot read or write, he disqualfied as a voter.

Now, sir, if these people are ignorant hose fault is it? Whose province is it to furnish opportunity for the education of the people? Is it not the function of the state? I think you will hardly deny that this is so.

· Do you know that the school system in most southern states is most painfully inadequate to furnish opportunity for the education of a very large proportion of black people?

You do. Every sane man does. If you are at all interested in "social, ecoomic and political problems" this fact cannot have escaped your notice.

Let me, however, call your attention their power. o an article which appeared in the "Outlook" for December, dealing with the large employers of labor a chance this matter. It deals with educational to be diplomatic with their men. and out of state, one worth of school property controlled by county boards only $69,000 worth was used for negro schools. In other words, out of every dollar spent the white children received eighty cents and the colored children but twenty cents. In part, of course, this difference was due to the inability of negroes to keep their children in school as many years as the whites, but in still larger part, it was due to the providing of poorer buildings for the negroes, the paying of smaller salaries to their teachers, and the crowding of nearly twice as many children into each class. These discriminations against the weaker race, however, do not satisfy the Senate committee, which recommends the adoption of the proposed amendment. At the present time, we are informed by Professor Du Bois, the state school fund of Georgia is made up as follows:

Georgia is made up as follows:
Poll taxes.
Levy of 2 1-10 mills on all taxable property...
Indirect taxes from State allotted the share it actually contritutes of the indirect taxes, it would stirrective as much as now; but, as the memorial puts it, "The pending bill is more unfair than this, for it proposes to give the negro no share at all of the income from the state rallroad on which he rides, from state fees which he helps to pay, or from the income from liquor and convicts, to which he contributes too largely, and by which many of his white fellow citizens profit."

Now, sir, in defending the Democratic party do you defend the action of Georgia Democrats in this respect? Do you believe in the righteousness of an "educational test" to determine the question of whether a citizen shall have the right to vote, when the opportunity for eduis deliberately witheld from those those who have been marked by Democratic officials for disfranchise ment? Does this tally with your idea of the "consent of the governed?"

What have you got to say about it? Don't tell us what the Republicans have been guilty of. We know that they suc, answer the question which is here have remained and will remain passive while the "Democrats" work their own sweet will upon the southern negroes but their guilt does not absolve you. Answer the question-if you can. You that the inquiry which I make falls have heretofore dodged it. Now that you have leisure, and an organ in which to express your views there is no reason why a straightforward answer may not be reasonably expected from you

Labor organizations are now inviting black men into their unions on an equal footing. Is this democratic? If so, how does it agree with "Democracy" in

I await with interest the appearance of the first issue of The Commoner to see if you have sufficient courage and honesty to deal with the question. Respectfully,

PHASES OF GIFT-GIVING.

How It is Prostituted to the Service of Cap talist Profit Making Its "Diplomatic" Side.

There are some things which the apltalist press laugh down and others which they laugh up, according to their interests. One of the customs which is laughed up is the custom of gift-giving at Christmas-time. All kinds of jokes are sprung about shopping in crowded stores; the anxiety occasioned in selecting presents and the angulah of receiving unbecoming wearing apparel: the discussions as to the desirability of continuing the Santa Claus delusion with the children, and hundreds of other matters invident to the custom are brought up and disposed of in a humorous vein, resulting finally in the triumph of the old customs. Some sensible people resolve that the whole proceeding is a farce and conclude to be out of it, but before the day dawns the newspapers, through ads and otherwise, have succeeded in changing their minds and with the thought "why not be with the crowd," they fall from grace and patronize the counter. Of course this thing pays the newspapers, (the moulders of public opinion), and so they keep the old thing up as much as it is in Another group of individuals who are keenly alive to the existence of these abuses clamor loudly for the abolition of all law. It is needless to say that they also have effected nothing

And lastly another portion of the community hold that these manifestations are but the results of class rule. That the law, like all other institutions, rests upon an economic basis, and that in a state of society where the institution of private property in the means of urbduction is the foundation, the law must inevitably become the instrument of the possessing class and be made to subserve their interests mainly. They hold, in short, that the law is but the

When referred to in words of learned length and thunderous sound they may be more or less effective in inducing the ignorant voter to support the party that puts them forward. Outside of this they have no value.

In the face of the tremendous indus trial development of today it was inconceivable that the Democratic party could have taken any other position than that which they occupied in the last election. The crushing out of the middle class, which was evidenced althe introduction of improved machinery of production, the increasing bankrupt. cy of the small, capitalists, the discharges of multitudes of salesmen and other unproductive laborers, was too palpable to be ignored. Had the Demoeratic party followed the advice of leveland, and confined itself to "eternal principles" and other dead issues, its defeat would have been still more disastrous.

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

Reports from the big department stores on State street as to business conditions during Christmas week show that year by year the chances of the small distributor grow continually less. The latter may make up their minds to eccept the inevitable. It is useless to howl for the abolition of the depart. ment store or for restrictive legislation to hamper its operations. The public undoubtedly feel that the departnent store provides better service, and therefore patronize it in crowds, in is exactly as it should be spite of any sentiment which the small business man may have succeeded in creating against it. The improved machine, whether of production or distribution is certain to succeed its more antiquated competitors, a truth which the owners of the latter will soon completely realize.

It is not hapossible that the results of the Cudahy kidnapping episode may open up a new channel of industry which, perhaps, will absorb some of the "unemployed." The occupation of guarding the children of the wealthy lasses promises to become an extensive industry in the near future, if the success of the thieves who abducted Cudahy's boy, serves to stimulate others to follow their example, as it almost certainly will. The beginning of another class of unproductive laborers is Pity the woes of the wealthy. Miss Alta Rockefeller tells a reporter that because of her riches she is unhappy, and the news is at once cabled from Vienna to the United States for the instruction and reproof of those who might be inclined to envy the daughter of the Standard oil monarch. The latlating the wealth which brings sorrow to his offspring, and the lajest exploit in this direction, is according to the press, the acquisition of a glucose plant which will be capitalized at $10,000,000 while the so-called "January disbursewill add about $2,000,000 more to the already enormous burden. Miss Rockefeller's grief will shortly become unbearable if this process continues

Wealth does not necessarily bring happiness, but poverty certainly creates misery. This maudlin rot about the woes of the exploiting class should be knocked on the head at once. It is used chiefly to create a spurlous sympathy amongst the victims of capitalist exploitation, so that in the presence of the alleged sorrow of their despoilers they may forget their own. Miss Rockefeller may perhaps be unhappy. nevertheless she is in nossession of the of which happiness is impossible, and to the lack of which may be justly ascribed the misery and despair of millions of human beings in this, the clos-

Another feature of this matter is peraps worthy of attention. In the published list of firms which are described s being so kindly disposed to their employes, few if any will be found who employ organized labor. The organized worker, through his union, to a great extent relieves the boss of the necessity of giving him a Christmas turkey. He endeavors to collect that part as he goes along. And the boss on his side recognizes this effort, and invariably considers himself absolved from the duty of almsgiving, so far as his union employes are concerned.

Now and then very distinct instances of the enmity of the employers towards organized labor in this respect occur. A few years ago the owner of the New York Stants Zeltung, Mrs. Oswald Ottendorfer, departed this life. In her will it was found that small legacies, ranging between $50 and $100, had been pequeated to employes on that paper, who had been with the firm a certain number of years, and whose wages had cluded the members of the Typograph. ical union, who had been employed on the paper. "WHAT IT WOULD MEAN." Hanna Wants the Shipping Subsidy Bill Passed in the Interest of the

As an argument in favor shipping subsidy bill. Mark Hanna is quoted as follows, in the daily press:

"Unemployed."

"We must either find foreign markets We must either and foreign markets for our surplus products," Mr. Hanna declared, "or we must curtail our pro-ductions of agriculture and manufac-tures one-third. Think what that would mean. It would mean the throwing out of employment of thousands and teris of thousands of men and the consequent of thousends of men and the consequer increased competition for employment

When Hanna was out spellbinding previous to November 6, he didn't tell the workingmen that their "full dinnerpail" could only be made possible by subsidizing the capitalist ship owners. It was then contingent only on the success of the Republican party. But why does Hanna think that "increased competition for employment" is something desirable? Doesn't he believe in the competitive system? Doesn't he know ployment" makes the laborer cheaper and the capitalists profit greater? And how is that an evil thing from his point of view? Editor of the Workers' Cail:—
Dear Compade:—I hope that you will pardon my long delay in replying to your kind favor of the 8th, as I have been very busy. It was with some surprise that I read the clipping from the Chicago Times-Heraid, of the 8th wherein Mark Hanna quotes the Roman Catholic church as the adversary of socialism. I did not know that the Roman Catholic church had abandoned the cause of the great common people and sanctioned the usurpations of capitalism, till I learned it from the Ohio senator. The Catholic church is established on the Bible, and Christ, her founder, was a Socialist. The infant that has appeared in many years. The revolvition in modern thought, die chiefly to the researches and generalizations of Darwin and Spencer has, up to the present been most marked in those departments of knowledge which were generally held not to be in direct conflict with the fabric of capitalist civilization. In fact a sort of belief had made its appearance, fostered no doubt by the spokesmen of the ruling clasges, that the facts upon which Darwin and Spencer formulated their theories of evolution in biology and ethnology, such as the natural inequalities of individuals in wants and -capitities, the siruggle for existence, the survival of the nitreat etc., tend to dravivy the spokesmen of Socialist philosophy and render the realization of Socialist seasociety impossible.

It is to combat these conclusions that the great Italian criminologist enters the lists. With a wealth of learning and a keenness of reasoning, which gives evidence of a thorough study of the subject. empt to Discredit the Ballot As .
Political Wespon in the Hands of the Working Class.

Under the heading, "Labor Deliberat ing." the Tribune recently printed a rather remarkable editorial. It began by stating that the address of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor "contained three features of special interest." The three features are given as, first: the spread of labor organization within the last year, show ing a net gain of 3,027 local unions and an increase of 294,329 members; second. the increasing centralization of business managements, which necessitates increasing combination among employes, for, "the large concern is a more formidable, antagonist for employes to deal with than a small concern" and every stage of advance in the 'association' of capital naturally implies a corresponding advance in the 'associa-tion' of labor:" third, President Gomper's warning note to organized labor to shun the idea of compulsory arbitration, he advising that the "convention should emphatically and without any ambiguity declare its position" in the matter. The third feature comes in for a correct sizing up by the Tribune as indicating "the deap-seated suspicion" which exists "on the part of organized labor towards the courts or toward a proposal for any similar governmental body." Then comes an effort to sidetrack the logical course which organized labor ought to pursue in view of the fact of their having good grounds for their suspicion of the courts and similar gov. ernmental bodies." 'It says that sentiments expressed in advising against the idea of compulsory arbitration show "a consciousness that political action . . . is a disappointing experiment in the hands of labor," and then as if it so had settled the matter for the unions, it would have the unions believe that they (the unions), "virtually assert" by their attitude on compulsory arbitration. "that, despite its theoretical advantages, political organization is less available at the present time than organization," and that they place conciliation and the strike above the ballot as effective agencies." If the comments of the Tribune refer to the participation by the unions in capitalist politics, its advice, given under cover of its interpretation of the sentiments of organized labor, is good-that as effective agencies conciliation and the strike go above the ballot. But that the Tribune sees of another form of political organization, where the ballot is

Tribune sees of another form of political cal organization, where the ballot is the most effective agency, is evidenced by the following paragraph:

It cannot be denied that this preference challenges the too frequent tendency to attribute unlimited capabilities to political action and suggests doubts as to what may be expected therefrom. In older countries, however, the experience of the workers in their distinctive organizations, while provoking their demand for a wider exercise of the suffrage, has served to train them for a wiser use of it. It is the expectation of similar, results in this country which is one of the chief grounds for the permanent hope reposed in the principle of manhood suffrage.

In older countries the workers' experience in demanding manhood suffrage, so that the members of their organizations might make a wise use of it, ought to teach organized labor here of the waste they are making of their birthright. This being the period of centralization, and waste elimination by its utilization, the centralizers simply make use of the collection such as has been experimented with by the unions to redound to the benefit of labor. SOCIALIST NIGHT SCHOOL.

Eager-Pupils Attend the Second Less"Primitive Industry" the Topic for Discussion.

The second lesson of the Chicago Night School of Political Economy, on ast Tuesday, was even more eagerly attended than the opening meeting. The ubject of the evening's lesson Primitive Industry Prior to the Comng of Slavery." It was contended by Comrade Mills in this lesson that whenever man made his appearance on the arth he did not come naked, helpless and without experience. On the contrary he began his career with the inperitance from his animal ancestry of all the skill, experience and instinct low possessed by the most highly developed creatures outside the human

Comrade Mills further contended that under primitive industry the private ownership of land, of any enterprizes where large companies of men were employed, of great herds or of slaves was unknown: that private property in land and in slaves were both developed during the later years of barbarism and introduced the coming of the era of of the Landrag of Saxe-Gotha. There ivilization.

One of the most striking and convincing things of the evening's work was the long list of authorities on primitive industry in whose books there does occur even an index reference to the subject of slavery. The evening's esson was closed by Comrade Mills by reading the following from his new book on "How to Work for Socialism:

book on "How to Work for Socialism:"

In the infancy of our race our ancestors fed themselves from roots and fruits and nuts gathered from the wilds which no man called his own. From a meaningless babel of unformed words, aided by gestures and grimace, in associated effort they produced a language, by associated effort they fought off the beasts of prey and, standing together, they preserved the race of man from annihilation. To nuts and fruits they added fish and built and kept a common fire from which each could carry living coals, and no one said "This fire is mine." They contrived and used the bow and arrow and no one claimed returns from another's toi. Woman's ingenuity and skill and toil made and used pottery and the simple tools of the garden and the field, but no woman said "This field is mine."

In the early youth ofthis race of ours, primeval man, with no tusks in his mouth, no claws on his hands, no hoofs on his heels, no horns on his head and no wings on his back, acting by tribes, tamed and made helpers and companions of the individualistic tusks and claws and hoofs and horns and wings, and made these stronger creatures do his bidding, to bring him food and drink, but no one said "This herd is mine."

The speaker talked straight from the shoulder, and showed conclusively the superiority of the ballot compared with the strike as a weapon for the emancipation of the working class. He said that the British laborers were fast learning by bitter experience the uselessness of depending upon their organized strength in the economic field alone, and that their attention was now turning towards political action as the only effective method. His address was listened to with marked attention by the audience, and was supplemented with speeches by T. J. Morgan and A. M. Simons.

It is the fear of what will then ensue which causes the serious import.

What will be done if ruinous competition threatens in the events of its possibility? No doubt agitation will to protect home labor. But this is danto try to please those who would skin gerous and for that reason these powers that be are alarmed. For in the discussion which would precede any action in the matter there would be great chances for the laboring men to get their eyes opened, and that is what the plutocrats don't want. Wait and see: No, don't wait, you will see any-way, for whichever way the thing is declded there are events ahead, so what is needed is to gird our loins for the onflict. Get the ammunition ready to instruct the ignorant as soon as the golden opportunity is presented

all Locals and Branches of the So-cial Democratic Party in the State of Illinois. Greeting:-In accordance with a resolution adopted by the municipal convention of the Social Democratic party. held at Ulich's Hall, December 15, 190 you are hereby requested to send one (1) delegate to a special state convention, to be held in the city of Chicago. Saturday, February 9th, 1901 at 8 p. m., for the purpose of bringing about a more effective union of Socialists of this state. In battling against capitalism it is of the utmost importance that the Socialists of this state have an effective organization so that a systematic agitation and distribution of literature may be made possible. The vote cast for the Social Democratic ticket at the last concerned, and the rapid growth of the movement here has already shown the wisdom of this action. Like results may be looked for from like action all over the state, and to arrange for this promptly delegated convention.

As the traveling expenses of delegates will be too heavy for small locals at long distances from this city, it is proposed to equalize the burden by calling on each local of the state and each branch of Local Chicago to pay $3 toward the traveling expenses of dele-

It is necessary that the locals and his branches should at once put themselver to the task of collecting this amount, as it must be in the hands of the committee not later than the 31st of January, as this convention MUST be ma

The speaker predicted a great growth for the Socialist movement in England in the next few years. The proletariat, at present drunk with patriotism and jingoism, would presently wake up and find that they had the piper yet to pay. Besides England industrially was on the verge of entering into one of its periodical eras of depression. This period of depression would open up a great opportunity to Socialists. There will be a great revulsion of feeling against the Conservatives, and the Liberal party, being the intermediate force between capital and labor, has been smashed irrecoverably. From now on the political struggle will more and assume the character of the straight class struggle. The speaker assured the American comrades that English Socialists would be ready for the coming crisis in their country.

Comrade Curran finished by predict-ing that America would take the lead in ushering in the co-operative commonwealth. Capitalism was further developed in this country than else where and in consequence the climax would come sooner." He congratulated the American Socialists upon their position of world-prominence and upon the able manner in which they were educating the proletariat to the coming in a most attractive and elegant style, green cloth, gilt top, the very style desirable for a gift.

Socialism and Modern Science is our latest production of Enrico Ferri's delightful literary works. This is another popular treatise on scientific socialism with the aim, as the author says in his preface, "To point out, and in nearly all cases by rapid and concise observations, the general relations existing between contemporary socialism and the whole trend of modern scientific thought,"

The characteristic features of this valuable book are the scientific refutation of the many incorrect and insincere oppositions to the philosophy of Karl Marx, and the able manner in which Darwinism and socialism are analyzed, compared and proven to agree both in fundamental as well as in evolutionary phases,

Socialism and Modern Science will be especially welcomed because it Uncompromising Expoaffords scientific solutions to the many misleading oppositions to social-

The appendix contains the author's reply to a letter of Herbert Unflinching Advocate of Spencer and to an anti-socialist book of M. Garofalo. "It shows that the present state of social science, and of the struggle between ultra-conservative orthodoxy, which is blinded to the sad truths of contemporary life by its traditional syllogism and innovating heterodoxy which is ever becoming more marked among the learned, as well as strengthening its hold upon the collective intelligence.

The price of Socialism and Modern Science is one dollar. To make this book a popular Christmas gift we offer the Eighteenth Brumaire, (price 25 cents), grtais with orders for Socialism and Modern Science sent in before January 1st, 1901, or Socialism and Modern Science and a cloth copy of The Silver Cross, (price 50 cents), for $1.25.

The Socialist Campaign Book of 1900.

The publication of this work marks an era in socialist propaganda in America in that it places in the hands of every socialist worker the information and material necessary to his work in as attractive a form as the material hitherto only accessible to the capitalist parties, while at the same time this material has been illuminated and explained in the light of the socialist philosophy. This makes of the book at once a store-house of knowledge for the socialist speaker and agitator and the best propagandist work yet published, for it not only presents the doctrines of socialism in clear, convincing form, but accompanies the reasoning with the facts from which it is drawn in a manner that can be the convenience of th conviction to any unprejudiced mind. The table of contents given herewith will give a good idea of the plan and scope of the work. The first two chapters are not simply a recital of isolated facts, but so correlate the historical data as to cause them to form a convincing argument of the trend of industrial development. The chapters on trusts bring out their two-fold character by which they mark at the same time a higher degree of economic development and a more intense exploitation of the producer. In "Labor's Demands and Capitalism's Answers" the efforts of organized labor to secure relief in "labor legislation" through capitalist parties is treated exhaustively and should prove a convincing argument with any trade-unionist for the necessity of independent political action along socialist lines. The chapter on "Wages and Living Expenses" is a careful examination of our present "prosperity" and a complete. is a careful examination of our present "prosperity," and a complete, refutation of the claim that the laborers have shared in industrial advance. The discussion of "How the Working Class Live" is written by one of the foremost students of this subject in this country, and embraces much material hitherto unpublished. The last two chapters, on the "Capitalist Political Platforms" and "The Growth of Socialism," complete the line of argument furnished by the facts in the preceding chapters, making of the whole work a powerful brief
